MAN IN WHOSE BED LINCOLN DIED IS NOW IN ALMSHOUSE HERE

Friends of Thomas Proctor, Once Well-Known Lawyer, Now a Pauper, Confirm Story.

LIVED OPPOSITE THEATRE

Directed Men Bearing President to the House After Shooting, Old Man Tells Visitor.

CAN'T RECALL DETAILS NOW

Histories Vague on Points Revealed by Persons Who Knew of the Incident Years Ago.

Thomas Proctor, in whose bed Abraham Lincoln is said to have died, is a pauper in the City Home on Blackwell's Island. He was formerly a lawyer of standing in the city and an amateur naturalist, having been a friend of John Burroughs. A breakdown of his health about ten years ago caused him to lose his grip and in 1915 he became an inmate of the City Home.

Proctor, when 17 years old, was a clerk in the War Department and had a room in the lodging house opposite Ford's Theatre, where Lincoln was shot by Wilkes Booth, as set forth in the story told by him and corroborated with some detail by his friends. On returning from an entertainment, Proctor reached the lodging house in Tenth Street shortly after 10 P. M., just as a number of men crossed the street, carrying the form of Lincoln, already unconscious from a bullet in the brain. Proctor directed the party to his room, where the President was laid upon his bed.

According to his story, said to be corroborated by a contemporary woodcut of the death-bed scene, Proctor was in the room at 7:20 o'clock the following morning when the President breathed his last. Proctor is thus probably one of the two surviving witnesses of the death of Abraham Lincoln, the other being his son, Robert Lincoln.

Owner of House Confirms Story.

James S. Kelly, a sculptor, living in the West Side Y. M. C. A., who visited Proctor on Blackwell's Island last Sunday in order to get the old man's impressions of the group around the deathbed, said yesterday that he had been informed by Osborne H. Oldroyd, present owner of the house where Lincoln died and owner of a collection of Lincoln relics, that Proctor had been the occupant of the room and was present at the death of Lincoln. Timothy Daly of 286 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn, said yesterday that twenty years ago Proctor, then an active and able lawyer, had first told him the story. He added that Proctor never sought to make capital of the incident and told only a few intimate friends about it.

During his career as a lawyer Proctor was associated with Frederic R. Coudert Sr., Lord, Day & Lord, and Matthew Daly, Eugene F. Daly and Daniel Daly. As a naturalist and botanist Proctor occasionally made scientific trips with Burroughs and other scientists, according to Mr. Daly. He said that an American naturalist, Nicholas Pike, had named a newly discovered bug after Proctor.

The well-known histories of Abraham Lincoln are silent on the subject of the occupant of the room in which Lincoln died and are contradictory in their descriptions of the room itself.

The memory of the old man is faint on most topics, and yesterday he could do little more than hold the thread of a conversation for a few sentences. He was in Ward I. A number of old men, standing in a silent group outside the door of the long building, nodded when Proctor was asked for, and pointed to another old man sitting on a chair between the eighth and ninth cots from the door.

Says He Recalls Lincoln's Death.

He was a thin old man of middle height, with short white hair, a white mustache and thin, slightly florid face. He was bareheaded, a farmer's hat of coarse straw, with big brim, lying on the coat beside him. He wore the uniform khaki coat and trousers, with his pajama coat visible underneath, and gray socks falling around the top of army shoes. When asked whether he remembered the death of Lincoln, he said:

"Oh, yes, indeed. He died in my room. That is quite true. I stayed there all night and was there when he died."

He thought hard on the subject, wrinkling his brow and evidently causing himself pain, when he tried to recollect the details.

Mr. Daly had said that twenty years ago, when Proctor's mind was normal, he had said he shared the room with a young army officer then assigned to duty in the War Department, where Proctor was employed in a civilian capacity. The old man was not clear on that point. At the question whether his family lived in the same house, the white eyebrows contracted into broken lines, as he again tried to look backward into the almost complete darkness of his memory. Finally he said that he thought his parents had lived there, too. He added that his father, Richard, was a ship captain who had been around the world several times, and said that his parents were still living, a statement which indicated his vague grasp of things, because this would make them well over 100 years old. When asked about the others present, he said, "I can't remember now. Some days I can remember, but I can't today."

Knew All About Frogs.

Proctor asserted that he had a distinct recollection of the heavy breathing of the President during the seven hours that he lived. His memory was very faint on his own career as a lawyer

West Hungary Is Proclaimed As an Independent Republic

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 30.—Herr Friedrich, former Hungarian Prime Minister, has proclaimed an independent republic in West Hungary to frustrate the handing over of the territory to Austria.

In a fire-eating speech in Budapest, Friedrich, who is the leader of the Karlist Party, declared for the ruthless annihilation of all foreigners entering West Hungary, and that the spectre of the Entente was not much to be feared.

The proclamation of an independent West Hungary is considered to be of a purely Karlist character, all the officers leading the Hungarian forces being Legitimists. The Austrian Government declares itself uninfluenced by the event, insisting on the necessity of the prompt evacuation of West Hungary.

DE VALERA AGREES TO LONDON PARLEY

RELIEF IS FELT IN ENGLAND

Conference Regarded as Greatest Step Toward Settling the Centuries-Old Conflict.

LONDON, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—In a brief, business-like message, Eamon de Valera informed Premier Lloyd George today of his acceptance of the Premier's invitation for a conference in London Oct. 11 on the Irish question, thus clearing the way for a momentous attempt to settle the centuries old problem between Ireland and Great Britain.

Relief was expressed in official circles here tonight that the difficulties which for some time seemingly threatened to prevent another conference had apparently been cleared away by the message of Mr. de Valera. The reply raised no question as to the status of the Sinn Fein delegates, and no further correspondence between the Premier and the Irish leader is expected. The text of the reply follows:

> We received your letter of invitation to a conference in London, Oct. 11, with a view to ascertaining how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations.
> Our respective positions have been stated and understood, and we agree that conference, not correspondence, is the most practical and hopeful way to an understanding.
> We accept the invitation. Our delegates will meet you in London on the date mentioned and explore every possibility of a settlement by personal discussion.

The formula of the association of Ireland with the other communities of the British Empire, for which the mind of Mr. Lloyd George was responsible, has finally brought together two sides to the long drawn-out controversy on terms which it is considered here involve surrender by neither side.

Conference Will Be Unprecedented.

The conference is expected to be unprecedented in the history of Great Britain, if not of Europe. One result of it will be the cancellation of all hopes of Mr. Lloyd George attending the Washington Armament Conference, because the country will look to his diplomacy to steer the empire through the waters of the complicated undertaking. The belief was expressed in high quarters tonight that if Mr. Lloyd George is successful in the task of bringing about peace in Ireland he will have achieved greater honors than could be attained at Washington.

Although no names have been formally announced, it is understood that the Sinn Fein delegates to the conference will be Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein; Michael Collins, Finance Minister and commander of the Irish Army; Robert C. Barton, who has been a leading figure in the negotiations; Eamon J. Duggan, Sinn Fein Member of Parliament, and George Gavin Duffy, who has been representative of the Sinn Fein abroad. These men were to have been the delegates to the conference at Inverness, which was called off by Premier Lloyd George.

The program of the conference remains to be decided. Two courses appear to be possible, the conference of leaders merely to frame the general platform determining Ireland's position and writing down the main planks of the agreement, as was done in Mr. Lloyd George's original offer to the Sinn Fein, and delegation of the work of arranging the new plan of Irish Government to other negotiators.

An alternative is that the conference sit as long as is necessary to settle the details of Ireland's relations with the remainder of the United Kingdom. That, it is thought, would mean long and absorbing work, which would leave the members of the Imperial Cabinet concerned little time for other affairs of the Government.

It appears that the Premier himself can hardly give the necessary time because the problem of unemployment already is engaging his attention and is likely to become more important before it becomes less so.

Beyond this point there is little speculation as yet, although the possibility is advanced that the Sinn Feiners may ask for the restoration of Ireland as a kingdom under the British Crown, for which growing sentiment among important sections of the Irish is declared to have been making itself felt.

Considered Greatest Step.

While it is generally recognized that the calling of the conference does not necessarily mean a solution of the Irish problem is at hand, it is considered the

'STOLEN' CARS USED IN POLICE 'JOY RIDES,' SAYS INVESTIGATOR

Gasoline Receipts Show Cars Were Run on Sundays and Holidays at City's Expense.

$1,604 FOR GAS IN 7 MONTHS

PRINTING BIDS QUESTIONED

Many Fictitious, Says Wallstein—Brown Attacks Gratuities in Weekly Summation.

Stolen automobiles have been used by the police, presumably for "joy rides," after their recovery by detectives, according to police records submitted to the Meyer legislative investigating committee at City Hall yesterday by Leonard M. Wallstein, associate counsel, and attested by Leo J. McDermott, one of the committee's investigators.

Mr. McDermott testified that he had examined receipts taken from policemen at the police gasoline stations for five months in 1919 and two months in 1920, all that he had been able to obtain. These showed on their face, he said, that 4,060 gallons of gasoline, worth $1,218, and 516 quarts of oil, worth $82.56, had been issued for use in stolen cars in the five months of 1919, and that 1,288 gallons of gasoline, worth $386.40, and 142 quarts of oil, worth $22.72, had been issued for similar use in the two months of 1920.

The record of gasoline and oil issued at the city's expense for use in one Buick car, listed as "stolen," was interesting. It showed that 1,820 gallons of city-owned gasoline and 216 quarts of city-owned oil had been used in this particular automobile during the five months of May to September, 1919, inclusive.

Drawings Heavy Before Holidays.

Mr. Wallstein pointed out that the issuance of gasoline and oil for these stolen automobiles, recovered by detectives and supposed to be stored in a depository provided by the city until returned to their rightful owners, was particularly heavy on Saturdays and the days immediately preceding the holidays.

Mr. McDermott said he had prepared an analysis of the receipts which showed this was a fact. He also gave figures to show that the Police Department had been pretty well motorized during the Hylan administration. He testified that since Jan. 1, 1918, the department had purchased 40 passenger automobiles, at a cost of $48,075.57; 276 motorcycles, at a cost of $120,718.20; 21 patrol wagons, at a cost of $21,937.68, and six motor trucks, at a cost of $20,708, a total of $211,439.45.

Mr. Wallstein further showed by the testimony of Philip Mann, controller of the Packard Motor Company, that Dr. John A. Harriss, Special Deputy Police Commissioner, purchased on March 4, 1918, from that company a twin six seven-passenger touring car, monogrammed "R. E. E.," for $4,622.40 and that the number of the motor was 151,072. This is the automobile which Police Commissioner Enright has testified Dr. Harriss gave him the use of so long as he should remain in office.

Other Cars Purchased.

Mr. Mann also produced the orders for a twin six Packard touring car, motor No. 151,223, and monogrammed "J. F. H.," which was sold to the Police Department for $4,248.40 on Feb. 28, 1918, and for a used Packard limousine, motor No. 153,520, placed by John J. Glennon, Chief Clerk of the Mayor's Office. Mr. Mann said this car had been charged by mistake to the Police Department and that the charge was transferred to the Mayor's office.

Mr. Wallstein said he understood that, although the records seemed to show a charge of this car to the city, it had really been paid for by Mayor Hylan personally. He said his only purpose in introducing this record was to identify the number of its motor for reasons which would appear later in the inquiry.

Mr. Wallstein charged that false and fictitious bids for printing were on file in the Police Department, drawn for the purpose of evading the charter provision that all contracts involving the expenditure of more than $1,000 must be by public letting.

A number of bids for printing work, ostensibly signed by representatives of printing firms, were offered in evidence. One of these was declared to be false by Samuel Rabinowitz, president of the Burland Printing Company. Samuel Weinstein, a stockholder in the same firm, denied having signed two other bids on file in the Police Department.

Larger Printing Contracts Split.

It was alleged that in cases where contracts exceeded $1,000 they had been split into two parts to permit their informal award without public letting.

In most of the cases considered, the police printing contracts were awarded to Oberley & Newall.

Senator Brown's weekly summation had as its sequel the usual weekly protest by Senator Bernard Downing, a Democratic member of the committee. Senator Brown criticised the stock transactions of certain police officials and the acceptance of what he called a $12,000 "gratuity" from Allan A. Ryan by Commissioner Enright as destructive of the morale of the rank and file of the police force.

Senator Brown called attention to the fact that testimony had shown that in 1919 the cost of policing the piers in New York City was $41,600,000, while the budget for the Police Department was only $20,662,000, or more than twice the cost of policing the entire city. Senator

Caring for 900,000 Idle Ex-Service Men Will Be Undertaken by American Legion

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 30.—The task of caring for the 900,000 unemployed ex-service men of the country will be taken over by the American Legion, it was announced today at a special unemployment conference at Legion Headquarters.

The conference, which was called by Commander John G. Emery, was attended by national officers and members of a committee which had been appointed to investigate unemployment among members of the legion.

Data gathered by the committee and presented at the meeting showed that approximately 900,000 veterans were out of work two weeks ago. It was shown that 21.5 per cent. of the ex-service men are unemployed and that those employed had experienced an average cut in wages of 32.5 per cent. since the war.

The findings of the legion's investigating committee were said to have prompted today's action. President Harding was notified of the decision and instructions for taking care of the jobless World War veterans were sent to the 11,000 legion posts. The instructions to the posts asked that every effort be made to secure employment "for our buddies and see that they have food and shelter."

PLAN TO CONTROL WORLD'S WIRELESS

Delegates From United States, France, Germany and Great Britain Organizing Company.

BACKED BY GOVERNMENTS

Each Country Will Retain Power Over Respective Territory Under Proposed Paris Agreement.

PARIS, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—An international wireless company for the control and development of the greater part of the world's radio facilities is in process of organization here by representatives of the wireless interests of Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States. Daily conferences are being held by the delegates, who expect to complete arrangements in two weeks.

The American delegation is headed by Owen D. Young, Vice President of the General Electric Company, and includes Edward J. Nally and J. W. Elwood, President and Secretary respectively of the Radio Corporation of America, and a large staff of experts. The Westinghouse interests also are represented.

British interests are represented by Godfrey Isaacs, of the British Marconi Company; those of France by E. Tiradeau, of the French Wireless Company, and those of Germany by C. Shapiro of the Telefunken Company.

The proposed agreement is the outgrowth of a desire of the four countries to place wireless on a sound commercial basis. The Governments concerned have approved the conference and, it is understood, will back the organization which is expected to be formed.

Wireless facilities of the four countries will, in effect, be pooled, but each country under the plan will retain control over its respective territory. It is thus hoped to eliminate great waste occasioned in the past by duplication of equipment by the different organizations, and at the same time to place at the disposal of the international company unlimited funds for an extensive program of development and research.

The present conference followed the international radio congress, which recently ended two months' work in Paris and which recommended to all the Governments represented greater use of wireless and closer co-operation between the big powers.

It has been estimated that there are about 150 wave lengths in the world, and one of the problems of the present meeting is to divide these waves. Another aim is to make wireless available for the daily transmission of world news, assuring to news interests the same certainty of delivery as cable companies now are able to give, but at a lowered cost. With an international agreement and the funds to be placed at the disposal of the company, the experts say this can be done. As the United States initiated the meeting it is expected American interests will have the most prominent part in the proposed company.

MRS. J. R. ROOSEVELT JR. ACCUSED OF SLANDER

Mrs. Schultz of Lynbrook, L. I., Itemizes Four Occasions and Sues for $40,000.

Damages of $40,000 for alleged slander are sought in an action begun yesterday by Mrs. Florence S. Schultz, of Lynbrook, L. I., against Mrs. James R. Roosevelt Jr., whose husband is a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt, and grandson of William Astor. George J. Tapper of 200 Fifth Avenue, counsel for Mrs. Schultz, said last night that the summons and complaint was served on Mrs. Roosevelt at her home in Lynbrook on Thursday, and that the papers were filed in Nassau County yesterday. Mrs. Schultz is the wife of Fred Schultz, proprietor of a dyeing establishment at 100 Wooster Street.

According to Mr. Tapper efforts were made to stop the defendant from making accusations painful to Mrs. Schultz, and only when these failed was it decided to resort to the courts. Remarks detrimental to the character of Mrs. Schultz are alleged to have been made at Mrs. Schultz's home on two occasions by Mrs. Roosevelt. On two other occasions Mrs. Roosevelt is alleged to have made damaging remarks about Mrs. Schultz to Mrs. Adeline Kruger, whose daughter was living at the home of Mrs. Schultz, and to Otto Kruger, father of the girl. For each of these four alleged offenses $10,000 is asked.

The Roosevelts are now living apart. When James R. Roosevelt Jr. was a senior at Harvard in 1910 he surprised New York society in June, 1910, by marrying Sadie Meisinger.

SENATE CLEARS WAY TO RATIFY TREATIES

Unanimous Agreement Limiting Debate on Formal Peace Assures Action by Oct. 15.

OPPOSITION LACKS VOTES

Reichstag Quickly Gives Ratification, Only the Communists Opposing It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Ratification of the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary by the middle of October is assured by a unanimous consent agreement reached in the Senate today to limit debate to one hour for each Senator on the resolution of ratification, and not more than ten minutes on each reservation, after Oct. 14.

The agreement provides that the treaties shall be kept continuously before the Senate beginning tomorrow, but the Senate may proceed with consideration of the tax bill if no member is prepared to discuss the treaties. It is the belief of the Republican leaders that the treaties will be fully discussed in the next ten days and that the final vote upon them will be taken late on Oct. 15.

Republican leaders said tonight that this agreement and the final ratification of the German treaty by the Reichstag today assured the consummation of peace between Germany and the United States before the assembling of the conference on the limitation of armaments on Nov. 11. It was stated that the opposition of Democrats was not strong enough to prevent ratification.

The agreement on the procedure was not reached until the dry forces had the assurance of the Republican leaders that the conference report on the Willis-Campbell bill would come to a vote before the adjournment of the special session.

Senator Sterling, representing the drys, refused to permit unanimous consent when Senator Lodge made the proposal early in the day. When it was renewed at 5 o'clock Senator Sterling said that after a talk with the Republican leaders he was ready to vote for the agreement, having been assured that the conference report on the beer bill would be taken up immediately following the disposal of the tax bill and that no adjournment would be had until the report on the beer bill had been disposed of finally. Senator Reed said that, speaking for the "wets," he had entered into no such agreement, but neither of these Senators objected to the unanimous consent.

This decision pledges the Senate to a program which will occupy its attention almost exclusively until the regular session beginning in December. The tax bill cannot be passed, it is thought, until the middle of November, unless the forces opposing it suddenly collapse. After that time about the only matter of any moment will be the beer bill and legislation for the relief of railroads, with little likelihood that the railroad relief bill can be acted upon before the regular session.

President Harding's suggestion that the vote on the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls be postponed until a more opportune time, has had no influence upon the Senate. The unanimous consent agreement, in addition to providing for the treaty debate, stipulated that its operation should not interfere with the vote on the canal tolls bill on Oct. 10. Senator Borah, author of the bill, obtained unanimous consent for a vote on the repeal before the recess of Congress, and is determined that his bill shall be acted upon despite the objections of the Administration. Canvass of the Senate today showed that the repeal would have a large majority. While the conference on the limitation of armaments will sit with the world at peace, if the treaties are ratified by Nov. 11, the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls will inject another issue into the international situation.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—No historic glamour nor picturesqueness surrounded the Reichstag's ratification of the treaty with the United States today. The session opened at noon. The drab scene in a sparsely filled house dragged along for an hour, with the Government answering so-called little questions. Then the bill embodying the treaty text came before the house, which began to fill slowly.

ADOPTS PROGRAM FOR QUICK RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED

Washington Conference's Emergency Measures Touch Wide Range of Industries.

ASKS COMMUNITIES TO ACT

PUBLIC WORKS ARE URGED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The National Conference on Unemployment today adopted an emergency program for the immediate relief of the idle workers of the United States, estimated to be between 3,500,000 and 5,500,000, and adjourned to Oct. 10, when a permanent program will be considered after the submission of additional reports.

In the emergency program all who attempt to make profits "beyond the requirements of safe business practice or economic consistency" are condemned, and manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer are called on to cut prices to a level which may induce the public to buy.

The Steering Committee's report, containing the emergency measures recommended, follows:

Puts Problem Up to Communities.

"1. The conference finds that there are variously estimated from 3,500,000 to 5,500,000 unemployed, and there is a much greater number dependent upon them. There has been an improvement, but pending general trade revival this crisis in unemployment cannot be met without definite and positive organization of the country.

"2. The problem of meeting the emergency of unemployment is primarily a community problem. The responsibility for leadership is with the Mayor, and should be immediately assumed by him.

"3. The basis of organization should be an Emergency Committee representing the various elements in the community. This committee should develop and carry through a community plan for meeting the emergency, using existing agencies and local groups as far as practicable. One immediate step should be to co-ordinate and establish efficient public employment agencies and to register all those desiring work. It should co-ordinate the work of the various charitable institutions. Registration for relief should be entirely separate from that for employment.

"4. The personnel of the employment agencies should be selected with consideration to fitness only and should be directed to find the right job for the right man and should actively canvass and organize the community for opportunities for employment. The registry for employment should be surrounded with safeguards and should give priority in employment to residents. Employers should give preference to the Emergency Employment Agencies.

"5 The Emergency Committee should regularly publish the numbers dependent upon them for employment and relief that the community ay be apprised of its responsibility. Begging and unco-ordinated solicitation of funds should be prevented.

"6. Private houses, hotels, offices &c., can contribute to the situation by doing their repairs, cleaning and afterations during the Winter instead of waiting until Spring, when employment will be more plentiful.

"7. Public construction is better than relief. The municipalities should expand their school, street, sewage, repair work and public building to the fullest possible volume compatible with the existing circumstances. That existing circumstances are favorable is indicated by the fact that over $700,000,000 of municipal bonds, the largest amount in history, have been sold in 1921. Of these, $106,000,000 were sold by 333 municipalities in August. Municipalities should give short-time employment the same as other employers.

"8. The Governor should unite all State agencies for support of the Mayors and, as the superior officer, should insist upon the responsibility of city officials; should do everything compatible with circumstances in expedition of construction of roads, State buildings, &c.

Greatest Relief in Construction.

"9. The Federal authorities, including the Federal Reserve Banks, should expedite the construction of public buildings and public works covered by existing appropriations.

"10. A Congressional appropriation for roads, together with State appropriations amounting to many tens of millions of dollars already made in expectation of and dependence on Federal aid, would make available a large amount of employment. The conference under existing circumstances, notwithstanding various opinions as to the character of the legislation and the necessity for economy, recommends Congressional action at the present session in order that work may go forward.

"11. The greatest area for immediate relief of unemployment is in the construction industry, which has been artificially restricted during and since the war. We are short more than a million homes; all kinds of building and construction are far behind national necessity. The Senate Committee on Reconstruction and Production, in March of this year, estimated the total construction shortage in the country at between ten and twenty billion dollars. Considering all branches of the construction industries, more than two million people could be employed if construction were

Hamlet in Utah Is Wrecked By Second Earthquake Shock

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 30.—Reports were received here from Elsinore, one of the three hamlets in the southern part of Utah which were shaken severely yesterday by earthquake, recording another tremor this morning.

The latest shock added to the damage done yesterday. Nearly every building in the town was damaged and made untenable. The damage at Elsinore, Richfield and Monroe was estimated at nearly $100,000. So violent were the tremors that sections of rock weighing thousands of tons rumbled down from cliffs in nearby canyons. Twelve years ago the same section suffered heavy property loss from a series of quakes.

STORM IMPERILS BIG LINERS AT PIERS

Cunarder Scythia, With 1,100 Aboard, Is Driven Broadside Toward the Dock.

WIND SWEEPS MANY STATES

Buildings and Trees Are Blown Down—Lightning Kills One and Causes Fires.

A wind storm, sudden and severe, and rising in spots almost to hurricane velocity, smashed the belated heat wave over this city and its environs, Western New York, Pennsylvania and the whole lower lake region yesterday, leaving in its wake a heavy toll of property damage, some loss of life and a record of freaks. Some of these testified to the powerful grip of squalls that crumpled buildings, tossed roofs about as if they had been leaves, ripped away awnings, shattered windows, snapped off big trees and toppled over giant cranes, one of which was hurled into the Hudson at Hoboken.

Lightning accompanied the disturbance in many places, doing nothing worse than to create a dazzling and alarming display in the city, but resulting in the death of a New Yorker in York, Pa., firing a number of buildings in other places and striking a trolley car in Philadelphia.

Vessels on the Great Lakes and in the St. Lawrence, braving storm warnings, were caught in a heavy blow. Most of them extricated themselves after difficulties, or were helped to safe harbor, but one skipper lost his life when his craft was capsized.

Heavy loss was reported from the fruit belt along the south shore of Lake Ontario and the heavy crop in Union County, N. J., was hit hard.

Ends the Heat Wave.

Featuring the local storm, which did more damage in outlying districts than in the heart of the city, was a sudden drop in temperature. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon it was 84, a figure that had not been equalled on the last day of September since 1905. Three hours later it was 25 degrees cooler with a forecast that the grip of the hot wave definitely was ended and that it would be fair and cooler today.

The violent local phenomena were attributed to the low pressure area central over the St. Lawrence Valley, and were marked by a sudden barometric rise of one-tenth of an inch in a few minutes and a wind shift which swept the gauge around sharply from marking westerly to indicating varying easterly and southeasterly winds.

The full force of the storm burst over the western part of the city in mid-afternoon, just as several liners were reaching their piers. The driving rain, of which two and one-half inches fell inside two hours, most of it in sudden deluges, the lightning, the roaring wind and the cannonade of thunder created a situation that alarmed passengers and gave skippers of some of the big boats genuinely bad moments.

The new Cunarder, Scythia, docking on her second voyage to New York, was in grave peril when the wind at its fifty-four-miles-an-hour height caught her just as she was breasting into her pier.

Ship Drawn Toward Pier.

Not a line had been run out as the vessel, almost 20,000 tons, churned her way shoreward, portside on. The squall seized her and drove her toward the pier. The 1,100 passengers were gathered on the decks and the vessel, very light as to cargo, was riding high out of the water.

After giving her a disdainful fling, the wind sharply heeled her over and the Scythia listed so badly it seemed there was danger for an instant of her capsizing or being broadsided into the dock.

Captain William Prothero, on the bridge, found himself blinded by the rain that beat down in sheets. His voice was drowned in the roar of the wind and the booming of the thunder.

Before those on the crowded decks had realized the full significance of the ominous tilting under their feet, Captain Prothero had signalled for full speed astern and the big craft, rapidly gaining way, backed into the storm-tossed river, crowded with small craft, almost helpless in the sudden blow. Captain Prothero said afterward he knew their danger, but it was the only chance to keep his ship from heeling over or smashing into the dock, and he took it.

Once in the clear, he stilled the engines with another quick signal and dropped anchor in the middle of the river. By then the Scythia was standing straight up as any good ship should, and the danger was past.

"It was a tight corner," the Captain said afterward.

Aquitania's Decks Flooded.

Just before the Scythia started working into her dock at Pier 56 at the foot of West Fifteenth Street, the Aquitania slid alongside the pier a block below and her ship's company of 1,500 was in the act of debarking.

Hundreds were hurrying along her decks, baggage was strewn about—and

MANY INQUIRIES RECEIVED

Commission Tells How It Hopes to Compel Corporations to Accept City Ownership.

A readjustment of the Manhattan Elevated Railway lease, on the basis of a revaluation, will be an important feature of the proposed rehabilitation of the city's transit system, according to Governor Miller.

In a talk to newspaper men at the Hotel Plaza last night, Governor Miller indicated his belief that conditions within another year would demonstrate the sufficiency of a 5-cent fare to finance the city's entire street railway system.

"If it is a fair question—is there likely to be any disturbance or reappraisal or readjustment of the Manhattan lease?" Governor Miller was asked. The fixed annual charge which the Interborough has had to shoulder as a result of its lease of the Manhattan "L." is $4,200,000, 7 per cent. on a capitalization of $60,000,000. "A good many people regard that appraisal as over generous," the questioner suggested.

"The plan is to take the water out, you know," Governor Miller replied.

The Governor was asked if he had been correctly quoted in an interview which gave full credit for the preliminary plan made public by the Transit Commission to that body.

"I think I was," he replied. "I gave credit to whom credit was due."

Two Kinds of Home Rule

"Does the plan prove to your satisfaction that New York will have home rule in traction matters—a good many local people are still questioning that and are under the impression that the only way in which the city can have home rule in traction matters would be to leave it to Mayor Hylan?"

"Well," said the Governor with a smile, "the trouble is they do not know what home rule is. There are two kinds, the genuine and the spurious article."

"One newspaper suggests that there is a joker in the transit plan—that at the end of the trial year for which the plan provides there will be a raise in fare," it was suggested. "Do you think there is any likelihood of fares going beyond what they are now?"

"I think we will see considerable change in a year," the Governor said. "Of course, there isn't a very wide margin now between what could be earned under a properly co-ordinated system, with the elimination of things that can be eliminated, on the five-cent fare basis and what would be required—not a very wide margin. I think there is a chance that may be absorbed."

"There will be a lot of overhead expenditures eliminated if you can get the whole system under one management?" suggested an interviewer.

"Of course, there will be a lot of taxes eliminated, too," the Governor said.

Universal Transfers Provided For.

The Governor's attention was called to the fact that there had been much disappointment at the failure of the report to insure the immediate restoration of universal transfers.

"The plan contemplates universal transfers as rapidly as possible," said the Governor. "You know, people cannot expect, if they have been on the sick bed for a long time, to get up and walk by some one waving a magic wand over them."

"It has been suggested," the Governor was told, "that the Transit Commission when the time comes to negotiate with the other side might find itself negotiating with a lot of receivers instead of with owners; how would that affect the negotiations?"

"I do not think that will be serious so far as the negotiations are concerned," said the Governor.

"In event the Interborough should go into the hands of a receiver, could the court order an increased fare, or as an alternative, stop service?"

"The court cannot regulate fares; the Transit Commission has that right," the Governor said. "Receivers have been stopping service on many lines, but I do not think there is any doubt but that the Interborough lines will be operated, whatever happens. But, of course, a receivership would be a regrettable thing, wholly apart from its effect on this."

Inquiries Flood Commission.

Members of the Transit Commission were kept busy yesterday answering inquiries as to details of their plan for the reorganization and rehabilitation of the city's traction lines. There were inquiries from officials of the street railway companies. There were inquiries from important public officials. There were inquiries from bankers, business men and politicians. And there were inquiries from newspaper men. The questions for the most part were based upon the transit report, copies of which had been mailed to all the railroad officials, to all members of the Board of Estimate, and to many others who had applied for them. Public officials were especially eager to discover by what plan the commission hoped to compel railroad corporations and their security holders to accept the proposed plan.

Chairman McAneny talked for a long time with newspaper men. He discussed the situation freely with the understanding that he was not to be quoted.

How "Barometer Fund" Works.

One question asked many times was how the "barometer fund" would work to show the precise condition at all times of the net returns of the consolidated companies. It was explained thus:

Bonds issued by the city to holders of securities would yield a guaranteed interest of 5 per cent., with a possible 6½ per cent. Another one and a half per cent. would be set aside for the benefit of the operating force, which could be used as rewards for service and the creation of a pension fund, and for new lines. This would make a total of 8 per cent. which the system would have to earn before any money would be set aside as a reserve fund. If this amount were not earned it would mean an increase of fare sufficient to meet the deficit. If more were earned the surplus would go into the so-called barometer, or reserve fund. When this fund amounted to more than $15,000,000 the fare would be decreased.

Asked whether the reorganization would not necessitate an 8 cent fare, Mr. McAneny said an increase of only 1 cent, based on the present traffic, would total $25,000,000 a year. The saving in overhead should amount to many millions. Costs also would be largely reduced because the system would be practically free of tax charges. Therefore it was not likely that an increase of fare would be necessary, but even if it did become necessary it would not exceed 1 cent and it would not be long continued.

Looks for Reduction in Fares.

Mr. McAneny not only felt confident there would be no increase in fares; to the contrary there was an even chance that the fares would be reduced. He would not commit himself to a flat statement that there would be such a reduction although he was willing that it should appear as his hope.

Another question that perplexed many was how the commission could compel the Manhattan Railway Company to let go of the lease of the elevated lines to the Interborough Company. This lease calls for 7 per cent. interest on an arbitrary valuation of $60,000,000. It is in effect a perpetual lease. Many inquirers pointed out that the holders of these securities would surely not consent to sacrifice per cent. return for a 5 per cent. return with the added prospect of having their holdings cut in two through the squeezing out of water. It also was pointed out that the Interborough Company had spent about $48,000,000 in third tracking and extending the elevated lines and that it would be impossible to separate the property and still leave the lines of great public service.

The Commission's answer was that if the Interborough Company consented to turn over its property and the Manhattan Company refused to relinquish its lease, it might be possible to convince holders of Manhattan securities that they would not get 7 per cent. for more than a year and that later they might be compelled to come in on much harder terms than those proposed at present.

Five Per Cent. Better Than Nothing.

In other words the city, with its control over all public thoroughfares, and the Commission, with its control over operation, would soon find a way to convince the Manhattan owners that an assured five per cent. was much better than no return at all.

It was said there was a law which made the holders of all leases which run more than fifty years liable to payment of a tax on the return. The Manhattan lease is perpetual. It would also be possible, it was said, to have the Interborough Company thrown into bankruptcy, in which case the court would have the power of abrogating the lease. Therefore the members of the Commission were not worrying about the Manhattan railway feature of the situation.

Many persons wanted to know what would happen if any of the surface companies refused to turn over their property. This question, like those which had preceded it, was considered too delicate to be freely discussed. But the law gives the commission the power of taking into the reorganization only the lines that it wants and the commission might decide to reject those lines which would not come in and proceed to apply pressure, either by opposition lines or by some other form of moral suasion.

The longer Mr. McAneny discussed the situation the more certain it became that he was reasonably sure the commission's plan would be accepted by enough of the traction companies to form a fairly widespread municipal railroad system at the start.

Plan to Be Working by Summer.

That feature of the plan which guarantees to all holders of securities the same treatment is considered by the commission to be one of the strongest inducements for all to come in. The stablizing of the bonds by taking them out of Wall Street is considered another strong feature.

When Mr. McAneny was asked if there was not danger that the whole scheme might be set aside by a change in the present political complexion of the State he replied that it was the expectation of the commission to have the proposed plan in working condition before the beginning of next Summer, and that, therefore, the present law would give the commission sufficient protection while its plans were being completed. The valuation of the traction properties would be completed before the end of the year; public hearings in which practically all of the traction officials would testify would begin about Oct. 15 and be concluded in about a month, and the ninety days allowed the City Administration to decide its attitude toward the plan would expire early in the Spring, thus leaving the commission free to take its own way.

This estimate of time was taken without figuring legal delays that might intervene by court proceedings instituted by the city in case it proved antagonistic to the plan.

Within a short time the commission will issue reports on various phases of the situation. It is probable that the first report will deal with the building of new lines and the status of the present lines.

Traction Officials Silent.

Responsible city and traction officials refused to discuss the report of the commission in detail. It was explained that copies of it had not been received until too late for serious discussion. This was the attitude of Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and of Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Other railroad officials were equally chary. H. Hobart Porter, President and General Manager of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, said the report indicated that the commission had made a comprehensive study of the situation and that the plan submitted might be acceptably worked and prove to be a final solution of the transit problem.

In the main the comment among public officials ran along political lines, the Republicans speaking favorably of the report and the Democrats denouncing it. Mayor Hylan said he had not had time to digest the details and that he would try to make a statement concerning it today. His attitude is expected to be antagonistic. David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, after a short talk with the Mayor made this comment:

"It is just what we predicted when the bill was in Albany. The traction companies want to unload on a good cash customer worthless lines that are not paying and never will pay. This plan, in my opinion, is not feasible and would pave the way to an 8 or 10 cent fare."

O'Brien Attacks the Plan.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien also spoke disparagingly of the report.

"The issuance of the statement at this time and the contents thereof are clear proof that Curran is Miller's candidate and the Transit Commission is to be used for political purposes," he said. "The Transit Commission is not fair with the public. This preliminary statement, issued after several months of secret preparation, resembles the proclamations of Imperial Grand Wizard Simmons after a session on Stone Mountain.

"In proof of the unfairness of the commission and the utter lack of candor with the public, I call attention to the vague, indefinite, uncertain and elusive statements made with respect to the valuation of the properties which it is proposed to load upon the city. Governor Miller, in his several messages, presented one scheme of evaluation; the Knight-Adler bill, as first introduced, presented another. It was amended in the later days of the session to provide a different method.

"Commissioner Harkness in his Cincinnati address indicated a scheme of evaluation entirely different from all of these, and now, in this preliminary statement, issued on the eve of the city campaign, the commission fails to tell the public anything clear and definite about this all-important subject, the method and the scope of the evaluation of the railway property. The mind of the public in this city has had no confidence in Governor Miller's project at any time, and the suspicion and the fears of the public are confirmed by this preliminary, half-baked, concededly incomplete and camouflaged pronouncement issued yesterday to the newspapers.

"It is a pity and a shame that the Miller commission has so openly and so brazenly lent itself to political purposes and the bolstering of Curran's anemic candidacy by issuing at this time a skeletonized preliminary statement, manifestly designed to trick and fool the public with the pretense that 5-cent fares are to be guaranteed over all the city.

Says Law Violates Constitution.

"The transit law is an atrocious violation of the right of this great municipality. It violates various sacred provisions of the State and Federal Constitutions. It is wrong in principle. It is sinister in purpose, and the plan now skeletonized in this statement of the three 'supermen,' Messrs. McAneny, Harkness and O'Ryan, will never be consummated. I shall have to defer making a further statement until I have carefully analyzed it."

The Democratic Borough Presidents could find no good in the plan, and, like the other city officials, they contented themselves with condemning it generally and not indicating just what provisions would be antagonistic to the city's interests.

"The report is a farce comedy," was the only comment Edward Riegelmann, Borough President of Brooklyn, would make.

"It is very strange that the Transit Commission kept quiet on this so-called solution of the transit problem until now, a few weeks before election," said Borough President Maurice Connolly of Queens. "The advertisement that is being given this so-called solution should be charged to the campaign expenses of the Republican Party with the money being spent on the Meyer committee."

Henry Bruckner, Borough President of the Bronx, said:

"Why was all this legislation necessary when they were going to come out for the 5-cent fare which they knew everybody wanted? Now that the Mayoralty campaign is on, they come out for a 5-cent fare."

Calvin D. Van Name, Borough President of Richmond, said:

"I have nothing to say. The report is complicated and I want to wait and see what happens."

Curran to Study Report.

Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, the Republican-Coalition candidate for Mayor, said he was going to study the report carefully before making a statement.

Controller Charles L. Craig said he would take a copy of the report to the country with him and study it at his leisure. He said he had been able to read it only half through up to the present time.

"But it is quite evident," he said, "that what I said yesterday, based upon a synopsis of the report, is entirely correct—that is, this plan means an 8-cent fare and nothing else."

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith pleaded for more time before venturing an opinion.

Edward B. Doyle, director of the Bureau of Investigation and Research of the Real Estate Board of New York, said:

"I thoroughly approve of the plan, at least its outstanding features—that is, unification of all transit lines, an honest valuation of the transit companies' properties and private operation under municipal ownership."

F. J. H. Kracke, Appraiser of the Port of New York and a former member of the Public Service Commission, said:

"I have read with great interest the summary of the Transit Commission's plan. What the commission proposes is so fully and definitely stated that I am sure the people will give to them and their plans full approval. It shatters the irresponsible cry of the present incompetent City Administration that their work will be unfair to the best interests of the city. By giving full cooperation to what the commission proposes the people of the city will secure comfortable, adequate transit for years to come."

Says Plan Vindicates Socialists.

"The recommendations by the Transit Commission substantiate every charge that the Socialists have made as to the mismanagement of our transit facilities," said Judge Jacob Panken, the Socialist candidate for Mayor. "The Socialists of this city have for decades demanded the radical reorganization and the complete municipalization not only of the traction system but of all public utilities.

"There is a difference between municipal ownership as proposed by the commission and the old political parties and that which is proposed by the Socialists. Municipal ownership as proposed by the commission merely transfers the management of the railroad facilities from private corporations to politicians. The Socialist Party proposes that the railroads should be acquired by the city at the cost of production less depreciation, no allowances to be made for franchises of any kind. The roads should then be operated by the people.

"I am glad to see not only that the Socialists are vindicated, but that we were able through our constant and incessant agitation to compel an avowal on the part of the commission in favor of municipal ownership."

Robert W. Higbie of Richmond Hill, a member of the Transit Committee of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Jamaica Board of Trade, and one of the authorities on transit affairs in Queens Borough, said:

"The plan, in so far as it proposes the continuance of the five-cent fare, is extremely satisfactory. The unification of the transit lines in this city will result in economy and efficiency. Generally speaking, the plan has very desirable features for the good of the people of the City of New York."

Untermyer to Study Plan.

Samuel Untermyer said he was making a careful study of the report; that it could not be disposed of summarily, and that:

"The safeguarding of the five-cent fare is one of the most important issues the people have before them. I shall study the provisions of the report most carefully."

George W. Baker, Republican nominee for Borough President of Brooklyn, said:

"The report is so clear and comprehensive that if it is carried out it will give to the people of this city the much-needed relief from the present broken-down transportation facilities which have so seriously affected all of us."

Travis H. Whitney, former Public Service Commissioner, said:

"The report vindicates the foresight and aggressive statesmanship of Governor Miller, for few people dared to believe he would back and promote a plan for any such wholesale unification of our traction system. The report does more for home rule than its wildest advocates asked for. The plan, if successfully worked out, will give the next Mayor a very great opportunity through the appointment of half the membership of the Board of Control to make the city's power felt in traction in a more direct and complete way than was ever known before."

TRANSIT STOCKS IN SLUMP.

But Interborough Bonds and B. R. T. Certificates Are in Demand.

Sharp decline in the stocks and equally sharp decline in a few of the issues of the bonds of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company yesterday followed the publication of the plan of settling the financial difficulties of the company by the commission. Brooklyn Rapid Transit common sold at $7 per share, a decline of $2, while the B. R. T. certificates declined to $3.50, a decline of $2.50.

On the other hand, the 7 per cent. bonds were in keen demand, and advanced to $57.50, a gain of 2¼. There was less activity in the certificates of deposit for the B. R. T. 5s, which sold at $30, up ½. The Interborough issues were listless and excited little attention, the changes being confined to mere fractions.

TIMES MAN WINS WIRELESS CONTEST

Seutter, World's Record Holder, Receives 44 1-3 Words Per Minute Without Error.

AT THE ELECTRIC SHOW

Gets Silver Cup Given by Edison Electric Company for Winning Championship.

B. G. Seutter, wireless operator of THE NEW YORK TIMES transatlantic radio receiving station and holder of the world speed record for receiving, won the American open championship yesterday held in conjunction with the Electric Show in the Seventy-first Armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. In the finals Mr. Seutter took forty-four and one-third words a minute for two minutes, with no mistakes. George C. Otten of the Radio Corporation finished second, with two mistakes, and José Seran, a Chilean, third with four errors.

There were thirty-nine entrants. The contest was held under the auspices of the National Amateur Wireless Association, but only twelve qualified for the finals. In the final contest the twelve men were started off at a speed of forty words a minute, and gradually were eliminated until only four were left.

Mr. Seutter's world record, made at a similar contest last March in the Pennsylvania Hotel, never was in danger. In that contest he made a speed of 48 3-5 words a minute.

When a speed of forty-four and one-third words per minute was reached yesterday it was found that Mr. Seutter was the only operator who had a perfect copy, so he was declared the winner. Mr. Seutter received a cup, suitably inscribed, which was given by the Edison Electric Company. The judge of the contest was Arthur Batcheller, Chief Radio Inspector of the New York District of the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Seutter's radio experience dates from 1913. During the World War he was in the United States Navy, stationed at Bar Harbor, Me. While there Mr. Seutter was commended for the excellent radio results established. He was one of the navy operators especially assigned to receive confidential radio messages from the U. S. S. George Washington during her trips to France and back with President Wilson.

He did various other interesting things, such as receiving position reports and messages direct from the navy's seaplanes on their transatlantic flight. He succeeded in keeping in communication with the NC-3 until she took to the waters of the Azores, a distance of 1,100 miles, although before the flight it was conceded the NC boat's radio equipment was capable of transmitting only a distance of fifty miles.

Mr. Seutter still holds the record for receiving the greatest number of messages per hour from a distance of 500 miles or more, achieving this record when he averaged eighty completed messages an hour, received from the army transport Leviathan in the war.

THE TIMES transatlantic radio receiving station has been in operation since Feb. 1, 1920, and its station staff consists of expert operators, F. E. Meinholtz being in charge. Its work consists of receiving press dispatches for THE TIMES direct from stations in London, Berlin and Paris. In addition to this service, the station also maintains a close watch for signals of distress at sea.

THE TIMES station is in the editorial rooms of the Times Annex Building.

SUES WRITER ON COOLIDGE.

Washburn, His Biographer, Charges Plagiarism in Articles by Lowry.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Robert M. Washburn, one of the former Roosevelt leaders in Massachusetts, has filed suits for temporary and permanent injunctions and for damages in the United States District Court against Edward J. Lowry, author of Washington and Vineyard Haven, for an article in the New Republic entitled "Calvin the Silent," advertised as a chapter in a book about to be published entitled "Washington Close Ups."

Washburn alleges in his bill of complaint that he is the author of a book entitled "A Brief Biography of Calvin Coolidge," that Lowry in violation of the rights of Washburn and in an infringement of the copyright law is now publishing a series of articles entitled "Calvin the Silent," which, according to Washburn, are in many parts verbatim copy of portions of his book. He further asks that Lowry be made to account for his profits, so that Washburn can figure damages.

KILLED BY AMBULANCE.

Manufacturer Victim While Bringing Jewish New Year Gifts Home.

Samuel Wall of 316 East 188th Street, a manufacturer of parquet floors, was killed by a Lincoln Hospital ambulance at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street yesterday. He had been buying presents for his wife and two children in anticipation of the Jewish New Year's and was on his way home. The ambulance struck him as the driver swerved to avoid a collision with a motor truck coming through the Transverse Road. Dr. Henry Blum put the victim into the ambulance and took him to Lincoln Hospital at 140th Street and Convent Avenue in seven minutes, but Wall was dead.

then came the downpour that seemed like a cloudburst. The ship's scuppers were choked in no time and soon there was a foot of water along the promenade deck. Many passengers were nervous as they waded for shelter, but officers and stewards went among them, assuring them that discomfort was the worst that could beset them and soon the business of debarkation was going on as usual.

The heavy rain did some damage and caused much discomfort throughout the city and at its height streets in mid-Manhattan were almost as deserted as those of the smallest village at midnight.

Those in Central Park who sought shelter under the arches of the bridges were marooned when streams of water from one to two feet deep began pouring through the arches. They stood on park benches and called for help until word of their predicament finally was received at the Arsenal station.

Captain Jacob Brown and Sergeant Frank Connor went out in a patrol wagon and rescued the stranded ones by driving the wagon under the bridge arches and allowing them to step from the benches into the wagon.

Much water accumulated in various parts of the Park, due to congested drain basins and the inability of others to take care of the flow. After the storm had subsided Park Department forces cleared the basins, and the water soon was gone.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company reported that the flow of rain and water from the sidewalks through subway gratings covered the rails at the Mott Haven station on the Jerome Avenue line and nearly did so at the Houston Street station on the West Side line. At Mott Haven station the water rose almost to the third rail and traffic was delayed four minutes. At Houston Street there was no delay.

Tie-ups on Surface Lines.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company denied any trouble on its subway lines, but reported tie-ups on various surface lines, such as those to Flushing, Smith Street and Wilson Avenue.

The storm did little damage on Staten Island. The wind kicked up a heavy sea along the south shore, and blew down some trees and electric wires, but no one was reported injured. Commercial current was cut off for about an hour.

The disturbance was responsible indirectly for a municipal trolley car catching fire about 6 o'clock last evening near Hero Park, in Silver Lake. The crowded car was climbing a steep grade. Something went amiss and the running gear took fire. The motorman opened the doors and excited passengers alighted. The fire was extinguished with slight damage.

Three large plate glass windows on the ground floor of Queens Borough Hall, Van Alst and Hunters Point Avenues, Long Island City, were blown in. As a result, the barber shop and the restauran were flooded and business was suspended.

The roof of the grand stand was torn off in two sections, and the fences in centrefield and between the two clubhouses were blown down. Many persons had been in the grand stand waiting to watch the start of football practice by a local team, but left the grounds just before the storm broke.

WIDESPREAD DAMAGE BY GALE AND LIGHTNING

Buildings Unroofed, Trees Blown Down and Many Hurt in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 30.—A gale that rose almost to hurricane velocity and lasting for less than 10 minutes did heavy damage in the lower lake regions today. Shipping had been warned and only one fatality was reported from Lake Erie, the captain of a fishing boat losing his life when his craft capsized off Dunkirk. The steamer Matthew Andrew, grain laden, Chicago to Buffalo, was rescued by tugs after being blown dangerously near the breakwall here.

Buildings were blown down or unroofed in Erie, Genesee, Niagara and Orleans counties and much damage is reported from the fruit belt along the south shore of Lake Ontario.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—An electric and wind storm which swept Eastern Pennsylvania late today caused heavy property damage and was responsible for the death of one man and the injury of several others. The storm broke the heat of more than a week.

Several places in Philadelphia were struck of lightning; also a trolley car loaded with passengers. Six persons were injured and the car was fired.

At York, Pa., Charles Canter of 385 Fort Washington Avenue, New York, was killed when his automobile was blown into a ditch by the wind. William M. Leschey of Hanover, Pa., an occupant of the car, was hurt.

In the country districts scores of barn roofs were blown off. Trees were uprooted and telegraph and telephone poles leveled.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Nathaniel Wood of Woodville was killed instantly and his wife injured seriously this afternoon when a tree was blown onto their automobile at Adams Center.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Half of the city is in darkness tonight and all long distance wires are down as a result of a terrific wind storm that swept this vicinity today, causing much property damage. Hundreds of trees were uprooted.

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 30.—A bolt of lightning in an electrical storm early this morning struck and demolished a "baby blimp" dirigible balloon stationed at Wilbur Wright Aviation Field. The hangar was burned to the ground.

SENATE CLEARS WAY TO RATIFY TREATIES

By CYRIL BROWN.

ists alone turned loose an orator, one Stoecker, who, for fifteen tiresome minutes attacked the United States with futile viciousness. He pronounced the treaty "the harsh dictation of the New York Stock Exchange" and said: "Nowhere in the world is there so much arming as in America. In two years it will have the world's biggest fleet; its militia has become the world's best land army." He protested against the "brutal, ruthless and arbitrary autocracy of American capitalism against the workers," asserting that thousands of "comrades" were languishing in the jails of this "model land." Then he rejected the treaty on behalf of the dwindling Communist Party.

Without a minute's loss of time the treaty ratification bill came up for first and second reading, a rising vote being taken. Nearly the whole Reichstag stood up. Even the members of the German People's Party did so, with the exception of a handful of irreconcilables, who, however, feared to go on record as voting against the treaty and ostentatiously left the chamber, refraining from casting their votes. Among these were included Dr. Helfferich, Count von Westarp, former leader of the old Conservative Party, and General von Gallwitz, the Commander in Chief of the German Armies in the first part of the first Battle of the Somme. The Communists alone remained seated, thereby voting "No."

Without counting the vote, President Loebe, a Social Democrat, declared the peace bill passed by an overwhelming majority.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—After the Reichstag's passage of the bill ratifying the treaty of peace with the United States, President Loebe thanked the House for properly disposing of the issue and expressed gratification over the impending resumption of friendly relations with the "last of Germany's numerous foes."

"By virtue of this resolution, normal relations between the two countries will be restored," he said. "I gladly take occasion to express satisfaction that further pending matters can now be settled by negotiation. I believe I voice the views of a great majority of the House, perhaps of all, in expressing the expectation that friendly relations between the United States and Germany, which were interrupted by the war, will henceforth and for all time remain undisturbed."

Loud cheering greeted Herr Loebe's speech.

Walter Stoecker, Communist, in his denunciation of the treaty, declared:

"The wanton, iniquitous submarine war caused American capitalism to enter the war, from which it emerged with gigantic booty. What remains of President Wilson's famous Fourteen Points, which European pacifists and the Majority Socialists extolled, the peace treaty with the United States is another piece of dictation which the German bourgeoisie approves because it wants to shift the heavy burdens to the shoulders of the working classes.

"We reject the new dictation not because we do not wish peace with the American nation, but because we deny the right of the German capitalistic and bourgeois Government to decide the fate of the German workers. We reject it in complete unison with our fellow communists in America, and also, unless I am much mistaken, in full agreement with the American Socialist party, for this peace treaty is a bitter mockery of true peace and of President Wilson's Fourteen Points."

TREATY REVISION DRIVE IMMINENT IN BERLIN

Indications Point to This as Cardinal Policy of the Newly Formed Coalition.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Although it is by no means certain, there is a strong probability that Wirth will not be Chancellor in the reorganized Government. Since he is an expert in finance, there is a possibility that he may retain the Finance portfolio. As his successor in the Chancellorship rumor today mentioned the Social Democratic President of the Reichstag, Herr Loebe. This seems unlikely. It is uncertain yet whether the Centre Party would consent to relinquish the Chancellorship; but if Dr. Wirth is forced to go no other figure looms in the Centre Party as his successor.

If the Social Democrats demand the Chancellorship there is a possibility that ex-Chancellor Hermann Mueller, who as Foreign Minister signed the Treaty of Versailles, will succeed Wirth. It is remembered as important for his own and his party's future foreign policy that at the Goerlitz convention Mueller offered a strongly worded resolution insistently demanding the revision of the Treaty of Versailles, which was unanimously adopted.

A more interesting rumor nominates the leader of the German People's Party, Dr. Stresemann, for Foreign Minister, the same rumor suggesting that the present Foreign Minister, Dr. Rosen, be made Ambassador to Washington or return to his earlier diplomatic post at The Hague. What Stresemann's foreign policy would be is obvious, since he and his party are insistent in demanding the revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

In fact, it is safe to assert that as the result of the present political developments in Germany the world is on the eve of a most violent and persistent offensive in the field of German foreign policy with the revision of the treaty as its objective.

'STOLEN' CARS USED IN POLICE 'JOY RIDES'

Brown said this tremendous cost seemed to be due to the "higher administration" of the Police Department and that former Inspector Edward P. Hughes's intimacy with the Police Commissioner apparently gained for him command of watching the piers.

Senator Downing said Senator Brown's conclusions were made merely for campaign purposes. He declared that the present investigation, unlike others that had preceded it, had shown no participation by anyone in the Police Department in the protection of crime, houses of prostitution or gambling.

Gas Receipts Identify Cars.

In his testimony leading up to the disclosure that "stolen" automobiles had been in common use by members of the Police Department, Mr. McDermott said the Police Department maintained gasoline stations, where "gas" and oil were issued to drivers upon signing a receipt, identifying the car. He said he had examined all the receipts he nad been able to get from Lieutenant Park, in charge of the Police Department's division of transportation.

"Did you find that there were a number of instances in which the receipts stated that the gasoline or oil had been issued to a stolen car?" asked Mr. Wallstein.

"Yes, I found a great number of instances of that kind," replied Mr. McDermott.

Q.—Now, for example, these receipts would read as follows: "Fortieth Precinct, Receipt No. 7564, date May 3, 1918, ten gallons of gasoline, issued for a Hudson car, No. —, stolen; received by E. Gannon, operator, No. 387 Auto Squad." That would be a car reported to the department as having been stolen, is that correct? A.—Well, it would be a car that had been recovered by the department.

Q.—Have you made a recapitulation or summary of the facts shown by these several hundred receipts for gas and oil for so-called stolen cars? A.—I did.

Assemblyman McArdle—Were you unable to get receipts for the whole year?

The Witness—Yes, we couldn't get receipts for the whole year. These oil and gas stations sent the receipts each day to headquarters.

Q.—Was there a request made of the department by a subpoena served for the receipts of the whole of the years 1919 and 1920? A.—There was.

Q.—With what result? A.—That Lieutenant Park, who has charge of the Division of Transportation and to whom the receipts are delivered each day by all of the gas stations, reported to me that he couldn't find all of the receipts, and I could only have what he was able to get.

Assemblyman McArdle—Did you get any reason why he was unable to supply the remaining receipts?

The Witness—One excuse was the storehouse had been moved, and they couldn't find them in the new storehouse, and there was no other excuse, simply couldn't find them.

1,829 Gallons for One Car.

Q.—I show you one tabulation dealing with these gasoline and oil receipts, issued as against stolen cars, according to the record, and ask you whether you prepared that or it was prepared under your supervision? A.—It was.

Q.—What period does that recapitulation cover? A.—It covers the months from May to September inclusive, 1919.

Q.—And will you state what it shows, please? A.—There is one Buick car received gasoline and oil during those five months, with a total of 1,829 gallons of gasoline and 216 quarts of oil.

Q.—That is a car, on the record of the receipt, said to be stolen? A.—Said to be stolen.

Q.—The gas and oil being signed for by a member of the police force? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That is one car? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What is the next car? A.—There is a Dodge car received gasoline and oil in those five months with the exception of July. That car received 176 gallons of gas and 14 quarts of oil. There is a Packard automobile receiver gasoline in May and again in September, a total of fifty-eight gallons of gas and nine quarts of oil. There is a Hupmobile receiving gasoline and oil, in May and June, and a small amount in July, and the total amount drawn being 148 gallons of gas and forty-one quarts of oil. There is an Oldsmobile receiving gasoline and oil during August and September, amounting to 111 gallons of gas and seventeen quarts of oil. A Cadillac car receiving gasoline in May and again in July, August and September, amounting to 381 gallons of gas, and thirty-six quarts of oil. There is a Ford car receiving gasoline and oil during the five months, a total of 272 gallons of gas and forty-nine quarts of oil. There is a Hudson car receiving gas during the five months, amounting to 753 gallons of gas and ninety-eight quarts of oil. There is another stolen car, the receipts for which are signed by the same group of men, receiving gasoline and oil, during the five months, but the make of the car is not given, receiving 322 gallons of gas and thirty-four quarts of oil. Then there is a Jordan car and two others, a Chandler and a Studebaker that received thirty gallons of gas, and two quarts of oil. The total distribution of gas and oil to the stolen cars during the five months was 4,060 gallons of gas and 516 quarts of oil.

Q.—Have you figured the cost of that to the City of New York? A.—On the basis of 30 cents a gallon, which was a fair price in 1919, the gasoline would have cost $1,218 and the oil at 14 cents a quart would be $82.56.

Gives Tabulations for 2 Months.

Mr. McDermott testified that the Police Department maintained depositories for stolen automobiles and that cars recovered were supposed to be taken there and the property clerk of the department notified. Asked if he had prepared a similar summary for the two months, October and November, 1920, the only months in that year for which he had been able to get the gasoline receipts, Mr. McDermott said he had. He listed many cars and the amounts of gasoline and oil used by each.

"Did you make a particular analysis of any of those alleged stolen cars with reference to the withdrawal of gasoline and oil just before week-ends and holidays?" asked Mr. Wallstein.

I did. On a Buick car which was marked "Stolen" we found that on the 29th of May, 1919, there were two lots of gasoline drawn for that car, one lot of seven gallons and another lot of twelve gallons, nineteen gallons in one day.

On the 30th, Decoration Day, there were six more gallons drawn for that particular car; on the 31st, Saturday, there were nine gallons of gas and two gallons of oil; on Sunday there were fifteen gallons of gas drawn for that car; on Saturday, May 3, there were twenty-two gallons of gas drawn for that car; on Saturday, May 10, there were only three gallons drawn; on Saturday, May 17, there were seven gallons; on May 24, Saturday, there were five gallons; on May 31 there were nine gallons; on Saturday, May 24, five gallons of gas were drawn from the storehouse and on Sunday, May 25, there were ten gallons drawn at the 113th Precinct, which is out on the end of Brooklyn.

Brown's Weekly Summation.

At the end of Mr. McDermott's testimony Senator Brown said he wished to make his customary weekly summation.

"I wish to say that among the leading points established this week we have a cost of pier policing in 1919 of $41,610,000," he said, "while the police budget for the year was only $20,662,000. Now I wish to point out in relation to this that it cost twice as much for private expense in policing the piers as it costs to do the police work for the protection of life and property among 6,000,000 people. And I wish to call attention to the fact that this cost of watching on the piers amounts to approximately four times the gross rentals received by the city for all the piers it owns.

"Now, the evidence also seems to me to carry a strong inference that this cost of policing the piers is in large part due to higher police administration. For instance, take the case of Vachris. Vachris had the policing of the piers for the Italian companies for some years, and he found it impossible to maintain order unless he could have his watchmen made patrolmen—special patrolmen. This was denied and refused by the Police Department, and, through Inspector Henry, Adam Cross, a former captain of police, was put in charge, and his men were immediately made special patrolmen.

"Now, there is other evidence that the cost of policing the piers, as they are now policed, is due to higher police administration. For instance, I call your attention to the resignation of Hughes from the Police Department and his almost immediate employment by forty steamship companies, an almost unprecedented thing, where he, an intimate of the Commissioner of Police, could, in rapid succession, acquire such retainers, resulting in a man of most moderate and limited means being enabled to open three bank accounts and deposit in the brief time that he has been engaged in that business hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Furnish Clue to Stock Deals.

"The suggestion carries here with great strength that intimacy with the head of the Police Administration carries with it the command of the watching of the piers, and these methods furnish the clue to the close business connection of the higher officers of the Police Department with Wall Street.

"Take, for instance, the gift of $12,000 to Enright; take Inspector Dwyer's brokers' account. Take the gift of his secret acquisition of real estate, his posing as William Leslie when he visited the property, and his maintenance there, as his Superintendent, of his son under the name of Miller. What was the motive for this? And shortly, while this committee was in session, the transfer of his stock in the Park Realty Company to his son, and the departure of his son for Bombay, and the inability of the committee to reach Candeau, the nominal or real, if you will have it, although I cannot but infer that there is something about it which the committee is not welcomed to know on account of its inability to get Candeau.

"I wish also to point out to the committee that Warren Leslie was a member of the Reserve Police Force; that Candeau is a member of the Reserve Police Force, and the matter seems to have been managed either through the police force or through members of the Police Reserve.

"As to dealing in margins. We have the margin accounts that have been offered here from Dwyer, from Dominick Henry and some others which I do not recall, and I wish to say in regard to that that it is not a wholesome practice for members of the police force to be dealing on margin in stocks generally and I wish also to call attention to the fact that so far as evidence is now clear before the committee there is, according to our experience, no other class of citizens of like salary who are able to make any such investments.

"I wish also to say in this connection of dealing in margins, that no man can watch the ticker and watch the criminal at the same time. It detracts from his efficiency in pursuing crime, in preventing crime, in protecting life and in protecting property.

"Now, it is my duty in this connection also to call attention to the evidence as to wiretapping. I understand the difficulty of getting men who are closely associated and know that the official life of one of them depends upon whether or not a certain fact is established in eliciting the truth from them.

"I understand that difficulty, but I wish to point out to you that as the evidence stands, Sutter, the plain clothes man of Dwyer, for months, at a cost of thousands of dollars, was engaged in employing the police force of the City of New York to violate the private confidences of a citizen in a private litigation, one of the gravest offenses against personal rights that can be committed, and during all of this time he was visiting daily the agents who had employed him to do the thing, and he was visiting Staten Island under the name of Sullivan, Sutter was.

"A very heavy burden rests upon this inspector for permitting his right-hand plain clothes man to absent himself almost daily for months on errands of this character, although he testified that he did not know anything about it, and there is no evidence to the contrary in the case.

"I want to call the attention of the committee to the effect upon the administration of justice that has from time to time to be rendered by the higher officers of the police force, not only in the discipline of members of the force, but as between the claims of citizens, that the receipt of gifts and gratuities was wisely prohibited by the rules of the Police Department itself, and the receipt of gratuities by the head of the Police Department is an advertisement to the lowest officer in the ranks, that he also may look to increase his income in the same manner, and by methods as have appeared here in several instances in previous portions of the examination which amount to extortation.

Downing Takes Issue With Brown.

"Example goes for a great deal where there is military discipline. I have observed that the words gentleman and officer are sometimes, I guess frequently, applied to officers upon the police force, as they are to officers in the army. Such practices would not be tolerated for a moment in a military organization and they can only tend to undermine and destroy the force of discipline and to injure and impair the force of the police force as a protecting body."

Senator Downing said he disagreed entirely with Senator Brown.

"You are quite sure of an audience from the press," he said. "Your summary of the evidence, whether correct or incorrect, will go out to the full extent that the record contains it, but what I say won't.

"I say that in all your fine-tooth-combing of the Police Department, unlike the record of any preceding investigation, there hasn't been a bit of evidence adduced, and you haven't any to adduce, that shows the participation of anybody in the Police Department with the protection of crime, houses of prostitution or gambling. There might be some excuse found for the isolated cases you regard as derelictions of duty, but in the main the Police Department has been found to be a credit to the City of New York and a credit to those who are in responsible control of it."

The committee adjourned to meet Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Enright Orders Investigation

After reading in the newspapers of testimony before the Meyer committee indicating that certain policemen had tapped telephone wires to obtain evidence in the Allers separation suit, Police Commissioner Enright ordered an investigation to determine whether such was the case. It was said at Police Headquarters that, if it were found that policemen had tapped wires outside of official police business, charges would be made against them and they would be placed on trial.

LEAGUE BARS LOAN FOR RUSSIAN RELIEF

Turns Down Plan of Nansen, Who Says Soviets' Fall Is Sought at the Cost of Lives.

REDS BLAMED FOR FAMINE

Jugoslav Member Moves Resolution to That Effect, but Withdraws It Under Pressure.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—The Assembly of the League of Nations today buried beneath a bed of oratorical roses the project of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen for Russian famine relief.

It was not a peaceful ceremony. In the first place, Dr. Nansen accused the Governments of trying to buy the fall of the Soviet Government with the lives of 20,000,000 human beings. Dr. Spalaikovitch, the stormy petrel, who represents Jugoslavia, tried to have passed a resolution blaming the famine on nothing else than Bolshevist rule, but later he withdrew it.

The Salle de la Reformation presented a study in psychology. From carved rafter to carved rafter echoed words of sympathy for the starving Russians and of a desire to help them, but these words were uttererd by men who had received instructions from their Governments to vote down Nansen's project because it called for the extension of credits to Russia, and as the delegates of England and France had said in committee, that was something which their Governments would not do. Their reason as given was that they could not afford it.

Nansen expressed his scorn of resolutions declaring that something should be done for the Russians, but declining to do anything. He thought it was plain politics that the Governments were playing.

More interesting than that phase was the effort to get away from Spalaikovitch's resolution which, while expressing the sentiments of the very Governments which blocked Nansen's project, was something for which they could not vote because in so doing they would seem to set the seal of approval on Nansen's charge that they were playing politics. The delegates did the only thing they could do under their instructions. They expressed the pious hope that the Russians would be fed. It is true that they referred to the conference to be held next month in Brussels to consider the feeding of the Russians, but Nansen declared that was merely "passing the buck," since the same Governments which now refused to co-operate with him would be the Governments represented at Brussels.

Delegate Motta of Switzerland presented the committee report on Nansen's project, which was a request that the League ask the Governments to advance him £5,000,000, and that the League use the Ter Mulen credit scheme to help Russia to get food if the Governments would not grant credits. M. Motta said that the committee had no political motives in declining to grant Nansen's request and that the committee thought that the matter of State credits should be left to the Brussels conference. Saying that the committee had full confidence in Nansen, he reported that it did not have the same confidence in the other party to his agreement, the Soviets, and showed that the important Governments had declared that they would not now grant credits to Moscow.

Nansen Makes Fervent Appeal.

Nansen declared his disappointment. He said he had made an appeal to the Governments and that the report meant he had failed.

"There are 20,000,000 starving, and if help does not come before Winter their fate is sealed," he said. "We only ask £5,000,000. The Governments say they cannot give it. They throw back the whole job on the charitable organizations, and that is not right, for the charitable organizations alone cannot meet the situation."

Nansen turned to what he called an organized effort to block Russian relief. He said that the world was being sown with lies about it. After giving a number of instances of false news reports, he said he had reason to believe that all of them were coming from one source.

"I think I know what is behind this campaign to prevent anything being done to help the starving people of Russia," he said. "It is this thought—that the action we propose will, if it succeeds, strengthen the Soviet Government. I think that is a mistake. I do not think we will strengthen the Soviet Government by showing the Russian people that there are hearts in Europe.

"But supposing it does strengthen the Soviet Government. Is there any member of this assembly who is prepared to say that rather than help the Soviet Government he will allow 20,000,000 people to starve to death? If he is here I challenge him to speak."

He then entered into a defense of the terms of his agreement with Moscow, concluding:

"No relief can be carried out in any country, and least of all in Russia, against the wishes of the Government authorities. Mr. Hoover's agreement no less than mine depends every moment upon the good-will and co-operation of the Soviets."

Dr. Nansen told of grain waiting to be exported from Canada, of the surplus in America and Argentina and of abundant supply ships.

"I cannot believe that the people of Europe will sit by with folded hands and let 20,000,000 starve in Russia this Winter," he said. "I am confident that the people will make their Governments reverse themselves. The Governments say they cannot give £5,000,000, half the amount it takes to build one battleship, to save the people of Russia. If they cannot do it, let them say so frankly, but not go on summoning committees and conferences and discussing month after month while people are dying.

"We are running a terrible race with the Russian Winter. Shall we allow the Winter to silence forever those millions of voices crying to us for help? From this place I appeal to the peoples of Europe for their help. Let us hasten before it is too late to repent."

Jugoslav Assails Red Rule.

There were several other speeches by delegates. Then M. Spalaikovitch took the floor. He said that he would not vote against the report, because it was harmless, and because it meant nothing he would not vote for it.

"It does not render to the Russian people," he said, "the sole service which the League of Nations could render them in their present plight. It does not say one word about the real cause of their distress, since it does not mention Bolshevism. We are told that in humanitarian questions we should say nothing about politics. I do not agree with that. If we represented the Red Cross societies, I could understand that; but we stand here and speak for our Governments.

"I declare that my Government will not give one single centime for Russian relief under the form in which Dr. Nansen asks the loan—a present to the Russian Government. We shall continue to care for thousands of Russian refugees pouring into our country, and our hearts go out to the hungry ones along the Volga. But our people have no faith in the folk of Moscow and we shall hand them not one penny.

"The cause of the famine is not drought. The Moscow Government has sought to make all equal, and it has made all equal—in misery. It has done nothing but destroy. The reserves of Russia have been squandered in propaganda to bring the same misery elsewhere. What irony that now the granary of Europe should be the graveyard of the starving!

"If Bolshevism continues, all our efforts to save Russia will be in vain. Of the two evils, famine and Bolshevism, I consider Bolshevism the worst."

He then proposed the following resolution:

"The Assembly most severely condemns the economic and political system of the Soviet Government and holds it chiefly responsible for the present catastrophe in Russia and for the attempts to conduct criminal propaganda with the object of causing similar catastrophes in other countries."

Fisher Deplores Resolution.

At the opening of the afternoon session H. A. L. Fisher of England spoke. He regretted that M. Spalaikovitch had offered his resolution, because politics had no place in the consideration of a humaniarian subject. He pictured in black colors the situation in Russia, calling it the greatest calamity which had befallen the human race on this planet. Mr. Fisher told of terrible conditions in Armenia and Georgia.

Turning to M. Spalaikovitch's resolution, he asked for its withdrawal because the Assembly was not called upon to discuss whether the Soviet Government was bad or good. He said that the British Government did not consider that it would be barred from helping the starving Russians because of a quarrel it might have with the Moscow Government.

The committee, he declared, had reached its conclusion after the principal Governments had said that they were not in a position to extend the credits on which the Nansen plan depended. Referring to the proposal to place confidence in Russia repaying the loan, he said: "Some recent passages in Russian history do not confirm that confidence."

However, he said he was not going to discuss the Soviet Government. But he thought that tribute should be paid to Nansen's ideals and moved this resolution: "The Assembly has no sufficient information as to the influences by which the Soviet Government is moved or the conditions under which it is working, but it considers that Dr. Nansen's successful repatriation of prisoners of war augurs well for any enterprise which he may be prepared to undertake for the relief of the famine-stricken regions in Armenia, Georgia and Russia." L. M. La Fontaine of Belgium followed, declaring that all the nations in the League condemned the Soviet Government, but that this should not stop help for the starving.

Lord Robert Cecil reviewed the charges which had been made against Dr. Nansen of political intrigues and seeking personal advantage. "To us who know Dr. Nansen," he said, "all this is not more contemptible than it is absurd." He accused the Governments of insincerity, saying that if they wanted to put up any money for the Russians they could do it at Geneva as well as at Brussels.

"It seems," he said, "that all the Governments between them could have found such a small amount if they had really wished to do so."

He expressed regret that the Assembly had not one member of the working classes in it, because on such a problem it would have been well to hear what the working classes thought. Lord Robert appealed to the Governments to come out in the open on the matter and not hide behind repeated conferences.

"This matter is too serious for manoeuvers of that kind," he said. "It requires the greatest frankness and courage, and, belive me, even with those qualities, we shall be hard put to get out of this difficulty without disaster."

Credits to Moscow Barred.

M. Hanotaux of France told about how deeply France had been moved by the Russian famine. As for the refusal to adopt Nansen's plan, he said that the League could not act without the Government and the Governments would not extend any credits to Moscow.

M. Spalaikovitch then got the floor and said he had merely meant to emphasize that if the League was to concern itself with the peace of the world it should turn its attention to Bolshevism. He said he knew that a majority of the members of the Assembly agreed with his motion, for they had told him so, but because it was deemed out of place he would withdraw it. A moment before mounting the rostrum he had gone to Lord Robert Cecil's place and laid his hand on Cecil's shoulder. Cecil gently removed it.

In concluding his speech M. Spalaikovitch said:

"We Serbs are close to Bolshevism and fear it. I can understand why Lord Robert, representing South Africa, so far away, feels differently. I am sure that if the Honorable Lord represented India he would feel another way."

M. Motta closed the debate by some more criticism of the Spalaikovitch resolution and the committee's report was adopted.

Article X. Question Postponed.

GENEVA, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—In the debate in the League Assembly today on Russian relief, M. Enckell of Finland asserted that Bolshevist troops had seized food sent by Finland to relieve famine sufferers in Eastern Karelia, on the Finnish border. He said that refugees in that region had asked Finland to intervene with the powers so as to be assured that relief sent them would reach its destination.

Charles J. Doherty of Canada has reduced to a minimum the chances of final rejection at this session of the Assembly of his amendment which would eliminate Axticle X. from the covenant of the League. The subcommittee having this matter in hand had decided upon rejection and adopted an interpretative resolution to the effect that Article X. was never intended to perpetuate geographical and political divisions as they now exist, but merely as a safeguard against external aggression.

Not satisfied with this position, Mr. Doherty at a hearing before the full committee this afternoon gave an exhaustive argument that greatly impressed the committee. It was then suggested that the interpretative resolution be dropped, that Mr. Doherty's amendment stand on the agenda and that the Assembly be asked again to refer the matter for investigation, with a report to the next Assembly.

Mr. Doherty was not ready to agree to this procedure and asked permission to think it over until tomorrow, when the committee will consider the question again.

Previous decisions that the Argentine amendments to the covenant of the League cannot be accepted at the present time were reaffirmed by a resolution finally adopted by the Committee on Amendments. The resolution referred to the "regrettable absence of the Argentine delegation," and postponed final decision on the amendments introduced last year by that delegation. Failure of the Assembly to act upon these amendments at its first session resulted in the withdrawal of the Argentine representatives.

Opium Traffic Debated.

Debate on the opium traffic opened in the Assembly, Prince Dowleh of Persia speaking on the committee's report, in which it was said that control of the opium traffic was attended by great difficulties. The committee recommended a continuation of investigations now in progress, through an advisory committee, and urged that they be extended to an inquiry relative to all drugs of whatever nature, with a view to drafting a convention for the suppression of abuses.

Delegate Hennessy of France expressed a desire that action be extended against synthetic or chemical drugs, which he said were causing greater ravages than the vegetable products.

The Assembly adopted the report, recommending that the Advisory Committee consult as to holding an international conference.

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—The first romance of the American Relief Administration in Russia is revealed in the news that Harry Jay Fink, a New York writer on sports, who is official courier for the administration between Moscow and Riga, was married in the latter city yesterday to Elizabeth Anderson Ross of Edinburgh.

Mr. Fink is to return here with mail on Thursday, leaving his bride in Riga, as a honeymoon in Moscow does not enter into the administration's plans.

LEAGUE HAMPERED BY AMERICA'S DELAY

Opium and White Slave Traffic Subjects of Communications Only Recently Acknowledged.

HEALTH WORK HANDICAPPED

Austrian Rehabilitation Plan, Backed by All of Europe, Held Up by United States.

THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday carried a dispatch from its correspondent at Geneva to the effect that the American Government had now changed its attitude in hitherto declining to acknowledge or reply to communications from the League of Nations. In its issue of yesterday, THE TIMES also carried a telegram from its Washington correspondent, stating that the State Department had indicated its reason for not replying to communications from the League of Nations was that they were merely routine and considered as unimportant.

Apparently, according to the dispatch from Geneva, the State Department, under date of Aug. 17, replied to a large number of communications received during several months previously. THE NEW YORK TIMES has obtained from unquestionable sources a list of cases of communications sent to the American Government by the League of Nations to which no response was made until, as indicated by THE TIMES correspondent, the series of acknowledgments was sent on Aug. 17.

According to the informant of THE NEW YORK TIMES, the United States Government has been officially invited to take part in every large conference and in many of the smaller commissions meeting under the auspices of the League of Nations on many different questions of international importance. From March 4, 1921, to Sept. 1, 1921, no official communication of any sort whatever was received by the League of Nations from the American Government.

Subjects of Communications.

A number of concrete instances showing the subjects of these communications from the League, and the conditions following upon the inactivity of the American Government in affairs of the League, were suvplied to THE TIMES as follows:

"Opium—In view of the provisions of the covenant, the Netherlands Government requested the League to take over this work (supervision over the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs). As a result of resolutions of the Assembly and the Council, an Opium Committee was appointed to take general charge of this work and put it on a firm footing. This committee met in Geneva in May, and in addition to adopting a series of recommendations on the opium situation drew up a questionnaire of six pages, in order that more accurate and up-to-date information might be secured upon which to base future action.

"The United States Government alone has objected to the centralization of this work under the League of Nations. The basis of objection was a purely technical one, i. e., that they had signed The Hague Convention on this subject, and that any change in the procedure provided for by this convention could not be made without an amendment of its text, and then not without the consent of all the signatories thereto.

"White Slave Traffic—In accordance with the provisions of the same article of the covenant as refers to opium, the League Assembly and Council provided for an international conference on the traffic in women and children. An invitation to attend this conference was sent to the American Government several months before it met. The new Administration, despite the desire of one of its branches and of the American Social Hygiene Association, however, refused to be represented at the conference. The State Department, moreover, informed the Secretary General a few days before the meeting began that the invitation had been mislaid in the files of the department, that the American Government was not a party to the previous international convention of 1910 on this question, and that there were difficulties between the Federal and State Governments with regard to police instructions.

Only America Holding Aloof.

"Practically all the civilized world is today actively co-operating to suppress this undesirable traffic, and yet the American Government will have no vital part in this work. The American Government has not only refused to send a delegate to the conference; it has also failed to provide the conference with such information as may be at its disposal. The Government, it should perhaps be pointed out, could have sent an observer to the meeting. He could at least have kept the Government up to date as to the international work in this field, and he could have served this important gathering by giving it the benefit of his knowledge of conditions in so far as the United States was concerned.

"International Health Organization—To co-ordinate the work of national Governments for the prevention and control of disease, there existed before the war a central office in Paris which had been set up by the Rome Convention of 1907. The covenant stipulated that this question of public health should be of concern to the League, and the Assembly provided for the creation of a larger and stronger international health organization. The essential point of the plan was the attachment of the former health office to the new organization. As the United States had refused its consent to the attachment to the League of Nations of any international organization in which it took part, the Paris committee decided to abstain from even nominating representatives to the Provisional Committee of the League organization. Thus handicapped, however, the new League committee was formed, and among its members is Professor Winslow of the Yale Medical School, representing the League of Red Cross Societies. The Paris office, of course, continues its separate, semi-dormant existence. The situation is, naturally, most unsatisfactory. The duplication of machinery is unfortunate, and the uncertainty as to future developments makes a permanent program quite impossible.

Reconstruction in Austria.

"Financial Reconstruction of Austria—Austria has already begun to follow out the advice of the League Commission as far as her internal finances are concerned. The League program has met, moreover, with hearty support in Austria itself and generally throughout Europe. Seventeen Governments have definitely agreed to waive their claims for a specific period, and the United States Government is the only one which has not given satisfactory assurances on this point. It is understood that the American Government takes the view that no such assurances can be given without an act of Congress, but that, the necessary legislation has already been introduced into Congress. It has been suggested that the Administration itself might agree not to press for payment of these claims, and that such a statement would perhaps be sufficient pending an act of Congress.

"However that may be, the fact remains that the Austrian rehabilitation plan, backed by all of Europe, cannot be put into operation because of the lack of satisfactory assurances as to the position of the United States in the matter. With action by Congress in the near future, of course, this situation may be entirely changed.

"International Court of Justice—A committee of jurists appointed by the Council of the League of Nations, and included among their number Elihu Root, sat at The Hague in the Summer of 1920 and framed a statute for the International Court of Justice. This statute was thoroughly examined by the Council and Assembly. The Assembly approved it unanimously in December. 1920. Twenty-five national groups have nominated Judges for election. Among the first nominations received were those of Mr. Root and Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School.

"The American members of The Hague Arbitration Court have also been requested to make nominations of Judges. The American Government has been fully informed of all the steps taken toward the creation of this court and the United States has been invited to sign and ratify the statue. Provision could probably have been made for the participation of the American Government in the election of Judges, and it is not at all impossible that an American Judge may be elected to the court; yet the League had not, up to Sept. 1, even received from the State Department an official acknowledgment of the receipt of any of these documents.

Mandates.

"Mandates—Just before the new Administration took office an exchange of notes had taken place between the American Government and the Council of the League of Nations with regard to the mandates situation. The Council decided that in view of the American objections the further consideration of the terms of the mandates would be postponed and the American Government was requested to send a representative to the next Council meeting to present their views.

"No reply was received by the League of Nations to this note, and the question came up again at the Council meeting in Geneva in June. The Council carefully examined the situation anew, and decided once more, out of deference to the United States, to postpone further action. The exact position and wishes of the American Government in the mandates question are not clear, neither is it clear as to where the blame should be placed for this delay. It would appear, however, that the United States has not yet decided as to whether it will approve at all of the administration of these former enemy territories under the League's mandates system. Most of the delay, therefore, apparently results from the general uncertainty of the Administration as to the policy to be adopted towards the League.

"Thus, much of the enemy territory continues to be administered by the conquering powers without any of the guarantees for the native population which are provided for by the mandates system. This is due to the position of the American Government, which has not only failed to send a representative to discuss the matter with the League, but had not even deigned (up to Aug. 17) to reply to an invitation to do so. Clearly, this is most unfortunate from the standpoint of good administration for backward countries.

Emigration Commission.

"International Emigration Commission—An International Commission on Emigration called by the International Labor Organization of the League of Nations met in Geneva during August last. The United States was requested to provide one of the delegates of the employés' group. The Department of Labor appeared favorably inclined to make such an appointment, and, in fact, a delegate arrived in Europe shortly before the conference as the representative of this department of the Government. At the last minute, however, he failed to appear at the meeting of the commission for reasons which were not stated, and nothing was heard from the American Government about the matter. It is, however, understood that the American delegate was prevented from coming to the meeting in Geneva by reason of action on the part of the American Ambassador in London with the State Department.

"Transit—Largely for the purpose of drafting international conventions to secure and maintain freedom of communications and transit, and equtable treatment for the commerce of the world, an International Transit Conference met under the auspices of the League of Nations in Barcelona, Spain, from March 10 to April 20, 1921. The United States Government was kept fully informed of the program for the Barcelona conference and of the recommendations which were approved by the Passport Conference."

TO TEST BAN ON BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Churches Unite to Carry Washington State Decrees to Supreme Court—Presbyterians Lead.

A decision is to be sought in the Supreme Court of the United States to determine whether or not the Bible can legally be excluded from the public schools. Joint action by various church denominations is being prepared to this end by members of the Presbyterian Church.

The action had its inception in the Synod of Washington State by official call of that body. R. L. Edmiston of Spokane, a Presbyterian layman, is at the head of the movement. He is being assisted by W. A. Funk of Sunnyside, the Rev. Eugene A. Walker of Spokane, and the Rev. T. D. Acheson of Chehalis, Wash.

It is because that in the State of Washington the Bible is officially excluded from the public schools that the State is made the centre of the movement.

The attack for the restoration of the Bible to the public schools throughout the United States will be based on the Declaration of Independence. The Synod of Washington holds that the Declaration of Independence is a covenant between God and the American nation, and that the study of the Bible by American children is essential to an understanding of that covenant and to the full knowledge of God.

In Washington State the Attorney General and later the State Supreme Court ruled in opinions that the Bible was a "sectarian" book, and that it was unconstitutional to teach or read the Bible in the schools of the State.

ORTH ON FEDERAL ECONOMY

Praises Cuts Made, but Warns of "False Sense of Security."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—Charles D. Orth, President of the National Security League, issued a statement today commenting on the general question of Governmental expenditures and economies.

The statement reads in part:

"Although the President's letter to Senator McCormick, outlining the economies which have been suggested by the reduced appropriations made by Congress, was written for political purposes, the facts which it outlines are none the less important and encouraging.

"If the American people would realize that Federal disbursements cost the average American family over $250 annually and that this sum is practically doubled by State and municipal taxation, the importance of demanding public economy and assisting to bring it about would be realized.

"Congress and the Administration are entitled to great credit for their endeavor to cut down expenditures by insisting upon decreased appropriations. But the people of the country must not be lulled into a false sense of security merely because the appropriations are smaller. It must be remembered that expenditures never have been and probably never will be limited to appropriations unless and until the people of the country, figurativey speaking, rise up on their hind legs and show a proper interest in the matter and insist that the various departments of the national Government keep their expenditures within the appropriations made by Congress.

"Under the present system the departments go on spending more than the appropriations and Congress is then practically forced to allot the money later by a general deficiency appropriation."

TRIED TO AID LINCOLN NOW A PAUPER HERE

and a naturalist. Suddenly he seemed to recollect that he had been an expert on frogs.

"I used to know every kind of frog and toad that lived, and everything about them," he confided. "But I'll bet now that I could not tell you the Latin name of a single one. I don't think I could tell you just where the one type differs from another.

"Sometimes, when I am asleep, all my knowledge comes back to me in a dream. I can remember all that I ever knew, I can recall the scientific names even, but it is terribly hard work. I wake up all tired out."

The old man's story has been well known in Blackwell's Island for several years, but little attention is paid there to accounts by old men and women of their former days. C. B. Cosgrove, Superintendent of the City Home, said yesterday, however, that it was somewhat rare for old folk, whose minds were wandering, to entertain delusions of this sort. He said that they rarely connected themselves with historical events and were usually content to magnify their "better days" in a modest sort of a way. Those suffering from delusions are confined elsewhere.

The present plight of Proctor and the historical incident in which he apparently played a part was made public yesterday by his friend of many years, Mr. Daly, who visited the former lawyer on Sunday in company with Mr. Kelly, the sculptor.

Found After Long Search.

"Mr. Kelly asked me where to find him," said Mr. Daly. "I had heard that he had gone down hill and was in the almshouse. We had a long search of it, but we finally found him on the island.

"Mr. Kelly was interested as a sculptor in the scene at Lincoln's deathbed. He had studied the pictures purporting to be the deathbed scene and wanted Mr. Proctor's recollection of who were present and how they were arranged around the bed.

"Mr. Kelly knew Proctor years ago, as I did, when he was a prosperous and able lawyer. I became particularly well acquainted with him when he was a partner of my brother's.

"He did not tell me the story until I knew him well. He was very reticent about it and few persons knew of it. His principal interest was natural history and botany. I went on many botanical excursions with him.

"Mr. Proctor never published anything on botany that I know of, beyond a few articles in The Brooklyn Eagle, but he was so well known that the naturalist Pike named a new bug after him. Proctor was an authority on the various types of American turtles. In the law business, I believe he was chiefly occupied with real estate matters. He was married, but his wife died and left no children.

"He told me that, after Lincoln's death, when most of the others had left the room, one of the surgeons cut two locks of the President's hair, keeping one for himself and giving the other to Proctor. He did not have this lock of hair, however, when he first told me about twenty-five years ago of Lincoln's death. It had been destroyed in some manner. I saw where a lock of Lincoln's hair had recently sold for $600."

Friend Revealed Story to The Times.

The story, as Proctor had told it years ago when his mentality was perfect, was repeated by Mr. Daly in a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES, written after his visit to Blackwell's Island on Sunday. Mr. Daly relied on his recollection for some of the details of Lincoln's last hours, and a few of his statements are in conflict with historical accounts, although Proctor are not so contradicted. The standard Lincoln histories and the newspapers of the time are uninformative on the point and raise no difficulties. In his letter Mr. Daly said:

"The City Home on Blackwell's Island now gives pauper's shelter to Thomas Proctor, lawyer and naturalist. At one time this man was strong enough of will and patriotic enough to give protection and ease to the body and soul of our immortal Lincoln.

"The great Lincoln, firm of spirit and manly among men, needed all the help possible as he lay in mortal agony under the gunshot wound. And now the tragedy of life comes to another. He on whose soft bed Lincoln sought relief is a derelict. No one to do reverence in rescue, no one to save him, among the many bountiful in words, idle words of devotion toward the martyr's memory. Of the immediate dastardly assassination act itself, Proctor witnessed nothing.

"It was on his return from an entertainment that his close and continued connection with the matter that shocked the nation came about. He saw the horrified idlers on the street, as he turned the corner. On approach, the soldier guard moved to stop entrance. At the moment, Proctor's roommate called from the window that the President had been shot. On passing up the stoop and into the hall, the man who carried the unconscious victim of insensate hate hesitated.

"They were in a strange house and no one was there to direct. It was then that Proctor took charge. He called upon the bearers of the precious burden to follow. He led the way one flight upstairs to his own room, quickly opened and ready for the emergency. Proctor drew the cover and his bed received the distressed form of the President. Evidently at once relieved, the President submitted to partial undress and received medical treatment. Proctor continued his humane and patriotic care. He did not lie down for one moment throughout the long night.

"Fortunately, there are photographs of the historical house opposite Ford's Theatre. Each one shows the last private scene in the insane Booth's murderous tragedy. In the death chamber we see the company of mourners—Mrs. Lincoln seated, Secretary Stanton, Secretary Welles, civic and military officials gathered. Conspicuous alongside the bed is Thomas Proctor. There can be no failure of identity with the man now on Blackwell's Island."

According to the letter of Mr. Daly, when the surgeon announced that Lincoln's heart had stopped beating, Proctor's story, when his mind was clear, continued as follows:

"The surgeon handed me a lock of hair cut from the base of the President's head. I was indeed sad. Lincoln, with his ready smile and happy word, whom I had met many times in the War Department, had painfully passed into the everlasting. I was satisfied, indeed, with the opportunity of aiding the exalted man."

Mr. Daly said that he had been positive there was a photograph showing the bedside scene, but his friend, Mr. Kelly, the sculptor, said that the picture in question was a woodcut in Leslie's of a date shortly after the assassination.

Proctor's presence in the room is not mentioned in the newspaper accounts of the assassination, but these accounts do not assign the room to anybody. The standard histories are even more meager and contradictory. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Maunsell B. Field said of the room in The New York Herald on April 15, 1865:

"I proceeded at once to the room in which the President was lying, which was a bedroom in a extension on the first or parlor floor of the house."

His list of those around the bed included a stranger, not in uniform, whom he supposed to be an army surgeon.

Nicolay and Hay's history says that Lincoln "was laid upon a bed in a small room at the rear of the hall on the ground floor." Ida M. Tarbell's history says: "And so the President was carried up the high steps, through the narrow hall, and laid, still unconscious, still motionless, on the bed of a poor little commonplace room of a commonplace lodging house."

The room was two flights up, according to the Proctor account, as given by Mr. Daly.

"Recently I became interested in the subject of Lincoln, and sought especially to get information about the scene when he breathed his last," said Mr. Kelly. "On that account I visited O. H. Oldroyd, who now has the house where Lincoln died. He said that Proctor had visited the house some years ago and had told him of his connection with the death of Lincoln. I understood from Mr. Oldroyd that Proctor's story had been established to be true. In addition, I have seen the woodcut, I think in Leslie's, showing Proctor and giving his name."

Mr. Oldroyd could not be reached in Washington last night, but Mrs. Oldroyd said that a William Clarke had had the room in which Lincoln died and that she had never heard of Proctor. This might have been the roommate mentioned in the Proctor story. Mr. Daly said that he had heard Proctor speak of his room-mate, but could not remember the name.

JOBLESS IN GERMANY PUT AT ONLY 250,000

Unemployment Is Steadily Decreasing There, Despite the Cry of Industrial Ruin.

OUR TOTALS CAUSE STIR

Bourse Hysteria Is Temporarily Calmed, but Talk of "Catastrophe" Persists.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Germany's dollar hysteria was temporarily checked today, when the quotation for the mark rose to 123 for a dollar. There was a runaway bull market, in which some stocks rose 300,400, and even 500 points.

Germany's "catastrophe propaganda" continues unabated, and, if anything, intensified, sending out the S O S in a particular effort to catch Uncle Sam's ear. A typical instance is afforded by the Deutsche Zeitung, which says:

"If help comes, it must come quickly; otherwise the mark catastrophe, which must bring Germany a new wave of higher prices and new domestic political dangers, will become an international catastrophe, the consequences of which for all countries cannot be foreseen."

While Germany has been crying catastrophe for months past, she is enjoying a steady, consistent decrease of unemployment and probably has the lowest unemployment rate among the World War belligerents. The August figures, just available, show only 108,000 men and women in Berlin receiving unemployment support, a decrease of 15,000 since the previous month. The number of unemployed in all Germany today is probably less than 250,000.

Incidentally, the Germans have just discovered that America, far from having waxed rich and profited hugely through the war, which has heretofore been a fixed idea here, has home troubles and economic problems. The published figure of 6,000,000 unemployed in America and news dispatches of "auctions" have brought about this German awakening.

Using the head line, "Unemployment Misery in America," the Socialist Vorwärts says:

"Reports tell of great want among 6,000,000 unemployed in America, and, since the crisis in America is further aggravated by the sinking of Central European exchange as the result of the reparation payments, one can count on unemployment in America increasing."

For the first time since the revolution the official German foreign trade statistics have been made public. If they are trustworthy, they indicate that German commerce is not all rosy. The June imports were 6,400,000,000 paper marks, and the exports 5,400,000,000. The May imports were 5,400,000,000, and the exports 4,500,000,000. America should have had a big share of Germany's imports, for 71 per cent. in June consisted of agricultural products, chiefly grain, cotton holding second place.

ADOPTS PROGRAM ON UNEMPLOYMENT

resumed. Undue cost and malignant combinations have made proper expansion impossible and contributed largely to this unemployment situation. In some places these matters have been cleaned up. In other places they have not and are an affront to public decency. In some places these things have not existed. In others costs have been adjusted. Some materials have been reduced in price as much as can be expected. Where conditions have been righted, construction should proceed, but there is still a need of community action in provision of capital on terms that will encourage home building. Where the costs are still above the other economic levels of the community, there should be searching inquiry and action in the situation. We recommend that the Governors summon representative committee, with the co-operation of the Mayors or otherwise, as they may determine (a) to determine facts; (b) to organize community action in securing adjustments in cost, including removal of freight discriminations and clean out campaigns against combinations, restrictions of effort, and unsound practices where they exist to the end that building may be fully resumed."

Recommendations of Manufacturers.

The recommendations of the Manufacturers' Committee, included in the program, were as follows:

"Manufacturers can contribute to relieve the present acute unemployment situation by,

"(A) Part-time work, through reduced time or rotation of jobs.

"(B) As far as possible, manufacturing for stock.

"(C) Taking advantage of the present opportunity to do as much plant construction, repairs and cleaning up as is possible, with the consequent transfer of many employes to other than their regular work.

"(D) Reduction of the number of hours of labor per day.

"(E) The reduction of the work week to a lower number of days during the present period of industrial depression.

"(F) That employes and employers cooperate in putting these recommendations into effect.

"A large number of employers have already, in whole or in part, inaugurated the recommendations herein set forth, and for this they are to be commended, and it is earnestly urged upon those employers who have not done so to put same into use, wherever practicable, at the earliest possible opportunity.

"(G) Specific methods for solution of our economic problems will be effective only in so far as they are applied in a spirit of patriotic patience on the part of all our people.

"During the period of drastic economic readjustment, through which we are now passing, the continued efforts of any one to profit beyond the requirements of safe business practice or economic consistency should be condemned. One of the important obstacles to a resumption of normal business activity will be removed as prices reach replacement values in terms of efficient producing and distributing cost plus reasonable profit.

"We therefore strongly urge all manufacturers and wholesalers who may not yet have adopted this policy to do so, but it is essential to the success of these measures when put into effect that retail prices shall promptly and fairly reflect the price adjustment of the producer, manufacturer, and the wholesaler.

"When these principles have been recognized and the recommendations complied with, we are confident that the public will increase their purchases, thereby increasing the operations of the mills, factories and transportation companies, and consequently reducing the number of unemployed."

To Start Price-Cutting Campaign.

The Committee on Emergency Measures by Manufacturers is considering steps to bring about the price-cutting movement advocated in its recommendations, these to be taken between now and the next meeting of the conference.

Secretary Hoover, who presided, explained that the program announced included only the emergency measures recommended by the various committees and that all other recommendations had been returned for incorporation in a supplementary report which will cover permanent steps necessary to industrial reconstruction along lines which will go to avoid serious unemployment in the future.

A long debate took place on the report of the Committee on Unemployment Statistics which placed the unemployed at "about 4,000,000." Secretary Davis said that he did not agree with the estimate and that the Bureau of Labor Statistics two months ago had estimated 5,735,000. Since then, said Mr. Davis, about 200,000 had been absorbed by industries.

Another delegate wanted the report amended to show that some experts put the number as low as 3,500,000. Secretary Hoover suggested that numbers be left out and a further report be submitted when more facts could be obtained.

In the end it was decided to make the indefinite statement that various estimates placed the number at 3,500,000 to 5,500,000, the point being conceded by practically all factions that the shifting of labor and inadequate machinery for collection of the facts made an accurate statement at this time impossible.

Delegates today were in accord that the important thing to accomplish was a speeding up of industry, and that the liquidation of stocks through the price cutting program was the surest course to bring that about. Adjustment of wages was not mentioned.

Secretary Hoover indicated that every effort would be made to have the emergency measures proposed put into effect without delay. It is the belief that a real impression can be made on the unemployment situation if the program is carried out, especially if the price-cutting features are practical.

A SPECIAL PRESENTATION AND SALE of WOMEN'S

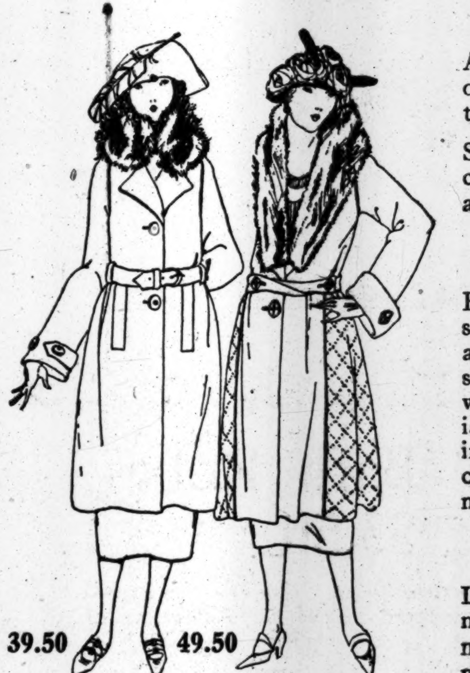
Ultra-Smart Wraps and Coats

New models, new materials, and new low prices for garments of unquestioned style merit and fine workmanship.



300 Coats at 29.50

A host of straight line and smartly belted coats, offering variety sufficient to satisfy the hardest-to-please.

Suede velour, wool velvet, and heavy wool novelty coatings are the materials, in green, walnut, tan, and navy. Each coat beautifully silk lined.

250 Coats at 49.50

By far the most beautiful coats offered for many seasons. Strictly tailored models and a splendid assortment with large collars of Australian opossum, taupe wolf, nutria, or beaverette. The workmanship is perfectly executed, and the materials include chinchilla, imported Poneskin cloth, imported wool velvet, and fine quality Normandy cloth in Malay, beaver, deer, gray, Sorrento, navy and black.

200 Coats at 39.50

Loosely draped wraps, semi-fitted coats, with the new modish scarf and crushed collars of self material. Each is a perfect copy of a much costlier model, and every coat in the collection is silk lined. Chinchilla, imported Poneskin cloth, Normandy cloth, Chamo velour, and wool velve are the materials, in every desirable color. Some have natural raccoon collars.

150 Handsome Coats and Wraps at 69.50

These exquisite wraps and Winter coats are exact duplicates of costly imported models, and bring to you the very latest notes in authoritative Paris styles. Bolivia, Velydne, pollyanna, and superb quality Normandy cloths have been used to fashion them, luxurious collars of beaver, squirrel, and ring-tail opossum lending finishing touches. Choice of plain peau de cygne or crepe de chine linings. Fourth Floor greatest step yet taken toward the possible smoothing out of the difficulty.

According to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Dublin, belief is expressed there that the Earl of Granard has offered the Sinn Fein delegates to the conference his home in London during their stay here.

The British delegates to the conference have not been announced, but it is presumed that in addition to Mr. Lloyd George, who will preside, the others will likely be Lord Chancellor Birkenhead, Chief Secretary for Ireland Greenwood, Secretary for War Sir Laming Worthington Evans, Colonial Secretary Churchill and Home Secretary Shortt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—There is satisfaction in London that Eamon de Valera accepted Lloyd George's invitation. The Daily Express says:

"The country will be grateful to the Prime Minister for the patient skill with which he brought the long drawn out preliminaries to fruition. We trust he will now pursue his task of reconciliation and appeasement in the conference chamber with the same persistence and good will and with the same measure of success."

The Daily News says:

"It is now certain a conference will be held and though the negotiations may not be smooth and a series of more or less unreal 'crises' is not merely possible but probable, the outlook is distinctly hopeful. For the mere fact that the conference is meeting proves the one thing that really matters, that both sides are in earnest in desiring peace. If that is so it is in a high degree improbable that they will part without achieving some tolerable settlement."

The Daily Chronicle says:

"We must not delude ourselves into supposing that the difficulties are all overcome. This is but the first big step that has been taken, this agreement to enter a conference where each side understands the position of the other. That it is a very big step indeed we think few will deny, for it presupposes on both sides the wish and the will to arrive at a settlement. Both know the fatal alternative and surely have the wisdom to determine jointly that under no circumstances shall this conference be broken up until a peace acceptable to both sides has been concluded. The task may not be easy. Under no circumstances can the Government give way on the essential condition that Ireland must remain in association with the empire."

The Morning Post says:

"De Valera may well condescend to the favor which he has granted, for he will come to the conference as one who has already gained his point. Even the elementary condition that he should acknowledge the sovereignty of the Crown has been waived. The self-styled President of the Irish Republic has, on the other hand, committed himself to nothing, and he has gained another fortnight of that time which has been so invaluable to the Irish Republican Army in the training, equipping and recruiting of its ranks.

"On Oct. 11 the conference will take the place of the correspondence, but nothing else will be changed. The irreconcilable antagonism between the Crown and the republic will remain, and de Valera will have less reason than ever to do anything to abate it. The question that is now in discussion is whether the community of nations known as the British Empire is to continue to exist, and, thanks to the present Government even more than to de Valera, that question is well on the way to being decided in the negative."

GAIRLOCH, Sept. 30.—Eamon de Valera's reply was handed to Premier Lloyd George just as he was going in to dinner. He made no comment when he read the telegram.

One of the next things to be done is to select the Ministers to represent Britain at the conference. The Premier has not yet made up his mind on the question and may leave the choice to be decided by the Cabinet in London.

Dail Cabinet in Session.

DUBLIN, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—Although the Dail Eireann Cabinet sat for nearly three hours today and Eamon de Valera and Arthur Griffith did not leave the Mansion House until a late hour this evening, the discussion of the reply to Premier Lloyd George's invitation t oa conference occupied only a short portion of the proceedings, which were devoted mainly to other business, decisions on the reply to the Premier was unanimous, all argumentative points, by general consent, having been ignored.

Harry Boland of New York saw the leaders after the meeting and bade them farewell. He is returning to the United States.

During the day some telegrams from English sympathizers with the Irish case were received. These urged the Cabinet to accept Mr. Lloyd George's invitation without argument.

The Ulster question will be strongly pressed by the delegates at the London conference. The final of a series of Ulster deputations, one from North Antrim, will call on Mr. de Valera next Tuesday, and he is expected to make a detailed pronouncement on the Ulster question.

The decision of the Sinn Feiners to accept the invitation of Mr. Lloyd George to a conference was warmly welcomed in Dublin. Now that apprehension that prolongation of the argument might make the conference impossible has been removed, many persons, who previously had expressed the belief that Mr. de Valera was taking an unnecessary risk, tonight are praising his handling of the situation.

God's World.

O WORLD, I cannot hold thee close enough!
Thy winds, thy wide, grey skies!
Thy mists, that roll and rise!
Thy woods, this autumn day, that ache and sag
And all but cry with colour! That gaunt crag
To crush! To lift the lean of that black bluff!
World, World, I cannot get thee close enough!

LONG have I known a glory in it all,
But never knew I this;
Here such a passion is
As stretcheth me apart,—Lord, I do fear
Thou'st made the world too beautiful this year;
My soul is all but out of me,—let fall
No burning leaf; prithee, let no bird call.

"Year-'round" Suits for Men

And what an interesting comparison they afford.

$37.50

Most men will say to themselves: "How does this suit compare with the suit I bought last year? . . . Is the fabric as good? . . . Is the tailoring better? . . . Let me see—what did I pay last year?"

And, if his memory is good, he will be a very surprised and pleased man.

The wide choice of fabrics suggests oxfords, herringbones, hairline stripes, unfinished worsteds, cassimeres, cheviots and flannels—enough for the most fastidious.

Single or double-breasted—as you prefer.

And remember, please, that these are Wanamaker standard suits in every detail of fabric, fit and finish—at $37.50.

One Shirt and One Necktie—$1.75

$1.25 for the shirt; 50c for the necktie. The two together, at regular prices, would cost you from $2.85 to $3.35. SHIRTS—high count percale and corded madras; good patterns; good colors. NECKTIES—silk four-in-hands, bias stripes, dark effects, quite an assortment.

The Pearl Gray Soft Hat

is the hat of the moment. And why not? It suits all types of men. It has an optimistic, successful appearance. The gray hat worn in Bond Street—the Lincoln Bennett—is here at $8. American gray hats are $5.

George Duncan and Abe Mitchell

two of the world's foremost professional golfers, and of necessity the best authorities on the proper kind of golf clothing, came to the LONDON SHOP before they started out on their record-smashing exhibition tour of American courses, and fitted themselves out with the same kind of caps, golf stockings and cardigan jackets that helped them win championships in the Old Country. What is more, they came back the other day to replenish their golfing wardrobes and to enable them to finish their triumphal tour in a burst of sartorial glory.

Among the articles they seemed especially glad to see, and which they both welcomed as old friends, and bought, were roomy warm shetland cardigan jackets with dark blue stripes on a chocolate ground, and just the proper cut and freedom to allow them to get their average 230 yards off the tee.

The LONDON SHOP tweed caps, too, one of the most important items of a golfer's apparel, were with them while they were recording an average score for almost a hundred rounds of 18 holes on strange courses of a little over 72 strokes.

STATE TO HARNESS CANAL WATER POWER

Steps Will Be Taken This Winter to Utilize It, Governor Miller Says.

DISCUSSED FOR YEARS

Subject Now Being Studied by Water Power Commission—May Sell Electric Current.

After years of discussion the State, according to Governor Miller, will take steps this Winter to harness up water power developed on the Barge Canal, in the aggregate some 35,000 to 40,000 horse power, which so far has been going to waste. This water power is the property of the State. Some dams have already been constructed, and the Governor intimated that the development of hydro-electric energy might be undertaken and the current sold by the State itself.

The announcement was made by the Governor in response to a question as to what the new Water Power Commission was doing in relation to the development of a water power policy for the State.

"The Water Power Commission," the Governor said, "is engaged in studying its subject as other commissions have done before it. I did not expect that anything would be accomplished this year more than a closer study of the problem than it has had as yet. But we may have some things to do this Winter. I have in mind one thing that I am quite certain will be done. We shall certainly make provision for using the power that has been developed on the Barge Canal that is now running to waste."

"Will this power be taken over by private interests?"

"I am not sure of that," said the Governor. "The State has already constructed the dams. It is a question of hitching it up now. Of course, the Barge Canal presents a little different problem because of the fact that the water is first of all needed for navigation and the amount of it that would be available for power depends altogether on the use of the canal.

"The more shipping, the more water it requires to get the boats through the locks and it is in my mind a very serious question whether the two things are not so closely related that they must be kept under one management. But one thing I am very certain of and that is that we are going to harness this power. Why, at one place there are 12,000 to 13,000 horse power running to waste at Crescent Dam and Vischer Ferry, right there in the centre of an industrial district."

When it was suggested that to make the development one of value, it might be necessary to establish an auxiliary steam plant so that the current might always be maintained at a steady volume, gauged to the demands on it, Governor Miller said:

"The State might develop the power and sell it right at the buzz-bar, you know. Some other fellow would have to worry over and determine the steam problem. That is a matter that is being studied."

The Governor said that transportation on the Barge Canal had increased enormously during the year and would increase still more when traffic is resumed next Spring.

Governor Miller was asked whether he regarded recent disclosures made by the Meyer committee with regard to the conduct of the New York Police Department as calling for drastic action on his part. The Governor has power to remove the Police Commissioner.

"I might answer that by saying that I do not contemplate taking any immediate action," the Governor said.

FREE JACK'S FIRM OF LIQUOR SELLING

Dry Agents Fail to Connect Restaurant Owners With Alleged Sale by Waiter.

The firm of Jack's, Inc., headed by John Dunston, which conducts the well-known Jack's Restaurant at Sixth Avenue and Forty-third Street, was acquitted in the Federal District Court yesterday on a charge of nuisance in violation of the Volstead act. The verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury by direction of Judge William B. Sheppard on the ground that the prohibition agents testifying in the case had failed to connect the corporation with an alleged sale of a pint of whisky for $3 on Aug. 24 last.

The Bronx County Grand Jury called before it yesterday E. C. Yellowley, Associate Federal Prohibition Director for this State. It was reported that he was called in connection with a statement made to the jury by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright to the effect that the present tactics of the police in making searches and seizures of liquors in the Bronx would continue so long as liquor continued to come into the Port of New York from Canada, the Bahamas and from Europe.

Federal Prohibition Agents Whitford and Farrell arrested Louis Ferro yesterday in a butcher shop at 12 West 116th Street on a charge of selling liquor. The agents charge that Ferro, who gave his address as 19 East 114th Street, sold them a half pint of whisky for $1.15. The agents said they found an additional gallon of liquor in the cellar of the shop. The owner of the shop, the agents said, had no knowledge of the transaction.

SUES BOARD ON DELAY OF VOTING MACHINES

President of Young Republicans Seeks to Compel Elections Body to Obey New Law.

The Board of Elections was served yesterday with a writ of mandamus directing it to show cause why the contract for voting machines to be used at the coming municipal election should not be awarded. The writ was obtained by Benjamin M. Day of the Jamestown Automatic Registering Machine Corporation, of Jamestown, N. Y., and who is also President of the New York Young Republican Club. The writ is returnable next Thursday before Justice Henry D. Hotchkiss. Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel signed the order.

THREE-FOURTHS FOR WIFE.

Magistrate Rules That Is Fair Division of Husband's Pay.

Magistrate John Kochendorfer of Queens has established a ratio of three-fourths of a man's income for his wife and one-fourth for himself. Husbands brought before the Magistrate by their wives on the complaint that they fail to properly support them will have to observe this division to meet the approval of the Magistrate.

Walter Woerner of 33 Frankfort Street, Astoria, was before the Magistrate yesterday in the Flushing Police Court, charged by his wife with failing to adequately support her. His attorney told the Magistrate that Woerner was able to pay his wife but $7 a week.

"Woerner can pay only this amount to his wife because he has to pay $15 a week for his own room and board," said the attorney.

"How do you figure that a wife can support herself on $7 a week when the husband himself spends $15 a week?" asked the Magistrate. "I earn $8,000 a year and $6,000 of this I give to my wife. I have always maintained this relative ratio and it has resulted in a happy home. That is what your client will have to do."

YANKS PLAY TWO GAMES HERE TODAY

Hugmen Required to Play Off Yesterday's Postponed Contest With Athletics.

PENNANT NOT YET WON

Three New York Defeats and Two Cleveland Victories Would Reverse Present Standing.

Philadelphia's skies, in common with those of New York, were of no earthly good yesterday except as a watering pot, and, consequently, the second game between the Yankees and the Athletics, and the final one scheduled for Shibe Park, had to be called off, as far as Philadelphia is concerned. The Quaker City's loss is New York's gain—provided one is ready to admit that an opportunity to watch the Athletics in action may be called a gain—for the affray will be staged as one section of a double-header at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

There was an impression abroad in some quarters that the Yankees had clinched the American League pennant merely by remaining placidly idle for a couple of hours, for if yesterday's game were not to be played off the Indians, even conceding them victories in their remaining battles, could not overtake the Huggins warriors if the latter lost today to the Mackmen and tomorrow to the Red Sox. It was believed by many persons more or less familiar with the statutes of organized baseball that the Manhattanites could not be compelled to play off the game today on their home meadow, and, as one worthy phrased it yesterday in Philadelphia, "What a sap they'd be, bo, with the pennant won, to throw it out in the front yard and scrap for it again."

However, there was no need to worry on that score. In the absence of President Ban Johnson from his Chicago office, Secretary William Harridge explained the rule. Mr. Harridge said:

Game Must Be Played.

"The rule is that if the two teams postponing a game meet again in a regularly scheduled game before the end of the season, the postponed contest must be played in that series. Since Philadelphia and New York are scheduled to play in New York tomorrow, the game will have to be transferred there and played as part of a double-header. If the Yankees and Athletics were not scheduled to play again this season, New York would have won the pennant by being idle today."

The Yankees brought back with them from Philadelphia early last evening a player whom they had neglected—but not intentionally—to take along on the trip. This was the supreme slugger, Babe Ruth, from whose burly person a threatened attack of grip had been driven by a day's rest in bed. The Babe went to the Quaker City on the 11 o'clock train yesterday morning, prepared to take part in the tussle which was expected to nail the pennant to the New York masthead. He got as far as North Philadelphia and then was driven northward with his comrades in flight before the driving downpour.

The Indians' victory over the White Sox at Chicago yesterday does not increase the burden upon the Yankees, which is simply the not onerous one of winning either one of today's combats with the White Elephants or else tomorrow's closing game with the Red Sox. Even this slight cause of worry will disappear in case the White Sox should manage to defeat the Cleveland aborigines in one of their two remaining games.

Indians Have Chinese Chance.

If Cleveland should break even in its series with the Chicagoans and the Yanks should fail to record another victory, the standing at the close of the season would read thus:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	95	58	.621
Cleveland	95	59	.617

If, however, the Indians should take both of the final conflicts from the White Sox, with the local troupe losing three, the figures would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	95	58	.621

It is therefore, necessary for Huggins's men to take one game to insure themselves a whack at the Giants in the world's series. One more victory for the Yanks and two defeats, granting the two remaining games in Chicago to the world's champions of the dying season, would make the standing tomorrow night when the curtain is rung down read as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	96	57	.627

STYLES NOT TO PLAY.

Oriole Catcher Declared Ineligible for Series With Louisville.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—Catcher Styles of the Baltimore club, will not be allowed to play in the post-season series between Louisville, winner of the American Association pennant, and the International League champions, which begins at the Kentucky metropolis next Wednesday. The fact that Styles had come to the Orioles only a few weeks ago, and that from a major league, made him ineligible in the judgment of President Toole of the Internationals.

The burden of catching for the local club, it is understood, will therefore fall upon Ben Egan, who has been out of the game for several weeks with an injured hand. He is reported to be in good shape again, however.

The Baltimore team will leave for Louisville next Monday, according to present arrangements.

INDIANS HIT FABER AND BEAT WHITE SOX

Coveleskie Excels in Pitching Duel and Keeps Team in Race With 3-2 Victory.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Cleveland Indians, fighting desperately today to retain their place in the American League pennant race, refused to bow to the pitching prowess of Red Faber, pitching star of the White Sox, and batted out a 3 to 2 victory. The game was a thrilling pitching duel between Stanley Coveleskie, the ace of the Cleveland staff, and Faber, who was attempting to win his twenty-sixth victory of the season.

Coveleskie was unsteady at the start and Chicago got away to a one-run lead in the first inning. After two men were out, Collins singled to centre and Hooper followed with a single to right, and Collins scored when Sheely singled to centre.

Coveleskie settled down and was given sensational support in the next two innings, but in the fourth he lost control and Hooper was passed. Sheely worked him for a count of three and two and then hit to left for two bases, scoring Hooper. A quick double play by Gardner and Sewell and Mulligan's fly to Gardner ended the inning.

Faber pitched invincible ball until the fifth, when the Indians got the range. Gardner opened with a single and Sewell followed with another safe hit. Burns fanned and Faber walked O'Neill, filling the bases. Coveleskie's long fly to Hooper scored Gardner after the catch. Jamieson's single to right scored Sewell, and when Wamby singled to centre O'Neill counted.

Faber held Cleveland to seven hits, four of which were made by Jamieson, who had a perfect average.

CARDS TROUNCE PIRATES.

Hornsby Central Figure in 12-4 Victory Over Corsairs.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Hornsby Day was celebrated with a cardinal victory over the Pirates by a 12 to 4 score, making the third straight for the locals.

Rogers Hornsby, second baseman, was presented with two diamond rings, one from the Masonic lodge and another from a fund made up of public subscriptions. A diamond stickpin was given him by the Chamber of Commerce. Two thousand dollars worth of Liberty Bonds were also given him to be used in the purchase of a home here, together with a basket of flowers.

In return, Hornsby clouted a homer, two doubles and scored three runs.

This is the third of a series of six articles in which comparisons will be made of the playing strength of the world's series contenders.

The infields of the Giants and Yankees, which will be on display in the big series opening at the Polo Grounds on Wednesday next, unless the Yanks fall down completely today and tomorrow, furnish an interesting study. Each manager has at his call four dependable regulars with plenty of experience, sufficient steadiness on defense to give no occasion for worry, and most of them with ability above the normal on attack. Each has one player who may be classed as a weak hitter in this season of abnormal stickwork, though in the past Rawlings's mark of .278 and McNally's .264 would have been rated as good hitting.

Defensively there is little to choose between the two infields. Since the players must be rated on general worth to their respective clubs, the worth of these same players on attack must get consideration, and in this respect the advantage rests with the Giants. In hitting and base running the four regulars under the direction of John McGraw shape up above the four who will take care of the Yankee infield during the series. From the standpoint of reserves, a feature that may or may not be important in this series, the Yankees have all the better of the argument. Huggins has plenty of utility infield strength at his disposal, and McGraw very little. If one of McGraw's regulars is injured, as Jimmy Johnson of the Robins was hurt in the series with Cleveland last season, the accident might have serious consequences as regards the chances of the National Leaguers.

As to two of the four positions of the rival infields, one has but to assert that neither club has the advantage and immediately an argument is under way. In the other two positions, which are at second base and third base, there is not much room for argument. It the former the Yankees get the call, and at the final turn the advantage is with the Giants. At first and at shortstop each manager has a player especially fitted to do the work required, but there is no pronounced advantage in either position, unless the player is in a slump. Of the four men under consideration, two for each of these positions, Kelly varies the least in his daily play.

Kelly vs. Pipp.

Kelly vs. Pipp is always a good subject for debate and argument. Neither is a flash of the Tennsy, Chase or Sisler type, and neither is as skilful a fielder as McInnis of the Red Sox. Yet each is capable of defensive play that fits in well with a championship combination. Pipp has been tending first base for the Yankees for seven consecutive years, and he has played a big part in whatever success the club has enjoyed. In the old days, when home runs were something of an unusual nature, Pipp twice led his league in hitting for the circuit and once he tied for the honor. Then he shifted his style of batting so as to hit to left field, and his homers have not been so numerous.

Pipp is faster than Kelly, and, at his top form, which he frequently carries over a long stretch of play, would get the call over the big doortender of the Giants. On the other hand, Pipp is somewhat of a streaky player, one who gets into a rut, and for a stretch of games his work becomes uncertain, or mediocre. It is here that Kelly holds the advantage over the Yankee first sacker, as his play is less subject to streaks. Each furnishes a fine target for his infielders, and both are able to take throws which smaller men could not reach.

On the records of the current season Pipp has shown to advantage as a base runner, Kelly as a hitter. But the difference in stickwork has been slight, as far as average goes. Kelly has batted .306 and Pipp .297. Kelly has hit harder, and has had a greater percentage of drives for extra bases than has Pipp; but the latter, who takes a shorter swing at the ball, is not so likely to go out on strikes. Like most long-distance hitters, Kelly has to take the long chance with his great swing, and often it exacts a penalty.

Ward Over Rawlings.

At second base Ward will get the call over Rawlings. The Yankee second baseman, who was shifted to that position this year after a sensational season at third before Frank Baker returned to the club, is a flashy performer, with those big hands which are of so much value to an infielder. He covers plenty of ground around second base, although he has not shown to the same advantage at the midway as he did last year at third base. Rawlings has played a steady defensive game since coming to the Giants, and has paired up well with Bancroft, but he is not so brilliant on defense as his rival, nor is he so valuable on the attack. Ward has an extensive list of extra-base hits to his credit with twenty-nine doubles, as against twenty-one for Rawlings, ten triples against three, and five home runs against two. There is little to choose in base running as neither stands out in this specialty. Ward has batted .308 this season and Rawlings .278.

The rival shortstops, Bancroft and Peckinpaugh, leave little to be desired in their play. Each is a master workman at his position, and it is seldom that either goes through a game without turning in some scintillating play that borders on the impossible. Bancroft is the flashier performer of the two; Peckinpaugh is less spectacular but equally effective. Each has his spells of erratic playing, but they are shortlived, and neither has ever given local fans a feeling that somebody else would do the difficult work to better advantage.

On the last western trip of the Giants the wonderful work of Bancroft caused Manager McGraw to remark that he was playing the best game that John J. ever saw at shortstop. That is high praise, but undoubtedly was merited. In games at the Polo Grounds this season Peckinpaugh has been the more brilliant performer on plays to his right, while Bancroft has been a marvel on plays toward second base. At the bat each is dangerous, with Peck lacking the nervous temperament which sometimes seems to affect Bancroft.

Bancroft is fleeter on the bases than Peck, and his hitting mark for the year is above that of the Yankee shortstop. Peck, on the other hand, shines in the pinches, and has been rated as the best pinch-hitter of the Yankees for some years past. Batting just above Babe Ruth, Peck finds every pitcher working his head off to keep him off the bases so as to make the task against the home run king less difficult, yet he probably has reached first base more oftener this year than any other Yankee except Ruth. Like Bancroft, he has served as a lead-off batsman, although neither holds that position now. Each has a good eye for balls and strikes, but Peck naturally is easier to pitch to than is his rival.

Discussion of the shortstops might go on endlessly without getting anywhere in particular. Each is a heady player, handling the team in the field and each is a star on defense and a power on attack. Suffice it to say that if every position on the Giants and Yanks had a Peckinpaugh and a Bancroft to fill it the pennant race would have been settled long ago.

At third there is no argument. Frisch clearly excels the player who will hold down the position for the Yankees, be it McNally or Baker. On the bases Frisch has no near rival among the players of today. He is the best young player to come into baseball in years—a truly great hitter, a remarkably effective fielder, a headliner in every department of play. McNally is a brilliant defensive player but below normal as a hitter, and a poor base runner when one takes into consideration the speed at his disposal. On defense McNally leaves nothing to be desired. His value on defense is shown in the fact that he is keeping on the bench such a player as Frank Baker, one of the really great batsmen of recent years.

Indications are that Baker will not get into the series unless to finish games if McNally is taken out for a pinch-hitter. Baker lacks the speed of McNally and hence is less effective on defense but he always has been a dangerous hitter. However, taking all around play into consideration Frisch is well ahead of both rivals.

In reserve Huggins has a big edge over McGraw, but as long as the regulars stick in the game that advantage means nothing. McGraw has only one utility infielder—Walter Kopf—and he lacks experience. Huggins can use Meusel or Ruth at first base, Fewster at second, short or third; Mitchell at short, and Baker at third. With the regulars escaping accident all this strength will be nullified.

Summing up the infields the advantage rests with the Giants because of the superior hitting and base running. In defensive play there is no marked advantage either way.

MACK RELEASES PLAYERS.

Sends Myatt and Griffin to Milwaukee in Deal for Houser.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Glen Myatt, catcher, and Ivy Griffin, first baseman, were notified today by Manager Mack of the Philadelphia Americans that they had been released to the Milwaukee Club of the American Association. Both will report to Milwaukee next Spring.

Manager Mack said the release of the players was in accordance with a deal by which he expected to obtain Joseph Houser, a first baseman, from the Milwaukee club. Mack declined to make public details of the deal, which, he said, had not yet been definitely closed.

RAIN MARS LINKS PLAY

But Golfers Reach Semifinals in Cherry Valley Tournament.

Hazards disguised in the form of a blinding rainstorm and windstorm prevented the contestants in the invitation tournament at the Cherry Valley Club from finishing their second match rounds in the usual orderly fashion yesterday.

The only upset yesterday came in the defeat of John M. Ward of Garden City, at the hands of Rowe. Ward after having beaten E. Mortimer Barnes of Nassau, in the morning, was put out by Rowe, 3 and 1. Bourne, who won this tournament a year ago, had an easy match in the afternoon, eliminating F. B. Ryan of Fox Hills, 5 and 4. The last named, in the early hours, put out Ray Thompson of the Engineers, while Bourne eliminated Howard Maxwell Jr., of Nassau, 2 and 1.

The summary:

First Sixteen, First Round—Harold Rowe, Cherry Valley, defeated W. F. Ladd, Rockaway Hunt, 5 and 4; John M. Ward, Garden City, defeated E. Mortimer Barnes, Nassau, 5 and 4; Thomas Armour, Scotland, defeated J. T. Adams, Cherry Valley, 1 up; P. S. P. Randolph Jr., Lakewood, defeated Donald McKellar, North Hempstead, 1 up; A. S. Bourne, National Links, defeated Howard W. Maxwell Jr., Nassau, 2 and 1; F. B. Ryan, Fox Hills, defeated Ray Thompson, Engineers, 1 up; H. C. Berner, National Links, won from W. H. Harris, Cherry Valley, by default; Morton Feary, Garden City, defeated Malcolm Stevenson, Meadow Brook, 3 and 1.

Second Round—Rowe defeated Ward, 3 and 1; Armour defeated Randolph, 5 and 4; Bourne defeated Ryan, 5 and 4; Feary defeated Berner, 1 up.

Beaten Eight, First Sixteen, First Round—Barnes defeated Ladd, 2 and 1; McKellar defeated Adams, 8 and 7; Maxwell defeated Thompson, 3 and 2; Stevenson won from Harris by default.

Second Sixteen, First Round—H. J. Howell, Westhampton, defeated S. C. Mabon, Garden City, 2 and 1; R. Jonas Jr., Westchester, defeated E. L. Chalfont, Garden City, 5 and 3; C. P. Barton, Rockaway, defeated F. Allaire, Cherry Valley, 4 and 3; R. N. L. Church defeated Sterling Ivison, Cherry Valley, 2 and 1; B. W. Seaman, Cherry Valley, defeated S. Allison, St. Albans, 1 up (19 holes); Grant Peacock, Cherry Valley, defeated A. Stewart, Engineers, 5 and 4; J. B. Maxwell, Merion, defeated E. B. McKellar, North Hempstead, 3 and 1; J. Stacy Palmer, Cherry Valley, won from William Chrystal, North Hempstead, by default.

Second Round—Jonas defeated Howell, 3 and 2; Barton-Church match not played; Peacock defeated Seaman, 4 and 3; Maxwell defeated Palmer, 1 up (20 holes).

MRS. ROGERS IS WINNER.

Captures Low Net Prize in Women's Golf Tourney at Yountakah.

Mrs. J. N. Rogers of Yountakah was the winner of the low net prize in the one-day tournament of the members of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, which was held at the Yountakah Country Club, Nutley, N. J., yesterday. With a score of 96, 15—81, Mrs. Rogers was tied with Mrs. R. S. Newkirk of Baltusrol at the conclusion of the play, the latter having a gross card of 101 with a handicap allowance of 20. It was decided to draw for the prize and Mrs. Roger was the winner. The best gross score of the day was made by Mrs. Irving Brown of Knickerbocker with a 92. Mrs. W. A. Kipp of Yountakah and Mrs. A. B. Taylor of Glen Ridge were the winners of the nine-hole Scotch foursome with a 49, 7—42, and first and second places in the approaching and putting contest went to Mrs. Ralph Hoyt and Mrs. B. N. Mitchell of Yountakah. Other scores made during the day were Mrs. B. N. Mitchell, Yountakah, 97, 10—87; Mrs. S. Witherill, Echo Lake, 99, 12—87; Mrs. M. Moebius, Yountakah, 100, 12—88; Mrs. W. A. Kipp, Yountakah, 103, 15—88; Mrs. L. Dorr, Yountakah, 100, 12—88; Mrs. J. F. Fielder, Yountakah, 109, 20—89; Mrs. F. Mitchell, North Jersey, 109, 20—89; Mrs. R. Serbass, Arcola, 115, 25—90; Mrs. S. Taylor, Glen Ridge, 109, 18—91; Miss G. Selick, Glen Ridge, 105, 15—90; Mrs. R. Hoyt, Yountakah, 107, 16—91; Mrs. C. A. Dixon, Yountakah, 97, 6—91; Mrs. W. P. Hadwen, Yountakah, 107, 25—92, and Mrs. T. S. Stevens, Baltusrol, 104, 12—92. There were fifty-four entries.

English Pros at Shackamaxon.

A treat will be offered to New Jersey golf followers today when Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, the two British stars who are winding up their tour of American courses, will engage Pat O'Hara of Richmond County and Peter O'Hara of Shackamaxon at the latter's club in a 36-hole exhibition match. The O'Hara brothers scored a victory over Vardon and Ray last year and are out to repeat the performance against the present invaders.

20,000 FANS PAY TRIBUTE TO MATTY

Cheer Pitcher's Old Teammates to 2-0 Victory Over Giants in Testimonial Game.

BENEFIT MAY NET $45,000

$22,500 Rain Insurance on Giants-Braves Contest, Called in First Inning, Swells Total.

No more heartfelt and spontaneous tribute to a ball player could have been devised than that which was accorded at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon to one of the greatest—many think the greatest—pitchers of all time, Christy Mathewson. Players who were Matty's associates in the great days of his career and players of the champion Giants of today joined with 20,000 fans in a demonstration of admiration and affection for the man whose name has always been a synonym for skill, gameness and integrity on the diamond. The rain did all that rain could to cast a damper upon the proceedings. It interrupted the game between the former Giants and the Giants of today, which the old-timers finally won by a score of 2 to 0 in five innings, and it caused the cancellation of the league game between the Giants and Braves. Many there must have been among the 20,000 to whom came a vision of Matty himself out there in the box facing a desperate situation in a vital game and burning over the old fadeaway with the effectiveness that so often turned defeat into victory. Matty's was the undauted soul and still is the undaunted soul in the life battle he is fighting against the white plague at Saranac Lake.

There is difficulty in figuring the exact amount that will be turned over to Matty as a result of the performance, the situation being complicated by the forced cancellation of the game between the Giants and Braves. But this game had been insured against rain by the Giants' management for $22,500, and it was announced that the full amount, aside from the premium, would be turned over to the fund. The premium for the Giants' share of the rain insurance amounted to $1,575, leaving $20,925 clear, to be devoted to the fund. The Braves' part of the total insurance of $30,000 amounted to $7,500, but that sum is separate. It was stated that fans who wished the money for their tickets refunded would be accommodated, but that, if they were willing to forego their privilege, the price of their tickets would be added to the fund. The tickets will be redeemed only by mail and not until after the world's series are over. The sale of autographed baseballs netted $1,620. With the advance contributions, the sale of souvenir books and the money for tickets for which no refund is asked, there is a probability that the entire amount to be sent to Matty may reach the noteworthy figure of $45,000.

Matty Sends Message.

From Matty himself at Saranac Lake came a message of cheer and of appreciation of the high honor that was being done him by the team and the fans in whose interests he labored so brilliantly for more than a decade. Through the committee in charge of the testimonial Matty sent this greeting:

"On this day of days at the Polo Grounds I am glad to send heartiest greetings to my baseball friends. It is absolutely impossible for me to put into words my feeling of pleasure and gratitude at the manner in which the New York club and friends of baseball are honoring me, but it certainly is good to have friends who do not forget and who remember so substantially. With such support I cannot fail to win my game. Here is hoping that the Giants win theirs."

It was a joy to the thirty-second degree fans who crowded the stands to see Matty's associates once more in uniform and in action in the five-inning game between the Giants of yesterday and today. All of them received uproarious welcome, with especial emphasis upon the applause that greeted Matty's famous old backstop, Roger Bresnahan; George Wiltse, Larry Doyle, Jack Murray, Arthur Devlin, who captained the veterans, and Fred Tenney. Those who had not seen most of the old-timers for some years marveled a bit at the manner in which they had taken on weight. The figures of Tenney and Devlin, for instance, were a good bit removed from the outlines of old. But, one and all, the old-timers still packed a punch and handled themselves in the field and at bat with a liveliness and assurance that many a budding regular might envy. They won the game on merit, though, naturally, neither team took the issue too seriously.

George (Hooks) Wiltse handed out southpaw shoots for the ex-Giants for two innings and then gave way to Jeff Tesreau. Each yielded three hits but showed enough stuff in the matter of control to shoo the runs away. Neither attempted much in the matter of speed. Roger Bresnahan did the backstopping for Wiltse, and Jack Warner, who caught Matty when he was first breaking in with the Giants, now grayhaired but chipper as any youngster, was Tesreau's battery mate. Fred Tenney and Fred Merkle divided the honors at first base, Devlin and Hans Lobert were at third, and Billy Gilbert, Bill Dahlen and Ed Holly cavorted around the midsection of the infield. It was as gladdening a sight as any old-home week ever witnessed to see them whip the ball about the diamond with vim and abandon, albeit with not quite the rifle-shot accuracy that once characterized their throwing.

Veteran Gardeners Play Well.

In the outer precincts Larry Doyle, Moose McCormick and Jack Murray did patrol duty and alowed nothing to escape them. They covered a lot of ground, too. Jesse Burkett, who joined the Giants in 1890 as a pitcher, to be converted later into an outfielder, took Doyle's place in the outfield for an inning and had a whack at bat, smacking the ball on the nose with all the vigor for which he was once famous. It was not a safe hit but it had smoke. Amos Rusie, Matty's predecessor, did not get into the line-up, but he did some warming up before the game.

Bill Ryan did the hurling for the 1921 Giants and Aleck Gaston caught him. All the regulars were in their usual places behind Ryan. Bresnahan was wildly cheered when he strode to the plate to open the game. In consideration of matters of embonpoint, he declined to over-exert and took a base on balls. Tenney sent a pop foul to Gaston, but Gilbert took the chance of lame muscles and, by tall sprinting, beat out a bunt toward third. His effort came to nought, for Dahlen hit into a double play. For the champions, Burns singled and Frisch later beat out a bunt, but Wiltse applied the brakes in time to shut off a score.

The old-timers scored their first run in the second. Larry Doyle's eye was on the ball, as of old, and he pasted a single to left, after Devlin had flied out. McCormick forced Larry, but Murray and Wiltse followed with singles and McCormick scored. Bresnahan's fly ended that chapter. Rawlings doubled for the champions in the same round, but his three mates all flied out.

There was no scoring in the third. Merkle had a highly gratifying reception when he took Tenney's place at first for the vets. Burns singled off Tesreau, but a double play and a pap fly left him stranded. Big Jeff was pitching good ball.

The old-timers scored the second and last run of the game in the fourth. Doyle hoisted to Burns, but McCormick and Murray singled smartly. Tesreau skied to left, but Jack Warner singled and filled the bases. This set the stage nicely for Merkle, and Fred rose nobly to his opportunity. He blazed the ball to a place of safety in left and McCormick counted. Murray tried to follow him home and executed one of the fanciest of his old-time slides at the plate. But Gaston caught him. For the champs, Kelly and Rawlings hit safely, but could not make the circuit. Ed Holly went in at short for the veterans in this inning.

In the fifth Rawlings threw Holly out. Lobert singled but was forced by Burkett. Tesreau batted out of turn, but nobody minded an eccentricity like that. He forced Burkett for the third out.

Regular Game Called in 1st.

Only the first inning of the regular contest with the Braves was played, with Toney in the box for the Giants and McQuillan officiating for the visitors. Neither team scored. The rain was falling all the time with such violence that it soon became apparent that, even if it stopped, it would be impossible to continue playing in the mud.

In the interval between the exhibition and what was to have been the Giants' final league game of the season at the Polo Grounds, autographed baseballs were auctioned off. One signed by President Harding, Vice President Coolidge, Matty, Babe Ruth and George Kelly was sold to Truly Warner for $750. Douglas Fairbanks bought one with Hans Wagner's signature on it for $250 and others signed by Matty and other players fetched $620 for the fund, making a total of $1,620. Fred Lieb was assisted as auctioneer by Hans Lobert.

Easy for Governor to Pick The World's Series Winner

Governor Nathan L. Miller had his plans all made to attend the Matty testimonial performance at the Polo Grounds yesterday, being an ardent baseball fan and a great admirer of Big Six, but the rain interfered. He reached the grounds too late for the exhibition match between Giants and ex-Giants, but paid a visit to the clubhouse and chatted with Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, the club's Treasurer and with Manager McGraw. The Governor said he expected to attend the world's series. "Both contenders being New York teams, it will be difficult for you to pick a favorite," Mr. McQuade suggested. "Not so difficult as you might think," answered the Governor, "for it happens that Manager McGraw comes from my own home county of Cortland." The Governor was accompanied to the grounds by William Muldoon, Chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

HARTLEY-JACKSON BOUT CALLED DRAW

Decision Unpopular With Garden Boxing Fans—Hartley the Aggressor.

Willie Jackson, Bronx lightweight, and Pete Hartley, "the Durable Dane," battled through fifteen disappointing rounds at Madison Square Garden last night and when the final bell clanged the decision was announced as a draw. The verdict was received with disapproval by the crowd, as it seemed an injustice. Hartley appeared the winner on points.

The bout was below the average of Garden attractions, not through any fault of Hartley, but because of Jackson's comparatively poor showing. Hartley fought a methodical, consistent, steady battle, in which he did the major part of the leading and countered more cleanly and frequently than did the Bronx lightweight. This consistency and his untiring efforts on the offensive, compared with Jackson's comparatively timid assault, seemed to entitle Hartley to the honors in the majority of the rounds.

Jackson fought almost listlessly and the spectacular element generally associated with his ring work was missing, for the most part. He unleashed his heavy artillery in flurries that were few and far between. Likewise they were unproductive, so far as points were concerned, for the Bronx boxer was surprisingly wild.

Hartley's steady, plodding battle gave him an early lead, which he maintained throughout. The Danish lightweight ripped his left to the stomach and almost with the same motion brought the blow to the jaw repeatedly, upsetting Jackson's attack and countering past Jackson's attempted jabs At long-range work Hartley was the more effective, and at close quarters he worked without interruption until ordered to break by the referee. Jackson, in the clinches, held for the most part and refused to exchange with Hartley.

Jackson's first flash of aggressiveness came in the fourth round, when a right to the jaw stirred him to action. Hartley's defense proved a difficult problem, however, and most of Jackson's blows went wild. From the third round to the final bell Jackson fought almost exclusively with one hand—his left. With this first Jackson cut loose in a sweeping hook to stomach or face, but though the punch was tried repeatedly it seldom landed.

A crowd of less than 10,000 witnessed the bouts, a disappointing condition to those who are accustomed to overflowing crowds at Garden boxing shows. Gaps of empty seats yawned in the arena reserved section and first balcony, while a number of the boxes were unoccupied.

Morris Lux, Kansas City welterweight, stopped Jimmy Sullivan of Jersey City, former local amateur champion, in the fifth round of their scheduled eight-round contest, which opened the show. The pair furnished a lively exhibition while the battle lasted. Sullivan, clever and fast, appeared to advantage in the first round. In the second, Lux carried off the honors, pursuing a consistent offensive. The third was about even, but in the fourth Lux pounded his rival hard about the face and stomach and inflicted severe punishment. In the fifth Lux had his rival groggy and "out" on his feet, when Referee Jack Appel stepped between the combatants, stopping the contest to save Sullivan from further punishment.

In the second eight-round contest, Marty Cross and Marty Summers, east side welterweights, were the principals. Summers carried off the decision after eight satisfying rounds. Summers was more aggressive than his rival and landed oftener and harder.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH P. G. A. PLAY

Barnes and French Postpone Their Semifinal at Inwood Until This Morning.

HAGEN ELIMINATES WALKER

Latter Insists on Continuation of Match in Downpour and Is Beaten by 5 and 4.

It is a generally accepted truth in the rules of golf play that a three-some has little standing on the links; in fact, it has no standing whatsoever.

But yesterday afternoon, during the progress of the semifinals of the Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Inwood Country Club, and while Jim Barnes of Pelham, and Emmet French of Youngstown, Ohio, were struggling with might and main in one match and Walter Hagen of New York and Cyril Walker of Englewood in the other, to determine who shall occupy the calcium in today's final, two strangers made their appearance.

Arriving on the wings of Boreas, the two uninvited guests dropped down and joined the players. They announced themselves as Sandy and Jock Pluvius, respectively, and when they took a hand, the three-some had neither standing nor footing.

Up until the arrival of the unbidden pair, both matches were proceeding serenely and seemed to indicate that the morrow's struggle for the P. G. A. title, the $500 cash prize, the diamond medal and the silver cup, trophies donated for the occasion by Rodman Wanamaker for the winner, would be between Long Jim and Walter.

At noontime, Barnes, the national open champion, was 3 up on French, while Hagen enjoyed a 2-hole lead on Walker.

Just before the afternoon round got on its way, however, rain began to fall in sheets and it continued to fall in the same metaphor for the remainder of the afternoon. The players took advantage of a slight let-up to get started on the last half of the journey and managed to make a little progress. But at the sixth hole, Barnes and French decided that it would be futile to continue under the existing conditions. Greens that were once covered with a velvet of grass became lakes and rivulets and seas and oceans; fairways that were once fair were transformed into waterways, unnavigable except by boats. Flags, fifty yards away, might as well have been fifty miles so far as vision went.

And so Brnes and French entered into gentlemen's agreement to declare an overnight armistice and to meet early this morning to renew the battle at the seventh tee, the point at which it was abruptly broken off. At this bend in the stream Barnes was still up, but his margin had been cut down to two holes instead of three.

Hagen Defeats Walker.

Not so with Hagen and Walker. The Western champion was ready to make any reasonable concessions, and to enter into any sort of an understanding with his Englewood rival, but the latter was obdurate. He had no intention of making another trip from New Jersey to southernmost Long Island except as a certain finalist. If he was going to be eliminated he wanted to be eliminated without further adieu, and he was.

Playing in water ankle-deep, where each shot was obscured by a splash and where the ball plunked dead when it landed, the pair kept at it until the fourteenth hole, when Walker announced that he had had enough, Hagen being returned the victor by 5 and 4.

As a result, the former open titleholder will meet the winner of the Barnes-French duel as soon as the continuation contest is decided this morning. When things came to a close yesterday it looked as if the tall willowy Pelham pro would be the one chosen to make the fight against Hagen, but his margin over French is of such a delicate texture that the slightest slip this morning may change the whole complexion of the final.

Despite a high wind from across Jamaica Bay, which borders the Inwood course on three sides, a wind that blew in gusts and that brought all the cunningness and deftness at his command, Barnes turned out a 71 against French in the morning round yesterday, continuing the remarkable scoring that the Pelham star has done since the tourney started. A 68 on the opening day, and a pair of 69's together with yesterday's 71, is about as great an achievement as had been recorded this season, perhaps the greatest when the demands of the Inwood course are taken into consideration.

Even with that card, Barnes was only 3 up on French who had himself turned out a 74.

Barnes Starts With Rush.

He started out with a rush, scoring a birdie 3 on the first hole against a possible 4 for French. Barnes's drive drifted away to the rough at the right of the fairway, but he made effectual use of his mashie, leaving himself a twelve-foot putt for a 3.

Following a pair of 4's at the second hole, Barnes became 2 up by winning the third, his opponent taking three putts where only two were called for, the last one leaving the ball hanging on the lip of the cup. Playing the 502-yard fourth against the wind, Barnes pulled his second shot to the deep pit to the left of the fairway while French was short. The Pelhamite made a fine recovery and they halved the hole in 5's.

French managed to win the fifth when Barnes was trapped with his iron second and failed to get clear with his next. French, nicely on in two, was conceded the hole after Barnes overshot the pin by twenty feet. The next two holes were halved, French atoning for a short tee shot at the seventh by laying his chip dead to the pin.

Long Jim again became 2 up by winning the home hole after French had gotten away a short drive and was still short of the green with his second. At the turn Barnes had a 36 to a 37 for his home-bred rival.

They halved the tenth in 3s, but French became three down through failure to get down a two-foot putt at the eleventh. They also had 4s at the twelfth, where Barnes almost got home with a 300-yard drive, but twice overran. French was in the trap with his drive, but made a brilliant recovery for the half. He lost the next hole, however, by failing to run down a 6-footer, whereas Barnes dropped one into the cup from twice that distance. The next two were halved and then French won the sixteenth by placing his long brassie within ten feet of the pin. He also captured the seventeenth, but lost the next by pitching his third into the water.

Barnes 2 Up at End.

Three down when the afternoon round started, French won back two holes by the time the fourth tee was reached. He dubbed his drive at the first, but won the hole when Barnes got into the rough and failed to get out. Long Jim got back his losses by winning the fourth and fifth, but French captured the sixth, the last hole played, with a par 3.

Hagen started out as if he had every intention of making short work of his problem with Walker. After halving the first hole in 4's, the conqueror of Sarazen had a streak of wildness at the next two, taking a 5 for each. Going to the fourth Walker topped his drive and then found the traps, giving Hagen another win, but he offset it by taking the fifth with a 4 to Hagen's 5, the latter slicing into the rough. They alternated on the next two holes, halved the sixth in 3s and winning the seventh with a 3, while Walker took the eighth with a 4, one over par. Hagen was 2 up at the turn, going out in 38 to Walker's 41.

Walker lost the tenth, his tee shot landing in a trap at the back of the green, and Hagen also took the eleventh, leaving him 4 up. From that point on Walker started out to close the gap, winning the twelfth, thirteenth and sixteenth with par 4s, but losing the seventeenth, where he was trapped. At the end of the first half Hagen was 2 up and had a 76 against Walker's 79. The wind bothered Hagen considerably toward the close, and his score was the highest that he has had since the tourney started.

After being in the rough Hagen had a chance for a win at the first hole in the afternoon through a remarkable recovery with his tee shot. He pitched to within five feet of the pin, but failed to get down his putt, Walker getting a half. The Englewood player took the second after Hagen had outdriven him by almost fifty yards. They were both on in two, but Walker putted up for an easy four, while Hagen was short and then missed.

Rain Necessitates Halt.

The rain began to fall in torrents here, but after an intermission play was resumed. Hagen took the third when Walker was in the rough and then into the bunker.

Hagen was a stroke better than Walker on the green but almost missed his 5-foot putt for the win. The fifth was halved in 5's, both players being forced to lift on account of the water which covered the green. Walker got a birdie 4 at the fourth hole, but it was not good enough to win the hole. Hagen, out far ahead with a tremendous drive, was trapped, but he almost holed out, his ball rolling a foot away from the pin. Walker was short on his second but hit the pin with his approach and had a lucky four.

Going to the short sixth, Hagen was trapped and took a 5, losing the hole. They halved the next two, but Walker won the ninth with a par 4 and was only 1 down at that point. He had a 39 and Hagen a 40. The Western champion took four out of the next five and ended the match at the fourteenth. He had a birdie 2 at the tenth, a par 4 at the twelfth, another birdie at the thirteenth and his par 5 was good enough for a win at the last hole, Walker taking a 6.

Freshman Sees Mahan Punt, Advises Him to Try for Team

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 30.—Although the football fame of Eddie Mahan, considered by many the greatest football player of all time, may live after him it does not attach to him now with all students at Harvard, his alma mater. Eddie came back to Cambridge to coach this year, trying to teach the young gridiron idea the details of his famous triple threat. A freshman in training for a manager's job saw him kick several of the twisting punts that formed one of his several specialties. The freshman approached him and remarked: "Say, those are great spirals you are getting away." Mahan's answer was the smile known on every gridiron on which he has played. The freshman stayed to see some more, then blurted out: "Say, do you know, I'd advise you to go out for a back on the freshman team. You might make the eleven. Have you played football much?"

BRITISH GOLF PROS WIN ANOTHER MATCH

Mitchell and Duncan Defeat McNamara and Crossan, 7 Up in 27 Holes.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST WILLISTON, L. I., Sept. 30.—When rain interceded at the end of nine holes of the afternoon round of the exhibition match at the Wheatley Hills Golf Club between Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, the British golf stars, and Frank McNamara of Cherry Valley and James Crossan of the home club today, the visitors were 7 up on their opponents and had added another victory to their swelling list.

The Britons were 3 up at the end of the morning round, having a best ball of 69 to a 72 for McNamara and Crossan. Duncan's birdie 3 at the second hole in the afternoon gave them another by the time rain began to fall, and after playing the remaining seven to the turn, it was decided to call it quits. The visitors had a best ball of 34, one under par, at the half-way mark, a feat that, considering the weather conditions, represented remarkable scoring.

EDWINA SCORES IN STONYBROOK STAKES

Comes Back After Race on Previous Day to Take Closing Feature at Aqueduct.

Coming right back after a hard race the day before, W. S. Kilmer's filly, Edwina, proved to be an excellent mud runner and easily captured the Stonybrook Selling Stakes at a mile, which was the feature for the closing day at Aqueduct yesterday. She had but two rivals in the race and came from behind in the stretch to win by two lengths from Crystal Ford with Regal Lodge bringing up the rear two lengths further away.

The Aqueduct meeting which had been a successful one and which had provided some very good sport, came to a close under most unfavorable weather conditions. Time and again during the afternoon the course was swept with heavy downpours until the track was several inches deep with water and mud. But the threat of a moist afternoon had little effect on the attendance, for one of the largest crowds of the meeting turned out. Nor did the mud have much effect on form for favorites more than held their own despite the suddenly changed conditions. The rain earlier in the day had, however, caused numerous scratches, and the feature event in particular suffered from the blue pencil for five of the original entries were withdrawn.

Edwina was not only at home in the going, but seemed to suffer no ill-effects from her race of the day before. She was made a strong favorite and though conceding much weight to the other two she disposed of her opposition without much trouble, once she started to run.

Crystal Ford Takes Lead.

Crystal Ford, the outsider in this small party, left the barrier much better than usual and at once rushed into a long lead. Turning out of the back stretch he was three lengths in front of Regal Lodge, while the favorite was trailing. But Edwina began to move up on the turn and was a close second by the time she was straightened out in the stretch. She gradually moved up on Crystal Ford until she caught him at the furlong pole. She raced with him for a few strides and than drew away and scored very easily. Crystal Ford, however, had little contention for second place since Regal Lodge went wide at the head of the stretch and then tired badly in the final furlong.

The heavy rain came just in time to make the track suitable for Charles A. Stoneham's Recount and the chunky little son of Ballot captured the Parole Handicap at a mile in a driving finish with Sunnyland. Dimmesdale was the only other starter in the race. Recount had nothing to boast of in his victory. He was kept off the early pace while Dimmesdale was racing in front, and did not move up until headed for home. Dimmesdale had quite enough by the time he reached the furlong pole, but Sunnyland was still full of running and fought it out gamely, though he had been poorly handled in the early running. He hooked up with Recount a furlong from the finish and fought it out to the wire, Recount winning by a head under a vigorous ride by Fator. Dimmesdale was six lengths back.

The crowd witnessed the début of what is apparently a high-class two-year-old in the final race at five furlongs when Horologe, owned by William M. Wallace, made a show of a field of juveniles. He led home Commander McMeekin by nearly four lengths with Venezelos third among a dozen starters.

Horologe Proves Worth.

Horologe is a son of St. Amant out of Hour Hand and comes from a line of distinguished race horses, among which is Houriess, one of the best of recent years. Horologe had been working in a sensational manner, and so he was made the favorite in spite of the fact that he had never raced before. That he is a good colt which does not have to carry his track with him he proved by running the five furlongs over the sloppy track in 1:00 3-5. This is better time than most of the juveniles are able to make on a fast track.

Horologe was ridden by Cliff Robinson, it being the last mount for that rider until his case is taken up by the Jockey Club. Robinson got the colt away quickly and Horologe rushed into a good lead before reaching the elbow. It was difficult to distinguish colors through the mist that hung over the track but Horologe came into plain view well in front of all opposition and had plenty to spare at the end without having been unduly urged. Venizelos had been raced down at the furlong pole and yielded second place to Commander McMeekin, which finished with good speed.

Jockey and Agent Barred By Stewards at Aqueduct

Jockey Cliff Robinson, contract rider for the Xalapa Farm and Lexington Stables, was suspended by the stewards at Aqueduct yesterday for alleged violation of the rule which governs betting by riders. At the same time, E. Delling, an agent, was denied admission to the grounds, and the action in both cases will be enforced during the meeting at Jamaica pending final action on the cases by The Jockey Club.

Delling was denied the privileges of the course for alleged violation of a rule governing betting in behalf of jockeys.

It was not stated in the announcement what particular instance brought about the suspensions, but the stewards had been making an investigation for some days, it was said. Both cases have been automatically referred to the stewards of The Jockey Club for final action.

PETER DAW BREAKS TRACK PRECEDENT

Scores Third Victory of Meeting as Columbus Grand Circuit Closes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Grand Circuit racing came to a close here today, with Peter Daw, by winning the 2:10 trot, gaining the distinction of having won three races during the present meet, something never before done by any trotter in the history of the local track.

In the 2:13 pace Wanda May also turned in her second victory of the week in a hard battle with Direct Light and Billie J. K., the former winning the first heat of the event.

CARETAKER WINS FEATURE.

Whitney Filly Surprises at Havre de Grace—Pays 10 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 30.—E. F. Whitney's two-year-old filly, Caretaker, which was making her first start in more than a month, proved to be a surprise in the feature event at Havre de Grace today, a five-and-a-half-furlong dash for juveniles. She took the measure of a large field, winning by a head from Fannie Bean, with Bountiful but a nose away in the third place. The winner paid better than 10 to 1 in the mutuels.

NEW RACE FEATURE AT JAMAICA TODAY

Interborough Stake Stellar Event on Fall Opening Card—Fast Horses Entered.

Local racing moves on to Jamaica today, where it will make its last stand on Long Island in the thirteen-day meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club. From there the sport shifts to Empire City, where, as far as New York is concerned, the curtain will come down on the sport.

If the card at Jamaica is not marred by too many scratches, it should prove highly attractive, for some of the best horses left in training here have been named for the several events. Interest will probably centre on the new stake event, the Interborough Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, for three-year-olds and upward. This has $3,500 added, and is an addition to the program of other seasons.

The new stake has attracted Mad Hatter, Knobbie, Audacious, Georgie and Kingdom 2d, and, under the weights, should prove to be a very good race. Audacious is the high-weight horse, having picked up a penalty of five pounds for his last victory, and will have to carry 132 pounds if he starts this afternoon.

The Fall Highweight Handicap, at six furlongs, for all ages, is another feature of promise. Thunderclap, Knobbie, Audacious and the two-year-old Missionary have been named for this, and there should be plenty of speed in the race. The other events are well filled, and the prospects of a heavy track will give mudders a preference again.

The entries and weights follow:

FIRST RACE—Conditions; for two-year-olds; five and a half furlongs. Castanet 104 pounds, Chesterbrook 107, Lady Baltimore 109, Modesty 104, Leghorn 109, Avispa 104, Pequest 99, Toil 117, Penitent 99, My Play 102, Emotion 109, Finality 102, Irish Brigadier 107, Sleiveconard 107, Rib Grass 107, Black Rascal 112.

SECOND RACE—Claiming; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Genie W. 111 pounds, Irish Dream 109, Whisk 116, *Sedgefield 103, *Neddam 104, Courtship 109.

THIRD RACE—Selling; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and seventy yards. Genie W. 113 pounds, Jock Scot 106, *Knight of the Heather 106, Rep 108, Whisk 116, Tufter 114, Light Rose 100, Sea Sinner 106, Tody 109, Court View 100, Lampus 100, Crack o' Dawn 102, Siren Maid 105.

FOURTH RACE—The Interborough Handicap; $3,500 added; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Audacious 132 pounds, Kingdom 2d 100, Mad Hatter 128, Knobbie 118, Georgie 121.

FIFTH RACE—Claiming; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Sammy Kelly 115 pounds, *Saddle Ring 110, Thimble 112, Crack o'Dawn 105, Sea Sinner 111, Paddy Whack 113, Pickwick 115, Lampus 115, Tody 106, *Eye Opener 97, *Escarpolette 105, *Pansy 99, Vista 104, St. Isidore 113.

SIXTH RACE—High Weight Handicap; for all ages; six furlongs. St. Allan 102 pounds, Elected 2d 112, Missionary 100, Audacious 140, Thunderclap 140, Ten-Lec 114, Knobbie 130.

WINS TWO HUNTER AWARDS.

Mrs. Hitchcock's Entries Top Feature Class at Mineola Fair.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock's Conniston and the same owner's Ketch carried off first and second ribbons in the class for hunters, which was one of the feature classe sat the Mineola Fair Horse Show on the Nassau County Fair Grounds here this afternoon, J. S. Phipps's Jack Pot was awarded third prize and Charles Cooper's Tip Top was fourth.

The class, as was the case with the others held through the afternoon, was decided in a drenching downpour, which caused the cancellation of the scheduled harness events and placed a damper on what was expected to result in the biggest day of the fair. All of the exhibitors in the horse show were compelled to ride in the deluge which marred the day's activities. The day was set aside as "school children's day," and school students of Nassau County were admitted free. The youngsters came in droves, in truckloads and trolleys and every means of conveyance, until more than a thousand were in attendance.

Mrs. Leland S. Woods's Bohemian Silk earned two prizes for its owner. This saddle horse carried off the premier award for saddle horses of fifteen hands, receiving the prize over J. R. Collins's Dark Rosaleen, Charles E. Butler's The Madcap and the Sequatogue Farm's Springtime, which were placed in that order. In the combination class for best harness and saddle horse, Mrs. Woods's entry finished third. The winner of this class was N. J. Hess's Desert Gold. Second prize went to Miss Katherine Tuttle's Black Rock. Miss Jessie Martins's The Last Word was placed fourth.

Edward Rowland's Grey Eagle carried off the premier award in the branded class. Miss Martens's Blackie was second, Julius Fleischman's Peacock third and Harry Plumb's Pigeon fourth. Miss Grace G. Shuttleworth rode her Outlaw in the class for green hunters and received the blue ribbon. Byford Ryan's Cannie Jock was second, Miss Eleanor Langley's Oh, Girl was third and Robert L. Ahles's Kelbland fourth.

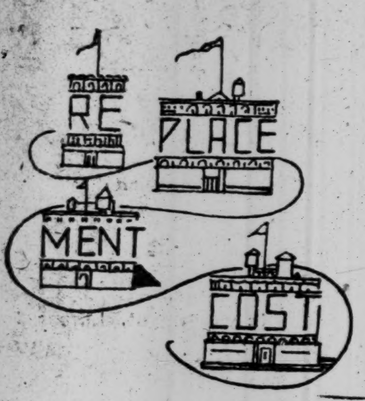
SPECIAL RACE TRAINS TO-DAY (SATURDAY) leave Penn. Station, 33rd Street and 7th Ave., also Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, at 12:15, 12:35, 12:55, 1:15, 1:30, 1:40 P. M. From Nostrand Ave. 5 min. later. Leave N. Y. 8 min. later. Special Car Reserved for Ladies on all Race Trains. Also by Lexington Ave. "L" to 160th St., Jamaica, thence by Trolley. GRAND STAND, $3.85, Including Tax.



With the general interest in prices to-day, we don't believe we'll bore our friends and customers by restating the gist of our yesterday's talk.

We heartily agree with the view expressed at the National Unemployment Conference that to-day's selling prices should be based on to-day's lowered costs of replacement.

That's just how we've worked this last year and more.

Suits and overcoats, for example. The woolens used in our new Fall clothes were contracted for a year or so ago at prices prevailing then. But our price to you is based on to-day's reduced quotations on the same quality goods.

Otherwise we'd never be able to offer our sort of clothing for as little as $45 and $50.

The same principle applies to our prices on hats, shoes and fixings.

Thus, hats begin at $5, oxfords at $8, shirts at $2—and so on all through our stock of Fall wearables for men and boys.

Princeton, Cornell and the Service Aggregations Among Those to Open Season.

LOCAL TEAMS IN DEBUT

Columbia to Clash With Amherst on South Field—N. Y. U., Stevens and C. C. N. Y. Face First Test.

The football season, which got away on one foot last Saturday, will step off on the other foot today. To be sure, those who wear the moleskin and chase the pigskin will have to stay up stage until the world's series gets through using the spotlight, but by the time the baseball supremacy of the universe has been decided for another year the gridiron troupes will have their little act so well rehearsed that the spectators will be ready to give the performance undivided attention.

Interest today will centre chiefly in the debut made by Princeton. The appetite of the Tiger has been whetted in recent seasons by generous slices of Bulldog steak, and his temper has been goaded by the stubborn battling of Harvard. The Lord of Jungletown is pretty well wrought up this year, and rumor has it that he will leap from the brake with claws unsheathed and teeth bared, determined to drag back to his lair the hide and bones of all who seek to stand in his way.

On paper, at least, it looks as if, of Harvard, Princeton and Yale, this would prove an Orange and Black year. Last season Princeton, together with all that brilliancy which is invariably characteristic of a Tiger eleven, showed a mastery of the game and a sweep and power in execution which all but made the Orange and Black champions at large. And this year Head Coach Roper has a sufficient number of veterans left from that all but invincible eleven to form considerably more than the nucleus of his team.

Princeton Looks Strong.

The Tiger, which plays Swarthmore today, starts the year with two of Walter Camp's selections for his first-string all-American eleven of 1920, namely, Keck at tackle and Lourie at quarterback. In addition, there is in the backfield Garrity, who was one of Camp's second-string choices. These accomplished players will steady and assist the less experienced and less able men, who will not be so inexperienced or so less able as Princeton opponents might like. Some of the best material eased itself out of athletics by choosing the primrose path in scholarship instead of pursuing the elusive grades along a straight and narrower way; but there is plenty of good timber which escaped the Dean's axe. To mention but two players, there is Cleaves, who got into the game with Harvard last year as substitute for Murrey, and Baker, tackle on the 1919 eleven, who was ineligible last year. With the shifty, versatile Lourie at quarter and Keck, not only playing his aggressive, heady game at tackle but captaining the team as well, the Tigers, if all goes well, should have one of the greatest football aggregations ever put into the field.

In the metropolitan area both Columbia and New York University open on their home fields today. Stevens will journey to Middletown, Conn., to try conclusions with Wesleyan. The Engineers have a remarkable record of consecutive victories, and they will strive to keep their slate clear. The College of the City of New York will also today make a start toward the resumption of football, which has not been played by that institution for many years. C. C. N. Y. believes in not despising the day of small things, and will, in consequence, play only a freshman eleven this year. The game today w be with Evander Childs High School at the Lewisohn Stadium.

Columbia will clash with Amherst, and, judging from the way the Purple and White went down before Springfield College last week, the Blue and White should wave at the top of the flagpole today by a comfortable margin. Indeed, such dolorous reports have trickled in from South Field as to the ineptness of Columbia gridiron aspirants, that the margin of victory is likely to be very wide; when the undergraduate despairs of his team it is frequently the time for the enemy to clear the road to the cyclone cellar.

New York University is to line up against Hobart, which retreated last week before Syracuse on the blank end of a 35 to 0 score. The Violet warriors have been training on the preserves of Uncle Sam's doughboys, at Fort Slocum, and are said to have learned to "snap into it" on every play with both dash and power.

Service Elevens Ready.

Since nothing but gold braid stands between the doughboy and his officers, it is logical that the two service elevens should be mentioned next. The Army opens today in a double-header against New Hampshire State and Springfield. The Navy will train its big guns against North Carolina State.

The soldiers should have little trouble with the White Mountain outfit, but they will have to keep an aerial eye open when Springfield cuts loose. The Massachusetts team scored all of its four winning touchdowns against Amherst last week as the result of forward passes. But being forewarned in the Army is to be prepared, and it is unlikely that Springfield can stage another debacle.

Interest in the Navy looks ahead of today's opener, which should prove simple enough for the middies. The Navy has as nearly a veteran eleven as is likely to be found at the start of a season. Wilkie, second-choice All-American guard of last season, is at sea as a junior officer, and so are two others. Outside of these, the line and the backfield which defeated the Army last year are intact. On paper, the Navy should torpedo every one of its opponents between now and the season's close with ease, excepting, of course, Princeton. But veteran teams sometimes blow up, and one will do well to wait until after the Polo Ground clash before writing the history of the team. The service elevens, able as they always are, seldom measure quite up to the best on the college gridirons, because of the more limited time the future Generals and Admirals are allowed to devote to the pastime.

Cornell also opens today, with a game at Ithaca with St. Bonaventure. Gilmour Dobie, the sphinx of football, has ten letter men in the Big Red squad, but he is reported as not any too well satisfied with their performance in practice so far this year, and they seem to be about as secure in respective berths as a steamship passenger who attempts to sleep on a smoking-room table in a heavy sea. The Saints and Colgate played each other to a 7 to 7 tie a week ago, and the Cornell set-to looks the least one-sided of any of the games scheduled for today in this region. Another up-State eleven to buck the line today for the first time this year is Hamilton, which plays Williams at Clinton. Across the line in Pennsylvania, Lehigh will meet Susquehanna at South Bethelhem.

Games in the South.

Moving southward, Georgetown, which always puts an aggressive, scrappy eleven into the field, opens against Lebanon Valley; Johns Hopkins will play Mount St. Mary's College, Washington and Lee will start the season by entertaining Rand-Macon, and Georgia University will strive to defeat Mercer.

More of the Big Ten, officially known as the Western Conference, which started to unlimber last week, will take the field today. Chief of these is last year's title winner, Ohio State, which, minus the mighty Stinchcomb, who has been graduated, will batter at Ohio Wesleyan. Chicago plays Northwestern, Iowa meets Knox, Purdue and Wabash clash, Michigan plays Mount Union, and Minnesota opens against North Dakota. Further West, Nebraska will start against Nebraska Wesleyan.

CONFERENCE TEAMS START PLAY TODAY

Chicago and Northwestern to Open Season—Other Elevens in Practice Games.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Western Conference football season will open tomorrow, with Chicago and Northwestern playing the one intraconference game of the day and seven other elevens facing non-conference teams in preliminary games. Illinois, runner-up in last year's race, is the only team not going into action.

The Chicago-Northwestern game, at Stagg Field here, will be the first hurdle for Coach Alonzo Stagg's untried Maroon eleven, and will give the Chicago University athletic director an idea of what strength he will be able to develop for the intersectional contest with Princeton later in the season. Northwestern is considered weak, because of its 7 to 0 defeat last Saturday by Beloit College, which had been regarded as a minor institution in the athletic realm.

Michigan and Wisconsin, looked on in pre-season predictions as two of the strongest conference teams, meet Mount Union and Lawrence College, respectively, while Ohio State, last season's champion, will play Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus. Minnesota will try out its reconstructed eleven against North Dakota, while the other contests will find Iowa opposed to Knox, Purdue facing Wabash, and Indiana meeting Kalamazoo.

TENNIS PLAY GOES ON.

Eight Teams Survive in Met. Inter-Club Tourney at Greenwich.

Play will be continued today and tomorrow in the tournament for the interclub championship of the Metropolitan Lawn Tennis Association, the third round being scheduled for today and the semifinals for tomorrow. Eight clubs survive the test, in which the opening rounds were completed last Saturday and Sunday.

In the matches this afternoon, the New York Tennis Club will meet the Hamilton Grange Tennis Club on the latter's courts; the Amackassin Country Club will play at the West side Tennis Club, Forest Hills; the Terrace-Kings County Tennis Association of Brooklyn will oppose the Montclair Athletic Club on the former's courts and the Elizabeth, N. J., Town and Country Club will act as host to the Jackson Heights Tennis Club of Long Island.

RAIN HALTS NET TOURNEY.

Women Semi-Finalists to Continue Play Today.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 30.—Rain halted the continuation of the annual invitation lawn tennis tournament of the Greenwich Country Club after a start had been made in the semi-final round of the women's singles. Mrs. Edward Raymond and Miss Marian Chapman had worked the games to 5-all in the first set of their match, and Miss Eleanor Goss was leading Miss Marie Wagner by 3-1 in the other semi-final when the rain arrived. Play will start tomorrow morning at 10:30, and continue all day in the effort to catch up with the schedule so that all the final round matches may be played on Sunday.

TELLIER TITLE WINNER.

Takes Bay State Golf Crown From Cowan in Play-Off.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 30.—Louis Tellier, professional of the Brae Burn Country Club, Newton, today won the Massachusetts Open Golf Championship by defeating John Cowan at the Essex County Country Club 80 strokes to 81 in an 18-hole play-off of their recent tie for the title.

18-YEAR-OLD STAR WINS.

Miss Collett Adds Boston's Women's Golf Title to Her Laurels.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., an 18-year-old girl, today added the championship of the Women's Golf Association of Boston to her Rhode Island State women's title. She defeated Mrs. H. R. Watson of Canton, 3 up, 2 to play, in the final of the local championship tournament.

COLUMBIA PRIES LID OFF SEASON TODAY

O'Neill's Eleven to Engage Amherst on South Field in Initial Test.

What Coach Buck O'Neill has up his sleeve besides the customary amount of muscle will be partly revealed on South Field this afternoon when Columbia's football warriors lift the curtain on another football season. Amherst, which occupies the place of honor on the Morningside football schedule, is not expected to be the most formidable of this year's opponents, but should be strong enough to give O'Neill's team a good early season test. Straight football will probably be the weapon used, and against this Amherst will have a capable and veteran line.

Undergraduate interest in the first appearance of the O'Neill-coached eleven was indicated in a brisk advance sale of tickets yesterday. Graduate Manager of Athletics R. W. Watt announced that the sale of pasteboards and Athletic Association tickets had been unusually large for such an early contest, and a large, if not capacity, throng, is expected when the South Field gates are thrown open for the first time since last Fall. The game will get under way at 2:30 sharp.

The initial battle this afternoon will be more of a test for backfield than for line as far as Columbia is concerned. O'Neill is making few experiments with his line, which has both experience and weight to boast of. The Blue and White forwards, with only one exception, have seen previous service, and they will take the field possessing the tidy average of more than 190 pounds. Several of the players have been shifted from one position to another, but in their entirety they represent practically the same line that O'Neill sent on the field during most of last season.

Backfield Is Problem.

The backfield, however, presents another and more serious problem. Thornton, who will start at one of the halves, is a veteran of the 1920 campaign, and Moszczenski, fullback, is familiar to South Field crowds. But the quarterback, Buck Freeman, will be making his début on South Field, and he represents an experiment of the most delicate kind. Another of the backs, Koppisch, is a runner of note but an uncertain quantity on the football field. Whether or not he will be able to make Columbians forget the redoubtable Frank Canapary is a question that has no immediate answer.

Amherst has already opened its season and has had no great success while doing so. The cohorts of Lord Geoffrey met Springfield last Saturday and were trounced to the emphatic tune of 26 to 0. A forward pass attack, which netted four touchdowns, proved to be the undoing of the Purple and White, but it is not believed that Coach O'Neill will wander far away from the path of straight football in today's encounter. Like last season the former Syracuse mentor is more likely to be slow in unfolding his attack, and both kicking and passing seem destined to take second place to straight line rushing and off-tackle plays. If the field is heavy and slow, of course, the aerial attack will be more favored.

The changes that have been made in the Columbia line will share interest with the presence of new men in the backfield. At centre, for instance, the familiar figure of F. F. Fargo will loom up for the first time since the régime of Fred Dawson. Fargo was a cracking good centre in his heyday and this season retained enough of his ability to force other candidates out of the running. One of the pivotal candidates, Frank Brodil, has been shifted clear over to end, a new position for him, but one in which O'Neill believes he will shine.

Scovil Is Shifted.

Even Captain Scovil has not been immune to this tinkering with the forward line. Up to this year a tackle of the first standing, the Columbia leader has been sent to a guard position, where he will team up with Walder, the best of last year's lot of guards. In Scovil's shoes at tackle will stand Meyers, whose promising career last Autumn was cut short by a broken shoulder. He will get his first chance this afternoon. At the other tackle will be the brilliant but not yet finished Calloway, the negro star who made such an impression at his début last Fall. Calloway has interesting possibilities as a tackle, where he is less likely to be restricted than at guard.

With Brodil at the ends will be Bob Pulleyn, a veteran, but others of the wing candidates will get into action before the game is over. In backfield and line also O'Neill will make as many substitutions as the progress of the game will allow. Anderson, Reilly, De Stephano, Habenicht, Burtt and W. B. Johnson are some of the backs that the coaches will want to look over.

C. C. N. Y. TO PLAY TODAY.

Gridiron Contest Will Be Lavender's First in Fifteen Years.

Rain halted the City College freshman football team from getting their final workout yesterday before their first encounter of the season. Nevertheless Coach MacKenzie gave the yearlings special signal practice while the rain played havoc with the Lavender's field.

The contest against Evander Childs today at 2:30 P. M., at Lewisohn Stadium, will be the first Lavender football game in fifteen years and will mark the re-establishment of the gridiron sport at the college. The freshmen's first week's training was very strenuous, due to the shortage in time allotted for practice. Punting, tackling and scrimmaging occupied most of the youngsters' time in order that they get on to the fundamentals of the game. The general showing of the team has been satisfactory.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 30.—In spite of the continued warm weather, Harvard's football drill today was lively while it lasted. The work on the field was prefaced by the usual kicking drill and then a long session of instructions in the locker building. The middle rush line has been shifted considerably during the week. Hubbard has been shifted to guard, but is not likely to start ahead of Grew, the most stalwart lineman on the squad at the present time. The appearance of Tierney at centre in the Holy Cross game will not only help the defense, but also will provide Harvard with an experienced player who has splendid qualities for rush line leadership, this being very much lacking from tackle to tackle a week ago.

Hobson or Henry, freshmen last Fall, will play right tackle, leaving Lockwood, left tackle, and Brown, left guard, as the only two middle linemen who started against Boston University. Johnson will start at quarter. Fitts, Owen and Chapin in the backfield have been getting together and tomorrow there should be a marked improvement in the combination play of line and backs on the offensive.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL RESULTS.

At Liberty, Mo.—Baker University 27, William Jewell 0.
At Des Moines—Des Moines University 34, Parsons 0.

STORM HALTS TIGERS' GRIDIRON PRACTICE

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30.—The rain again robbed Princeton's football squad of its regular practice this afternoon. The men had to retire to the cage for the workout. As the practice thus far has been held on the university field to save the turf in Palmer Stadium, where the game with Swarthmore will be staged tomorrow, the Tigers will enter the fray with no advantage whatever because of knowledge of the wind currents, except of course, that gained by the veterans last year.

Because of the somewhat cramped quarters and the proximity of the opening game, the program consisted merely of dummy scrimmage and signal practice. There was no attempt to kick or pass.

The visitors are due in Princeton at 12 noon and will go direct to the Stadium.

All of the men of the Orange and Black squad are in good condition, with one or two exceptions, but the players and coaching staff are expecting a hard tussle. Last Fall Princeton won, 17 to 6, but only after a stiff battle.

The first mass meeting of the year was held tonight in Alexander Hall. The entire undergraduate body of nearly 2,000 men paraded about the campus and Nassau Street, ending at the hall.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of the university; Head Coach Bill Roper, Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick and Captain Keck addressed the gathering.

STEVENS IN OPENING GAME.

Meets Wesleyan Eleven on Middletown Gridiron Today.

The Stevens Institute eleven, which went through last year's schedule undefeated, after two weeks of stiff practice morning and afternoon on Castle Point Field opens its season with Wesleyan at Middletown, Conn., today. This game will mark the first meeting of the two institutions on the gridiron since 1917.

The line has been under the able direction of Jack Clark, from Penn State, and prospects look bright with the average weight of the line 184 pounds.

The probable line-up of the team against Wesleyan today will be as follows: Ends, Dillon and Emerson; tackles, Busch and Moller; guards, Anthony and Emslie; centre, Laverie; halfback, McCaffrey and Bajusz; fullback, O'Callaghan; quarter, Herty.

A UNIFIED TRANSIT SYSTEM.

Nobody planned what it is mockery to call the city's transit system. The dual subway contracts were the first attempt to adapt the city's railways to travel between the boroughs. The proposals of the Transit Commission are a sequel to those contracts, and contemplate bringing the surface lines into operative connection with the subways and elevated lines in the several boroughs. The result of their independent operation is that all but one are insolvent, while that one is defendant in proceedings with the design of establishing insolvency. The idea of insolvency as the route to betterment of service is the opposite of the thought of the Commissioners, who seek to strengthen the companies which have been brought to their low estate by mismanagement and malice.

The city has invested $230,000,000, and finds $41,681,458 which must be paid off in preferentials to its languishing partners before it gets any share for itself. Meanwhile the city is paying millions a year in taxes on its bonds, which interest is practically an addition to the fare. The deficit of earnings is $17,122,798 for the latest reported year. It has doubled within two years, and grows in increasing ratio. There are $111,044,653 of current liabilities. The losses to the passengers rival those to the companies. Transfers used to be given at 2,365 points to a total of hundreds of millions. They are now available at 227 points upon payment of 2 cents, bringing to the companies $9,000,000 a year. As the companies weakened, the demands upon them increased. Within three years the traffic has increased 25 per cent., and the facilities only 5 per cent. There is an immediate demand for a quarter of a billion for new construction, and economies of $41,000,000 a year are urgently needed.

The commission proposes a method of wiping all security issues off the slate by valuing and acquiring the physical properties. A holding company is to be created, to supervise three operating companies, and to issue its securities in exchange for those outstanding to a total of the valuation. This means that $200,000,000 of paper values must be wiped out, but the loss will not be great, as the market had established these losses for the most part in advance of the commission. There are to be three independent systems, but all earnings are to be pooled. The fares are to be fixed at 5 cents for the first year as a trial period. Thereafter the rate will be more or less, with a transfer privilege, according to the showing of operations. Nobody will have discretion to fix the fare, but it will be as low as the lowered costs make possible. The idea that fares can be established by a statute, or that they are fixed at 8 cents or any other figure by the plan, is a misrepresentation spread among the gullible by those who know better. The intention is that fares shall amortize the debts of the new company and that the city shall come into ultimate complete ownership. Meanwhile the holding company is to be under the control of seven Directors. Each of the three subordinate operating systems is to elect one Director, three are to be named by the Mayor, and the six are to choose a seventh.

It is not agreeable to contemplate the alternative to the failure of this plan, nor easy to imagine a substitute. It is clear that the city's position is strengthened in both interest and control. The valuation must be such as to save to the owners of the properties all that they possess of real value, because they cannot be compelled to surrender to confiscation. Litigation by them is more dangerous than litigation by the city. Reason and proper inducements are the chief reliance to disarm any so inclined.

The report is stated by its authors to be incomplete. There are to be hearings and additions. In due season something may be expected about interborough travel by surface lines as well as by subways. The city's investment in its bridges rivals its investment in the subways, but surface transit ceases at the river edge, as a rule, or at most penetrates the transriver borough only a short distance. The bridges have the capacity of greater usefulness and even greater earning power. Presumably this is one of the deferred subjects.

NEW TAMMANY TACTICS.

This year's municipal campaign had hardly got going before it became evident that Tammany meant to fight it on new lines. In other days its policy was largely to ignore attacks or to content itself with round denials. As a rule, the bosses of Tammany Hall have had the stereotyped answer to all questions: "Nothing to say." The favorite rôle of the leaders was that of the strong, silent man. Why bother about all the charges that flew about in the press and on the stump? The watchword was to keep still while working hard to hold the ranks of the faithful solid and to get out the vote.

At present, however, there is a marked change in Tammany tactics. The order of the day seems to be to go out and meet the enemy in the gate. Every accusation is to be taken up instantly and indignantly "hurled back." If any man ventures to assert that the Tammany Administration is not altogether perfect, some literary bravo in the City Hall sallies forth to stick a knife into the daring opponent. The plan seems to be to lay about ferociously with a bludgeon, hitting the head of every objector the moment it appears. Scarcely a day passes without some Tammany spadassin being sent out, or volunteering to go out, to "do up" some citizen who criticises the Mayor. The source of this method is not hidden, but some are surprised to see Tammany adopting it. We have had nothing exactly like it before in our city elections.

This new sensitiveness and resentment and rough work on the part of Tammany may be taken as a sign that all is not happy confidence within the Wigwam. The big chiefs are nervous, are not sure either of themselves or their following, and do not know what a day may bring forth. They may also be cherishing a hope that the fierce and venomous attacks already made upon antagonists of Tammany may frighten off others. But this, in our opinion, is a gross miscalculation. No anti-Tammany hand is going to be stayed through fear of personal abuse. If that is a penalty of doing one's civic duty, it will be borne as cheerfully as may be. And if Tammany thinks that to add a ruffianly spirit to incompetent government is a good way to ingratiate itself with the voters, it is making a great mistake.

There is no telling how long the new Tammany tactics will be pursued. If Mr. Murphy still has shrewd political advisers, if Mayor Hylan has astute friends, the decision may be to leave the strategy of political violence to the exclusive use of its only begetter.

LEGION SERVICE AT HOME.

The report made last week at the convention of the Legion of New York State is one that suggests the growing worth of the Legion posts to the communities in which they are organized, quite outside of what they do for their own members. There are a thousand such posts in this State alone. Some of their patriotic activities are illustrated by this list, not of suggestions but of things done: In one county, visiting over 2,000 foreign-born adults to explain opportunities for instruction in the schools; in another, assisting in maintaining night schools for adults, for which 150 students were secured; in another, seeing that every house had a flag; in another, building up the National Guard; in another, entertaining 250 newly naturalized citizens; in another, conducting a prize essay contest on a patriotic subject; in another, maintaining a flag pole and raising the flag daily; and in many, furnishing leaders for Boy Scout troops. It is estimated that 600 members of the Legion are now acting as Boy Scout leaders.

The resolutions unanimously adopted by the Legion are prophetic of an even more active participation in the promotion of respect on the part of all for the flag, and acquaintance, especially on the part of adult newcomers, with American institutions. These resolutions urge that every child be taught the use and care of the flag; that every effort be made to collect and preserve local material relating to the great war; that every possible co-operation be given in aid of the Boy Scout training as of "exceptional "value in developing fine character "and good citizenship," and, finally, that arrangements be made to furnish information regarding the arrival of immigrant aliens who give their destination as New York State, so that the authorities may come into immediate contact with these immigrants immediately upon their arrival in local communities and induce them to study English and to prepare for American citizenship.

The posts are indeed "paying back" to their respective communities, in patriotic and civic service, the small investment which these communities have made in housing them. If posts were purchasable, it would pay some communities to buy a Legion post.

THE "BABY CONGRESSMEN."

It is hard to keep track of all the "blocs" formed and forming in this Congress. The farmers have one, the ex-service men have theirs, the irrigationists are working in a group, there is a Pacific Coast bloc. The latest appears to be the one dubbed "The Baby Congressmen." This name, as might be inferred, was given in contempt. But it has been defiantly accepted by those to whom it was applied, as if it were a badge of honor. They are a body of young members of Congress—or, at least, of members young in service—who have set out to dethrone the ruling oligarchy. These men, needless to say, come mostly from Western States. Westward the star of blocdom takes its way.

Arrived in Washington, these impetuous gentlemen found that they were not so much a bloc as blocked. They could do nothing against the veteran leaders, particularly of the Senate. Their own adjective for these leaders is senile rather than veteran. They talk of the "Senate dictatorship," and speak of it as "superannuated." Hence the proposal, Indian fashion, to knock the old men on the head and leave them along the trail by which the progressive Baby Congressmen have marched to new triumphs.

This new revolt is evidently patterned, consciously or unconsciously, after the one which broke up Republican harmony early in President Taft's Administration. Then "Cannonism" was overthrown—temporarily—and great was the rejoicing thereat. But some of the leaders in that rebellion are now the hoary conservatives who are rebelled against in their turn. So easily does the lapse of years change a Baby Congressman into a lean and slippered reactionary. But let the good work go on. "Maxima reverentia pueris debetur." Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings in Congress we may yet learn a lot. Anyhow, they will add to the amusement of a nation now somewhat in the doleful dumps.

TRIUMPHANT NEW YORK.

Time was when the Giants thought it tyrannous to use their strength like a giant, and the public expectation of their mastery of the glorious game was disappointed. Those unhappy far-off days faded. To the honorable John J. McGraw, one of our great public characters, adheres the difficult halo of a seventh championship. It is a mystic number and promises well for the future. The sons of Anak have fought valiantly this year. Three or four weeks ago they seemed to have no chance; but they easily put down piracy and swept the corsairs from the field. They have blotted Pittsburgh from the map. They have covered themselves and adoring multitudes with renown.

And our singularly so-called Yankees, gods of the American League, have been great and splendiferous, even in the absence of the World-Child, whose fame folds in this orb o' the earth, Bébé Ruth. They have given Philadelphia reason to love her brother New York if she can. They have taken the scalps of the Indians. Irrespective of the electric disturbances of yesterday they are full of the lust of victory. One notices with regret that two leagues are not enough for the multitudes insatiate for the doings of the diamond. In these golden-shod and dancing days, not the least of intelligent amusements is the old national game, the international game played now with rapture from China to Peru, the darling of Cuba and the joy of Japan.

It is right that in this world-sport Peter Stuyvesant's little village should not be without honor.

THE BEGINNING OF IT.

Call it all ex parte, the testimony about the little benevolent but self-regarding practices of our efficient and incorruptible Police Department. So it is, and the implications and possibly logical consequences of it mustn't be regarded, no matter how far the tendencies of a cynical generation may regard them, as anything more. Still, sociologists of not too ancient date can't help reminiscences and conclusions. What the conditions of the Police Department today are may be, to say the least, conjectured from the testimony before the Meyer committee.

Mr. Frederick H. Bugher, Mr. Hylan's first Police Commissioner, resigned on his twenty-third day of service. He had accepted the post, he wrote, because Mr. Hylan had given him positive assurances that he would be absolutely unfettered and would be allowed to select his own Deputies and organization in his own way. He found out, in a little more than three weeks, that Mayor Hylan gave him no free hand, was bent on controlling his appointments, and urged him to "take guidance and advice from "one of the subordinates on the "force." "I want to help you. That "I cannot do unless permitted to run "the department in the way I was "promised."

Looking at this early interference of Mayor Hylan with the free and honest administration of the Police Department, what is one to think? For twenty-three days an upright and competent Police Commissioner was permitted, so far as he was permitted, to conduct that department in the public interest. Why was he choked off? Why did he have to get out? The processes of Mr. Hylan's mind are beyond the research of ordinary citizens. Was he surrounded and enveloped by tendencies and influences destined to lead the Police Department into the edifying customs and practices that have prevailed in it, supposing the ex parte testimony and the implications that a cynical public derives therefrom to be justified? Twenty-three days! What a long reign of municipal virtue!

THE CONTENTED PLAYGOER.

Since the first curtains rose on the new theatrical season in early August, there has been an unprecedented number of failures. No fewer than nineteen of the entertainments proffered here since then will have departed by tomorrow morning—one destined for Chicago and the others booked for indefinite engagements in Limbo. Several of them are said to have had the painful experience of going through a performance without a single paid admission. With tidings from the provinces indicating that the patronage there is meagre, it is small wonder that the managers are melancholy and that they have come to the conclusion that there are at least three times as many orchestra seats as there are theatregoers in our town.

Unfortunately for those who like to have all phenomena charted in clear and simple curves, these misadventures in production cannot be blamed on hard times—or not altogether, certainly. The problem has been complicated by the discouraging heat and by the woeful inferiority of the plays themselves. More than half of the nights have been so sultry and sticky that theatregoing would occur only to two classes of people—the visitors who must make their every minute in New York count and those residents who are desperate for something to do. Then, with three or four exceptions, the plays that have failed are plays that would have failed in boom times and in the dead of Winter. Those few exceptions have been excellent pieces so grievously miscast that they would have been handicapped under any circumstances, in any weather. It will be time for settled gloom when a fine play, as well acted as it deserves to be, must shut up shop and go away. That has not happened yet.

In the midst of much failure, then, the playgoer has not failed. He has shown extraordinary discernment in the plays from which he has stayed away, and the crowded houses which nightly rejoice in "The Circle" are the best answer to all the bewilderment and lamentation. Nor has the playgoer suffered. There is substantial fare spread before him at every turn. There are three or four admirable survivals from last season, and Mr. Belasco's two theatres are occupied (and, incidentally, both thriving) with two rich revivals. So long as the season brings us such simple jollifications as "Six-Cylinder Love" and "The White-Headed Boy" and such fine and adult entertainment as that given by "Dulcy," "The Hero" and "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," the playgoer cannot complain.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

All Watchers' Need Those Traits. In warning women who intend to serve as watchers at the polls that they should not count too much on their mere presence as a means of securing an honest or even an orderly election, Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch showed that she, at least, realizes that the time has come for women to face the realities of politics and to forget a good many of the things they heard and said about their "influence" in the days of the fight for equal suffrage.

What the woman watcher needed, she wrote, in addition to being a woman, was to be "calm, courageous and a past master in the election law." That was much the same thing as saying that she should know her rights and those of other people and dare to maintain them. Of course that is true, but it is true of men watchers, as well as of women, if they are to be of any real use at the polls, and it was not easy to gather from Mrs. Blatch's letter just why she was so glad that the Honest Ballot Association had determined to put women watchers in the worst polling places and expected them to do both night and day duty.

In "worst places," and especially at night, the job of watcher would seem to be one for men rather than for women—one, that is, in which the few masculine superiorities still recognized by even the most ardent of feminists would be desirable and even necessary. Perhaps the solution of this mystery lies in Mrs. Blatch's admission that the woman watcher would not anywhere be in any appreciable danger of the violent treatment to which men watchers are sometimes subjected when they make themselves troublesome to district powers apprehensive of defeat. The women would not be blackjacked nor thrown out bodily, she said, but she warned them that they might be lured away, or into blindness to what was going on, by tricks disguised as chivalrous consideration. That is indeed an alarming possibility, and the women watchers will do well to keep it in mind.

Voters Are Free on Election Day. One bit of good advice Mrs. Blatch forgot to give the women watchers. They all should have a firm grasp on the fact that enrolment in one party imposes neither a legal nor a moral obligation to vote for all, or even any, of that party's candidates. Women voters seem to be particularly inclined—let us say on account of their greater conscientiousness—to think that enrolment is a promise to be "regular" and to "vote straight."

That is an impression which a good many politicians in all parties would like to strengthen and perpetuate, as it is a great help to them in their business, but for such a belief there is no foundation whatever, and at the coming Mayoralty election it is more than ordinarily desirable that the voter should be free from partisan restrictions.

The woman Democrat who wants to vote for Major Curran can do so with no feeling of treachery or unfairness to her party; and if there is a Republican woman queer enough to want to vote for Mayor Hylan, it is her right as well as her privilege to do it. Enrolment does impose limitations on voting at primaries, but it counts for nothing, or for as little as the voter pleases, on election day.

A Summer Storm in the Fall. Yesterday's temperature here was not so high as it is on the hottest of midsummer days, but, with the help of humidity and its unexpectedness at this season, it produced most of the tropical discomforts which our climate can offer. And in the afternoon there came a shower that would have been called severe in the hottest of midsummers.

The thunder and lightning, indeed, at least in the vicinity of Times Square, were not particularly alarming, even to the timid, but the sky was of a portentous wildness, and the rain, if it did not fall literally "in torrents," gave that familiar exaggeration about all the justification it ever gets in this part of the country. To be out in it even for a minute was to be soaked to the skin, and it cleared the streets with a thoroughness that gave them a truly strange appearance, as if the city had been deserted by all its inhabitants.

The rainfall at this rate did not last long, but it was well that the same amount of water did not come down in a time any shorter. As it was the deluge suggested an uneasy questioning as to what would happen to a city if, some day, such clouds as those of yesterday afternoon all condensed into rain at the same moment and fell in one mass. Perhaps that is what is called a "cloudburst," but those things apparently always occur somewhere off in the mountains, where nobody sees them in the very act of bursting.

Self-Restraint More Than Human. One of The Times dispatches confirmed previous accounts of the wonderful, the amazing, way in which the starving Russians sow wheat instead of eating it. Now the wheat thus sown is coming greenly up, promising a good crop for next year, but that crop will be of no use to the millions who are on the verge of death from hunger, and it is certain that the efforts at relief now making by our commissions and others will not save anything like all of these victims.

Of course, the restraint and docility which the famished peasants show are highly admirable from the standpoint of ultimate and general interests, but such virtue and wisdom have in them something unnatural and almost inhuman. Men as we know them are not made that way, and they do not starve to death in great numbers when there is food which they can take and consume at once.

Perhaps this peculiarity of the Russians explains a good deal of their recent history—why, for instance, a minute minority of them has been able to rule and ruin the great majority. That they are capable of revolution is true, but it is a special kind of revolution, with the man, whoever he may be, who gives orders in an authoritative voice obeyed without protests or hesitation, no matter what the consequences of obedience may be.

Mrs. O'Leary's Cow.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With much surprise I read in your issue of yesterday a dispatch from Chicago that the record of Mrs. O'Leary and her cow is about to be thrown into the discard.

Having been a neighbor of that same lady at the time, I know the facts to have been as recorded in all reliable chronicles of that historical event that sent Chicago up in smoke. That cow did kick over the lamp and I can prove it. The animal had only a few weeks before been brought direct from County Kerry. It was not a vicious cow. She had a right to kick. What could be more natural, having been reared, as was her owner and her ancestors for generations before, under centuries of British tyranny?

This mutilation of American historical facts is only one more proof of the insidious effects of English propaganda in the land, and shows that the Knights of Columbus have begun none too soon to preserve for posterity a truthful record of the notable events in which our great race has taken so prominent a part in the making of history of the great Republic. Success to their efforts. SEAN O'RAHILLY.

Votes for Disarmament.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is one thing on which the whole civilized world can unite. That is the call for disarmament. The natural timidity of diplomats and politicians has forever blocked the way. They will never, of themselves, attain it. Therefore let all the people of the world demand that as a first qualification for public office every candidate must be pledged to the principle of disarmament.

SEA LAVENDER.

Long time ago, beside the sea,
Among the shifting sands and crying
gulls,
Content and I went silent, hand in hand.

. . . .

Sea lavender and purple pea-vine grew
Within my meagre garden, nestling close
Against the palings, sea sand silting through;
While gnarled and stunted trees bowed in a row
The way the east wind blew.

So salt, so keenly sweet that wet sea
Piling up dunes o'ernight like imps at play,
Singing and clattering at each wooden blind,
Swooping from far beyond the gray sky's edge
My lonely hearth to find.

White-fanged the waves leaped up,
glassy, immense,
To sweep away and thunder back again,
Longing to batter down my poor defense,
Snarling and rasping through the Winter nights
In angry impotence.

I must go back, before my days are spent,
Before Death lays his bony hand on me
Among these giant walls that hide the firmament;
Back to the sea wind singing to the sand—
And once more find Content.

INTERNATIONAL COURTESY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The announcement in today's Times that Secretary Hughes has answered fourteen back notes of the League of Nations is welcome news. International bad manners never pay, and this lapse on our part from the ordinary amenities of social intercourse has brought us nothing but misunderstanding and even contempt. It has seemed to many foreign observers that we were allowing our opposition to the League of Nations to lead us into a small and petty attitude.

This feeling has developed particularly as a result of the mandates question. It will be recalled that Secretary Colby, at the very end of his term of office, sent a vigorous protest to the Council of the League as a result of which the Council postponed its discussion on mandates and invited the United States to be represented at the next meeting. Not only did the new Administration fail to send a representative, but it did not even acknowledge the receipt of the invitation which had been inspired by the direct intervention of our own Government and which had caused a delay of very considerable inconvenience to the nations of the League.

Much irritation, too, was caused by our failure to respond to the invitation of the League of Nations, extended to us through the Dutch Government, to attend the opium traffic conference. In the League's conference on white slave traffic the State Department first denied that it had received an invitation, and even when it was forced to acknowledge that this statement was a mistake and that an invitation had long been reposing in its files, it made no effort to put itself right. The Barcelona transit conference and the plans relating to the formation of an international health organization met with the same kind of discourtesy from the State Department.

Perhaps the most extraordinary example of this attitude was the action of the State Department in reference to the court of international justice, the plans for which were laid down by Mr. Root's committee. According to these plans, nominations for the first court were left to the men in each country who constituted the panels of The Hague Court of Arbitration. The United States representatives on this panel were Mr. Root, Mr. Straus, Mr. John Bassett Moore and Judge Gray. Early in June the League of Nations sent word to the panels in each country asking them to submit their nominations. In addressing the four representatives of our country, the League felt that it would be courteous to send its communication through the State Department inasmuch as the United States was not a member of the League. Our State Department was therefore asked to hand the letters to the four gentlemen in question. Apparently, however, some one in the State Department thought that any communication from the League of Nations was tainted, and it was not until after a lapse of several weeks that the letters were finally delivered. This delay made it practically impossible for our representatives on The Hague Court to submit their nominations, even if they had thought that such a course was expedient.

Official rudeness of this kind does not make for friendly relations with other countries. If Mr. Harding is going to form a new association of nations it cannot make its way successfully in the face of such discourtesy.

It is obvious to those who are watching the turn of events in Washington that Secretary Hughes himself is not primarily responsible for this situation. He is a gentleman with no traits of smallness or meanness about him, and it is to his credit that steps have been taken, even if in a somewhat awkward way, to undo the mistakes of the past. The difficulty seems to be that Mr. Hughes is surrounded in the State Department by bitter opponents of the League, some of whom are emulating Ambassador Harvey in their determination to scuttle the League by any means, fair or foul. The Albanian Resolution.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the message of Edwin L. James from Geneva, which appeared in The Times of yesterday and dealt with the Greco-Albanian dispute at the League of Nations, we read that an attempt has been made by interested parties to misrepresent the unanimous vote of the Senate taken on May 17, 1920, and expressing the sentiment of that body in favor of Greece on the issue of Northern Epirus as a mere partisan action aimed at ex-President Wilson.

Such a statement is groundless. The vote of the Senate was unanimous. The resolution on Northern Epirus was originally introduced by Senator William H. King, Democrat, of Utah, and later adopted by Senator Lodge, who amended it.

President Wilson was not in favor of an Albanian Northern Epirus. On Dec. 9, 1919, Mr. Frank Polk signed with M. Clemenceau and Sir Eyre Crowe of Canada the note to Italy in which it was declared that the Province of Argyrocastro was awarded to Greece, while the disposition of the Province of Korytsa was to be further considered by the United States, Great Britain, Italy and France on the one hand, acting in behalf of Albania, and Greece on the other.

When, on Jan. 13, 1920, France, Great Britain and Italy reached a decision to award Korytsa also to Greece, the American commission had returned to the United States. President Wilson, however, in his notes of Feb. 10 and 25, respectively, of 1920, gave his assent to the decision of the Supreme Council on the issue of Korytsa.

It is quite evident, then, that President Wilson was not against the Greek claims to Northern Epirus and that the Senate resolution which was adopted long after the President's notes of February, 1920, could not have been aimed at him. The stand of President Wilson was well known to the Senators because the notes were published in the Congressional Record of Feb. 7, 1920.

President Wilson and all the Senators cast their votes in favor of Greece from no partisan or selfish considerations.

In justice to the entire United States Senate, to ex-President Wilson and to President Harding, we hope that you will be generous enough to publish the facts we have above stated.

South China's Place.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was with the greatest pleasure that the real friends of China read your editorial article in which The Times advocated in justice to the Chinese people that the Canton Government, headed by Sun Yat-sen, should be represented at the Washington Conference on the Far East.

The letter of B. Lenox-Simpson is full of contradictions. It informs us that there is less obedience and authority in South China than in the north. That is most certainly true in the sense that the Chinese in the south believe in democracy and insist upon being governed by officials of their own choosing rather than bowing the head before a tuchun and suffering any amount of "squeeze" so ardently desired by the Peking clique.

Here are more than 221,000,000 people who have repudiated the Peking clique and have taken their stand with the Canton Government of Sun Yat-sen. Naturally, if these millions, who are more than half of the total population of China, are to have a voice at the conference, then Canton must send delegates to Washington. ROBERT HARRIS.

FINDING GREAT MINDS.

Intelligence Tests Would Have Picked Out the Geniuses Early.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I cannot refrain from replying to the letter of your correspondent in The Times of Sept. 26 concerning "Mental Tests." He objects to the attitude of The Times in dealing with the subject of mental tests in the schools. The chief complaint against the use of the tests seems to be that they do not help to discover the mental quality which he designates "imagination." He takes for granted, and it is merely his personal opinion, that some of the greatest minds of the past would not have been revealed through such intelligence tests. He decides that "such a test would not have been an indication of the mentality" of such men as Plato, Socrates, Leibnitz, Goethe, Newton or Darwin. How does he know that this is so? How can any one prove that these minds would have failed in these tests?

To use as argument against the intelligence tests the statement that certain individuals who lived centuries ago might not have passed these tests is waste of time. How can he prove his case in this way? It is just as logical to say that such persons would have obtained high scores. From our experience, the latter contention is more likely to be true. But who can verify this?

Darwin, Grant, Tolstoy, to mention only a few classic examples of great men who were deemed dull by their teachers at school, rather give support to the value of the standardized intelligence test as against teachers' judgments. Probably these grave errors would not have occurred if some impersonal measuring scale had been used.

An experience of five years with these tests as administered to thousands of children fails to give any indication that such a conclusion as his is valid. It is almost a certainty that these men or others of equal native ability would surely have been revealed as extraordinary minds by such tests as are used at present. There is undoubtedly an opportunity for minds of this calibre to show their real status better through such tests than through any other means known to us. It is an assumption of little scientific value to say that "imagination" as such exists apart from general intelligence. More likely there is a close corelation between such "imagination" and intelligence. It is just because the unaided judgment of teachers in many cases regarding the native ability of pupils is so likely to be mistaken that these tests are used. Had there been intelligence tests in use in the schools at the time, the true worth of such minds as Darwin and others could not have escaped detection. Rightly and skillfully used intelligence tests are instruments to assist us in understanding our pupils. They were devised to check up our opinion, not to displace it. No claim is made that they are perfect or infallible, but they have become indispensable as diagnostic instruments.

I would respectfully suggest that the men who are the most severe critics of this procedure come to Public School 64, Manhattan, and see for themselves how the tests are administered. Let them familiarize themselves with the conditions in the schools and the methods of grading the pupils so as to see how helpful these tests are as a better measure of the native intelligence of the children.

LOUIS MARKS,
Principal Public School 64, Manhattan.

New York, Sept. 29, 1921.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Within the past few weeks the daily press devoted considerable space to the subject of intelligence tests in schools. It is gratifying to note this evidence of interest in the educational problems of the day. There are few others as important in the life of our Republic.

A word of caution is necessary, however. The impression seems to exist that all that is necessary is the examination of children by means of intelligence and other tests, and the consequent grouping of children in classes, according to their native ability or capacity.

The writer has had considerable experience in organizing classes on such a basis. In all cases, however, the classes had to be large, because of prevailing conditions in the New York schools. Although the teachers were interested and enthusiastic, although the course of study for each class was modified and adapted to the abilities and needs of the children, the results were depressing and discouraging, as far as the slow children were concerned—those who needed special attention more than the others.

The experience pointed to the fact that classes for the mentally slow must be small. To achieve anything like success, they must not contain more than twenty or twenty-five pupils, because these need plenty of individual attention. In addition, they must have increased facilities for manual training, play, &c. Without these conditions the grouping of slow children is not only useless but dangerous.

For, in this connection, it is necessary to consider to what extent slow children suffer because they have no bright classmates to lead and stimulate them. Unfortunately, we have no data as yet on this particular problem. It is an open question whether the psychic and emotional loss resulting from grouping a number of children of limited intelligence can counterbalance the possible intellectual gains.

At any rate, the public must realize that the experiments in grouping should not be undertaken unless we are prepared to spend the money for additional teachers, in order that children requiring special attention be placed in small classes.

Principal, Public School 165, Brooklyn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I respectfully but emphatically protest against the serious misrepresentation of the Anti-Saloon League and its position carried by unavoidable implication in editorials of The Times respecting pending prohibition enforcement legislation.

The question whether the Anti-Saloon League advocates infringing upon rights protected by the Fourth Amendment must hinge on whether the thing advocated by the league does in fact so infringe. The contrary is conclusively proved by the fact that the proposition agreed upon in conference does not create or bestow any additional right of search whatsoever, but on the contrary constitutes a limitation of right existing under the present law, and respecting which there has been no particular question until the measure prohibiting beer for alleged medicinal purposes came up.

Further, the overwhelming weight of legal authority is to the effect that the Stanley Amendment, which is now not seriously advocated in Congress except by a few irreconcilable wets, would prevent the enforcement of laws dating back over a hundred years.

The Anti-Saloon League stands against anything which is unlawful, including a violation of the Fourth Amendment in enforcing prohibition. On the other hand, it insists that everything that is lawful shall be done by the officials for the purpose of giving prohibition a fair trial under honest enforcement. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON,
State Superintendent Anti-Saloon League of New York.

SHIPBOARD DIVORCES FLEET CORPORATION

Board Will Devote Time to the Jones Act, Yielding Operation of Ships to Corporation.

SEPARATION IS COMPLETE

Lasker, in Statement, Likens Past Duties to I. C. C. Operation as Well as Supervision of All Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Beginning tomorrow the functions of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation will be separated. Henceforth the board will devote itself to a study of the Jones act controlling the American Merchant Marine, and the corporation will bend its energies to actual operating of ships.

The board will have nothing to do with actual operation of the American fleet, and has relinquished a very large percentage of the authority over the corporation.

Chairman Lasker explained the action of the board—which was taken with the full sanction of President Harding—in a statement, in part, as follows:

"The Shipping Board today took steps to divorce the Emergency Fleet Corporation activities from those of the Shipping Board, the board retaining certain supervisory and veto authority over the actions of the corporation. The members of the Shipping Board today resigned as trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and the Chairman and Vice Chairman of the board resigned as President and Vice President of the corporation respectively, following the election of Messrs. Joseph W. Powell, J. B. Smull, W. J. Love, A. J. Frey, Harry Kimball, Elmer Schlesinger and E. P. Farley as Trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Mr. Farley was also elected a Vice President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. All of the other gentlemen had previously been elected Vice Presidents of the corporation.

"The new Board of Trustees has elected Joseph W. Powell President and General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. T. L. Clear was also elected Treasurer of the corporation. No Controller was elected today. Mr. Clear, however, will not take office, nor Mr. Bolling resign, for a few weeks until Mr. Bolling has broken Mr. Clear into the work.

To Permit Board to Function.

"The purpose of the members of the Shipping Board in resigning as trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and of the Chairman in resigning as President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, was, as expressed in the preamble of the attached resolution, adopted by the board today, to give the Shipping Board an opportunity to function under the Merchant Marine act, 1920, in those broad and constructive powers which must be brought into being if we are to have an American merchant marine. The Shiping Board itself has powers over America's overseas commerce much like those exercised by the Interstate Commerce Commission over railroads.

"The Emergency Fleet Corporation is possibly the largest corporation in the world and it would be in the present condition as if the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission were at the same time called upon to act as Directors of the great railroad system of the country and to operate the same.

"When the new Shiping Board took office it first had to survey its situation and find men of responsibility who could operate the Fleet Corporation's physical properties. It has now done so, and feels that it is prepared to turn over the operation of its properties and the liquidation of its physical assets, other than ships, to the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

"The divorce is complete. Those having business with the Emergency Fleet Corporation will have to deal through the new Board of Trustees and the corporation officers, who alone will have powers over the assets and the operations of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, with the exceptions noted, though the Shipping Board retains to itself the power to veto canceling of established lines or the allocation of passenger vessels. With these exceptions and that of ship sales, the Shipping Board, as such, beginning tomorrow, Oct. 1, will devote itself entirely to a study of those sections of the Jones act which were designed to establish an American merchant marine as a whole.

Rearrangement of Duties.

"The board is fast reaching the point where groups of its members should possibly go around the country for various kinds of hearings to ascertain how certain actions will affect the different parts of the country and various industries, not in connection with the operation of the fleet, but in connection with the interpretation of the Jones act.

"Then we found the old form of organization we inherited impracticable in this way: The matter of allocation, charter and the sale of properties and assets has to be up to people who are expert in it and who have the final authority; also, the matter of forcing collections and similar matters. The Jones act contemplated that we should take today's action.

"These administrative functions are delegated to the Emergency Fleet Corporation:

"1. The operation, maintenance, repair and reconditioning of all ships owned by the United States Shipping Board, except that as to operation no established lines, will be discontinued or new lines be established or allocation of passenger vessels be made until the same shall have been confirmed by the United States Shipping Board.

"2. The completion of ships under construction and the sale of ships owned by the United States Shipping Board, subject to the policy and as to terms and prices established by the United States Shipping Board.

"3. The care and sale of all surplus materials.

"4. The operation and sale of housing projects, real estate, railroad and other similar property, subject to confirmation by the United States Shipping Board before any final contract of sale is made.

"5. Operation and sale of dry docks, any sale being subject to terms and prices as may be established by the United States Shipping Board.

"6. All accounting of the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation.

"7. Insurance and matters pertaining to the same.

"8. Operation of all German or War or Navy Department pier facilities as, and if, turned over to the board, with the exception that no lease of said piers shall be executed prior to confirmation by the United States Shipping Board; and,

"9. Leasing and rental of offices, warehouses, docks and storage facilities."

It was learned that Mr. Powell will serve without pay and without expenses, except that he will receive $1 a year from the Government. Not more than 250 or 300 employes will remain with the Shipping Board. The rest of the 6,000, including those in ships, will be transferred to the Fleet Corporation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Appeal of the Green Star Line of New York for a revision of the tonnage price paid for nine ships purchased from the board a number of months ago as well as request for an advance of $40,000 or $50,000 for its immediate needs have been denied by the Shipping Board, it was announced today at the office of Chairman Lasker. In seeking a revision of the original purchase of the nine ships the steamship company said it desired in this manner to be relieved of a portion of its indebtedness to the board, amounting now to about $13,000,000.

In announcing its refusal to meet the request the board explained it has no legal right to reduce the price of tonnage without enabling legislation, and said further that the policy of the board on the whole question of tonnage revision had not been determined.

HARDING AND WILSON HONOR LORD BRYCE

Telegrams of Appreciation of His Work Part of Souvenir Book Given to Him.

HE IS DINNER GUEST HERE

Sulgrave Institution Host to Famous British Publicist—Governor Miller a Spectator.

Viscount Bryce was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Sulgrave Institution in the Hotel Biltmore last night, which was attended by Governor Miller, Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Elihu Root, Elbert H. Gary, Thomas R. Marshall, John W. Davis, Cleveland H. Dodge, Dr. Henry van Dyke, Ogden Mills Reid, E. L. Doheny and Alton B. Parker, who presided. The function was private, at Viscount Bryce's request. During the early part of the dinner the door was kept closed with a padlock and chain.

A souvenir book containing telegrams expressing good-will to Viscount Bryce for his efforts in behalf of Anglo-American friendship was presented to him by John A. Stewart, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the institution. The telegrams were from President Harding, former President Wilson, Herbert C. Hoover, General Pershing, Vice President Coolidge, William Jennings Bryan and others.

"I wish I could be among those present at the dinner to Viscount Bryce and enjoy the opportunity of attesting as adequately as I might be able my feelings toward him," wrote President Harding. "I know of no man who, to my mind, has performed so great a service as his own on behalf of those intimate and understanding relations between the two great branches of the English speaking peoples. I doubt if any man living is so well equipped to do such a piece of work as Viscount Bryce has presented in his latest book 'Modern Democracies,' while his earlier writings and addresses have been easily among the most influential in our own or any other times, in acquainting the world with the aspirations and institutions of modern democracies."

In behalf of Mr. Wilson, his secretary sent the following telegram:

"Mr. Wilson asked me to say in regard to the suggestion that he write a sentiment for the souvenir which the Sulgrave Institution wishes to issue in connection with the dinner to Lord Bryce that you are suggesting what he regards as the most difficult sort of literary composition. uFrther, that in the present state of his convalescense he does not feel he could satisfy himself with anything of that kind that he would be able to write. Mr. Wilson does not fear that he will ever lack opportunity to express his appreciation of the character and services of Lord Bryce."

Governor Miller made a short speech. Other speakers were Mr. Root, Judge Parker and Judge Gary. Lord Bryce made a few remarks.

LORD BRYCE ON ARMENIA.

Says Leniency to Turks Prevented Allies From Keeping Pledges.

Viscount James Bryce was the guest of honor and principal speaker yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel Astor given by the Armenian National Union of New York. After outlining the oppressions inflicted on the Armenians he pointed to the failure of the Allies to carry out their promises for a free Armenian State and the reasons why they had failed.

"The history of the Armenian people," he said, "since the accession of Sultan Abdul Hamid more than forty years ago, has been one long succession of oppressions and cruelties. These culminated in 1895 and 1896 in a series of unprovoked massacres of the Christian populations of Armenia and Syria, in which 100,000 persons perished. In 1915, after Turkey had declared war upon England and France, these ruffians organized massacres on even a vaster scale.

"Promises were made by the allied powers during the war that an independent State would be set up, and on the faith of these promises large numbers of Armenians entered the French and British armies and fought gallantly there. When the war ended it was intended that such a State should be established, but unfortunately far too lenient terms were granted to the Turks. After some months the Turkish so-called Nationalist Party gathered a large force, defied the Allies, attacked Armenians who had begun to return to their homes and are now holding all Central Anatolia and Armenia, preventing the creation of an Armenian State."

He said that the Armenian State could not be established until some power would accept a mandate under the League to administer the country, secure order and open up communications and no power could be found to accept such a mandate unless funds be supplied to undertake the administration.

SIR HARRY LAUDER BACK.

Scotch Comedian Is Now a Golf Enthusiast and Also a Boxer.

Sir Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian, who was knighted by King George for his work during the war, arrived yesterday from London on the Cunarder Aquitania to make a twenty-two weeks' concert tour through the United States and Canada under the direction of William Morris, with whom he will first spend a week at the latter's Summer home at Saranac Lake.

The versatile comedian has become a golf enthusiast and also a boxer. On the voyage across he boxed with Harry Mason, the ship's champion lightweight. He also gave two concerts for the benefit of the Seamen's Widows and Orphans Fund and gave an entertainment for the children.

On Oct. 15 Sir Harry will be the guest of the Rotary Club at the Hotel McAlpin and the Caledonia Club will give him a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria the next evening. His first appearance for three years in this city will be at the Lexington Theatre on Oct. 17. He was met at the pier by the pipers in kilts and wore them himself when he marched down the gangway to meet them.

Alma Gluck Back From Europe.

Alma Gluck, the operatic soprano, returned yesterday from her trip to Europe on the Aquitania and was met at the pier by Efram Zimbalist, her husband. Next January the singer and her husband have planned a tour to the Pacific Coast with their children. They will give dual concerts at five cities on the way to Santa Barbara, where the children will be left with servants.

Arthur Bodanzky, conductor at the Metropolitan Opera House, who spent his vacation in Europe, and Miss Erika Morini, a concert violinist from Galicia, arrived on the Royal Mail Steam packet Oropesa.

Jean Baptiste Abel.

TOULON, France, Sept. 30.—Announcement of the death of Jean Baptiste Abel, former Governor General of Algeria, was made here today.

M. Abel, who served as Minister of Labor in the Ribot Cabinet, was Vice President of the Chamber of Deputies in 1919 at the time he was appointed Governor General of Algeria, being succeeded in the Vice Presidency by Raoul Peret, at present President of the Chamber.

TODAY'S WEDDINGS.

Misses Sherman, Manierre and Strong Among the Brides-to-Be.

A number of interesting weddings are scheduled for today. That of Miss Audrey Townsend Sherman and John Lawrence Bigelow will take place in Christ Church at Rye, and the reception will be held at Eastcliff, the country residence of the bride's father, Arthur Outram Sherman.

Miss Ruth Lockwood Manierre, a daughter of Mrs. Alfred Lee Manierre, and Lewis L. Delafield Jr., are to celebrate their wedding in St. Stephen's Church, Ridgefield, Conn., at 3 o'clock, and the reception will follow at the country home of Mrs. William A. Jenner. A train leaving the Grand Central station at 12:45 will take the New York guests to Ridgefield.

The marriage of Miss Martha Bodine Strong, a daughter of the late Edward L. Strong of Boston, and Howard Leland Smith of 101 Park Avenue will be celebrated at the bride's home, 622 West 113th Street, and the reception is to be at the Cosmopolitan Club.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth F. Dean, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dean, and Clinton Gilbert Jr. will be solemnized in St. John's Church, at Larchmont Manor.

The marriage of Miss Madelon G. Westervelt of 436 Fort Washington Avenue and Edwin H. Ellert, a son of the Republican nominee for the Presidency of the Borough of Manhattan, will take place in the Lutheran Church at 140th Street and Edgecombe Avenue.

Miss Susan E. Given, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Given of Columbia, Pa., and Wallace Arthur Cook of New York, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cook of Cincinnati, will be married at 1 o'clock this afternoon in Grace Church Chantry. A reception will be held at the home of William B. Given Jr., 101 East Seventy-fourth Street.

MISS ENOS TO WED OCT. 8.

Attendants for Her Marriage to Henry G. Sanderson in Greenwich.

Plans have been completed for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth M. Enos, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Trask Enos of this city and Greenwich, Conn., and Henry Geoffrey Sanderson, a son of Henry Sanderson and the late Mrs. Sanderson of La Selva, Oyster Bay, L. I. The wedding will take place Saturday afternoon, Oct. 8, at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at Greenwich and will be quiet because of the recent death of the bridegroom's mother.

To Toll Requiem for Bishop Lambuth

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—The bell of every Southern Methodist Church within the confines of the denomination in this and other lands will toll a requiem for Bishop Walter Lambuth, the Church's great missionary leader, at the time of his funeral in Shanghai, if plans set on foot today by the Southern Methodist Board of Missions can be successfully carried out.

Bishop Lambuth died Monday in a hospital in Yokohama, having gone to the Orient to hold the annual conferences in Siberia, Japan, Korea and China. His funeral will be held in Shanghai, the place of his birth. The Board of Missions has cabled to inquire as to the funeral date.

PIRRIE TO CONFIRM LINERS' OIL SUPPLY

Harland & Wolff Chairman and Lord Iverforth Will Confer With E. L. Doheny.

FIVE SHIPS BRING 5,000

Aquitania, Adriatic, Rotterdam, Scythia and Oropesa Make Port Through Fog.

After delays of from twelve to twenty-four hours in fog between Nantucket Lightship and Sandy Hook, five Atlantic liners arrived yesterday from Europe with 5,301 passengers. The first ship to make her pier was the White Star liner Adriatic, from Southampton and Cherbourg, bringing $1,000,000 in gold for Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and a big consignment of mail. One of the passengers was Viscount Pirrie, Chairman of the Directors of the great Harland & Wolff Shipyard of Belfast, who came to confer with Mexican oil experts. He was accompanied by his wife, Viscountess Pirrie, and Lord Inverforth, who as Andrew Weir was head of the British Ministry of Shipping during the war.

In an interview on the ship Lord Pirrie, who carries his seventy-five years remarkably well, said: "My visit to New York is entirely unexpected, and is caused by the difficulties that have cropped up regarding oil and the serious problems which have existed in Mexico for several months past. Since my visit last year," he continued, "it has been arranged to convert the Mauretania into an oil burner, and the work is now under way. The Majestic also is to burn oil, as well as the new vessels coming out for the White Star, Cunard, Atlantic Transport and other steamship companies.

"Mr. Doheny of the Mexican Petroleum Company and the Deputy Chairman of the British Mexican Petroleum Company, and I wish to discuss the general oil situation. As Chairman of Harland & Wolff, who have been and are so closely associated with many of the large passenger steamship lines, the matter is of particular importance. It would be unwise for me to comment further on the general position until after we have had an opportunity of investigating the situation as it now exists, and before encouraging other large ship owners to go in for oil burning I am anxious to satisfy myself as far as possible that supplies may be relied upon for years to come."

Commissioner Booth Tucker of the Salvation Army, who organized the work in India thirty-nine years ago and came to the United States twenty years ago to develop the army here after Ballington Booth started the Volunteer Army, was another passenger. "The difficulty in India," he said, "is due principally to the inefficiency of the educational system. The English have attempted to educate the natives by systems which are followed at Cambridge and Oxford, and which are not suited to India. The Commissioner was accompanied by his wife and will spend two months in a tour of the principal cities.

Other passengers were the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, pastor of the Brooklyn Central Congregational Church; the Rev. Charles L. Slattery, rector of Grace Church, and twenty-three Bishops and ministers of the African Methodist Episcopal Church who attended the ecumenical conference in London. Captain A. E. S. Hambelton, R. D., R. N. R., retired, who returned in command of the Adriatic, said that the new 35,000-ton liner Homeric of the White Star Line was practically completed.

One of the passengers on the Cunarder Aquitania, from Southampton and Cherbourg, was Martin Vogel, former Assistant Treasurer of the United States, who said he did not believe that Germany could meet her reparation payments. "Industries are going ahead in Germany," said Mr. Vogel, "and chiefly because of the latest inventions in labor-saving devices. The Government is badly off and cannot raise enough money to pay what is demanded and what is needed for the budget at home, even with the proposed heavy taxation."

Another passenger on the Aquitania was Sir John Eaton, head of the Canadian department stores bearing his name. He complained of the high charges made by the United States Consuls abroad for visés to the United States. Sir William Corry, a Director of the Cunard Line, arrived for a short visit to this country. Albert Weiss, Treasurer of the Democratic County Committee and one of the trustees of the College of the City of New York, said that he had come back to work for the re-election of Mayor Hylan. Sir Harold Stiles, a Scottish surgeon, arrived to attend the conference of American surgeons at Philadelphia commencing Oct. 24. Mrs. Bernard M. Baruch returned with her daughters Isabel and Renée.

When the Holland-America liner Rotterdam, from Rotterdam, Boulogne and Plymouth, came up the harbor with a big complement of passengers she was saluted by whistles from ferry boats, tug boats and other river craft to welcome Supreme Court Justice Robert Wagner, who declared that "Al Smith was the only available Democratic candidate for Governor at the next election. The Republicans who will be against Al Smith," he continued, "will be mightly few. Right now Al Smith is as good as elected Governor."

Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago, returned on the Rotterdam and declared that the stomachs of children are principally responsible for the juvenile crime wave in some parts of Europe. She went over in June to attend the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in Vienna. Thirty-one countries were represented, including China, Japan and Russia.

On account of the insufficient number of immigration inspectors sent to the liners yesterday the passengers suffered long delays getting ashore, especially those on the Aquitania, which had nearly 1,500 in the first and second cabins. One of the passengers on the Cunarder Scythia was Louise Owen who has been sent over by the Daily Mail of London to look over American institutions and write articles about American women.

HYLAN ASKS TRIBUNE TO 'TELL THE TRUTH'

Mayor Says Paper Willfully Published False Statement With Reference to Schools.

In a letter yesterday to the editor of The New York Tribune, Mayor Hylan characterizes as false a statement that the Hylan administration "has not built a single school during its three and a half years of office."

"Tell the truth," wrote the Mayor. "Don't try to be the grossest offender against it among the New York newspapers on subjects that bear relation to me." The Mayor's letter follows:

CITY OF NEW YORK.
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.
Sept. 30, 1921.

To the Editor of The New York Tribune:

Sir—In your today's issue you state on page 13, without qualification of any kind, nature or description, the following:

"The Hylan administration has not built a single school during its three and a half years of office."

This is but one of innumerable vicious false statements published by you. Its publication is without a shred of justification. It is, to your knowledge, willfully untrue. Your paper on Sept. 7 published that twelve new schools and additions were opening on Sept. 12, and on Sept. 13 you again published an article about new school openings. This establishes your knowledge of the falsity of your publication this morning. Why do you flee the truth and persist willfully in falsehood?

You know or ought to know that the fact is that on Jan. 1, 1918, there was not a single school under contract at the close of the Mitchel administration. You know schools were contracted for, built and opened during my administration to the number of twelve about Sept. 12, 1921, and that ten more will be opened before the end of the year, making a total of twenty-two. You know that seventeen more have been put under contract for completion after the first of the year.

Tell the truth. Don't try to be the grossest offender against it among the New York newspapers on subjects that bear relation to me.

The twenty-two schools referred to above are:

Borough of Manhattan — Public School 83, addition, 109th Street east of Third Avenue; Public School 130, addition, Baxter and Hester Streets.

Borough of the Bronx—Public School 38, St. Ann's Avenue, Rae and Carr Streets; Public School 43, annex, 136th Street and Brown Place; Public School 57, Crotona Avenue and 180th Street; Public School 59, Bathgate Avenue and 182d Street; Public School 61, Crotona Park East and Charlotte St.; Public School 62, Fox Street and Leggett Avenue.

Borough of Brooklyn—Public School 20, North Fifth and Havemeyer Streets; Public School 29, Henry and Harrison Streets; Public School 73, addition, Sumner and Rockaway Avenues; Public School 80, Nineteenth Street, Coney Island; Public School 97, Stillwell Avenue and Avenue S; Public School 100, First Street, Coney Island; Public School 144, Pacific Street and Howard Avenue; Public School 181, New York Avenue near Tilden Avenue; Public School 182, Vermont and Wyona Streets; Public School 185, Ridge Boulevard and Eighty-sixth Street.

Borough of Queens—Public School 39, addition, Far Rockaway; Public School 50, Liberty Avenue and Liverpool Street, Jamaica; Bryant High School, Academy and Radde Streets, Long Island City.

Borough of Richmond—Public School 11, first portion, Dongan Hills.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

The Tribune this morning prints an editorial which quotes the Mayor's letter and adds this comment.

"The Mayor wrenches a sentence from its context. The article from which he quotes related to high schools, and when it said not a new school had been built the reader is able to judge, even though the proofreader did not note the missing word, whether or not he was deceived. Our own guess is that he understood the statement to mean that no new high school had been built—a statement that is true. As is evident from the Mayor's letter itself, The Tribune has not absurdly denied the erection of any kind of school buildings during the reign of Hylanism."

ARREST TWO BOYS IN BANDIT DRAGNET

4 Rob Saloon and Woman Says Taxi Driver Took $80—Hold Youth in $2,040 Theft.

Two boys were arrested on a public school playground yesterday accused of being members of a band of juvenile bandits which has committed several hold-ups and robberies recently on the upper west side, including a hold-up at Riverside Drive and 115th Street.

The boys are Harry Cell, 10 years old, of 1,947 Seventh Avenue, and Matthew Croke, 14, of 307 West 117th Street. After their arrest by Detectives England and Kerr of the West 123d Street Station, on the playground of Public School 10, at 117th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, they were taken to the station house on the charge of juvenile delinquency.

According to the police, Harry and Matthew were identified by Harold Straus, 8 years old, as two of four boys who held him up and robbed him of $75 in a lot at Riverside Drive and 115th Street on the afternoon of Sept. 10. Harold is the son of John D. Straus, a clothing merchant, who lives at 629 West 115th Street. On the day in question his father, on leaving his apartment, gave Harold $75 to give to his mother on her return.

Says Boys Confessed to Robberies.

The police say the boys deny the hold-up, but admit taking part in several store robberies within the last month. Places robbed by the boys, the police say, include the James Butler grocery at 117th Street and Eighth Avenue, another grocery at 124th Street and Broadway, laundries at 106th Street and Broadway and 112th Street and Broadway, and a dairy on 109th Street, between Manhattan and Columbus Avenues.

The Star Gas Station and Garage Company at 103 West Fifty-first Street was held up early yesterday by three armed men who drove up in a black taxicab, after walking past the building on foot several times. Pointing pistols at Benjamin Kinsella, the night manager of the garage, and Jacob Aisenberg, his assistant, the bandits stole $60 from the cash register and $30 from the two employes and escaped.

Later in the day Detective Kelly of the West Forty-seventh Street Station arrested James Kane of 407 Forty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, in a rooming house not far from the garage, and Aisenberg identified him as one of the robbers. Magistrate Sweetser in West Side Court held Kane in $5,000 bail for examination Monday on a charge of robbery.

Four men entered the saloon of John Smith at 332 Ninth Avenue, corner of Twenty-ninth Street, late yesterday afternoon, and asked for whisky. Smith refused to serve them. In a fight which followed Smith said the men knocked him down with a club and then robbed the cash register of $26. The four men escaped, but Patrolman Winthrop of the West Thirtieth Street Station captured a man running down the street. He said he was Thomas Walsh, 24 years old, of 513 West Fifty-ninth Street. He was locked up on charges of assault and robbery.

Woman Accuses Taxi Driver

Mrs. Jennie Roder of 168 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, reported to the police that a taxicab driver she engaged late Thursday night held her up. She got into the machine at 145th Street and Eighth Avenue. Instead of taking her home, she said, the driver took her to 147th Street and Eighth Avenue, where he called to a man on the street. Mrs. Roder said the two men took her purse containing $80 and threw her to the street. Louis Levison, 27, a chauffeur, of 20 West 118th Street was arrested an hour later. Magistrate Marsh in Washington Heights Court yesterday held him for the Grand Jury in $2,000 bail.

Detective Joseph Finn of the West Thirtieth Street Station arrested John Taigue, 19 years old, of 428 West Thirty-fifth Street, at Ninth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, yesterday, on the charge of robbery. According to Patrick Boyle, a messenger for the Mark Cross Company, 404 Fifth Avenue, Taigue was one of two men who held him up and robbed him of $2,040 payroll money in front of 307 Wet Thirty-seventh Street on Aug. 19.

FREE TWO MEN HELD IN REUSCHLE MURDER

Pair, Whom Policeman Had Arrested Previously, Convince Police of Innocence—Girl Aids Inquiry.

After they had been detained by the police for more than forty-eight hours in connection with the murder of Policeman Joseph A. Reuschle in Riverside Drive, Abraham Meekler and Edward Lewis, two of five men arrested by the slain policeman three weeks ago for having pistols and blackjacks in their possession, were allowed to go to their homes.

It was said that detectives had satisfied themselves that the men had no knowledge of a plot to kill the policeman, and that statements of their whereabouts on the night of the killing had been substantiated.

Captain Carey, at Police Headquarters, released the men after he had questioned Anna May, 18 years old, who was arrested Thursday night in an apartment in West Forty-third Street, near Tenth Avenue, with Joseph Spitz, who is said to have confessed to several holdups in the Bronx. The girl told Detective Henry Oswald that Joseph Curry, who was also held in connection with the shooting of Reuschle, lived in the apartment. She had been sent to the Waverly Home as a material witness in the murder investigation. She told Captain Carey that she resided up to several months ago with her mother, Mrs. Mary Adams, at 41 East Elizabeth Street, Detroit.

Captain Carey would not reveal any of the details of the girl's alleged knowledge of the criminal operations of Spitz and Curry, but it was learned that she was detained because she had furnished information which was expected to aid the police in runing down the slayers of the policeman.

'IMPORTED' NEGROES CAUSE STRIKE RIOT

TWO MEN ARE INJURED

Pearl River Folk Unanimously Against Bringing In of Jersey Negroes to Break Strike.

Special to The New York Times.

PEARL RIVER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—This village of 2,000 inhabitants and no police force was the scene this afternoon of a strike riot which resulted in serious injury of two strikers, the arrest of a foreman, and further delay in the construction of additional buildings for the Dexter Folder Company. Tonight the State Police are patroling the place.

The Dexter concern is the principal industry of the place and about 50 per cent. of the inhabitants are employed at the plant. Construction work for the company is being carried on by the Ferguson Construction Company of Cleveland. About fifty local workers had been engaged as laborers by the contractors. Recently these men went on strike and today negroes from Southern New Jersey were brought in to fill the strikers' places. They arrived at noon and went to work.

The clash came when the negroes were going to their lodgings after the day's work. Both sides were equally divided and the battle began without preliminaries. Stones, clubs and anything that came to hand were used. When help came and the crowds scattered it was found that Elmer Boig, a striker, and another Pearl River man had been hurt. Boig is in a hospital and it is said his condition is critical. The other wounded striker was taken home by his comrades.

Thomas Williams, a foreman, was arrested on a charge of assault. He was released on bail. Pearl River is almost unanimously in sympathy with the strikers.

Du Pont Company Changes.

But there came a day when he couldn't lift the calf

PERHAPS you remember the story of the man who tried to lift a cow by starting when it was a little calf and lifting it every day. He reasoned that the weight it gained every day would be so small he could easily lift that along with what he lifted the day before.

But there came a day when he couldn't lift the calf. The animal's bones and flesh gained weight until the man's strength could not lift it.

The transformation of a cow's milk into the growing body of a calf is one of the miracles of nature too common to be noticed. Within an hour after birth, a calf discovers its mother and how to obtain its daily milk—and life is on. In a few days it has changed from a long-legged, scraggly, awkward creature into a strong, healthy animal. And from then on it adds considerable weight every day.

What cows' milk does for cows' children it does for your children, with the difference that is due to their different natures. Milk is a flesh-, blood-, and bone-builder. It is good, too, for adult people, to aid in the re-creation of the body which is continually taking place.

Think how a calf grows—and give your children all the milk they want.

SAMUEL BLUM
Maker of the Finest Tailored
ROCHESTER ART CLOTHES

Retiring from the Clothing Business

Rochester Art Clothes have been made for particular men for seventeen years. We have never sold at retail. We have been too busy tailoring and selling our clothes to merchants who sell good clothing. While building high class apparel we have built an enviable reputation. Our men's clothes are considered by the best retailers to be the finest clothes made in New York. And now, just when we have reached the zenith of our success, we are going out of the men's clothing business. For the first time in our history we will sell our finely tailored suits and overcoats direct to the New York public.

Samuel Blum Will Now Sell
ROCHESTER ART CLOTHES
Direct to You
At Below the Wholesale Cost

The Samuel Blum retirement means money in your pocket. The Samuel Blum retirement means a cleanup of quality clothes for men at less-than-wholesale prices—at prices lower than the current replacement figures.

Superior Woolens

In these fine clothes you have your choice of the sturdiest and handsomest imported and domestic fabrics—every one of them all wool. The imported include Caledon and O'Brien. The domestic include such well known materials as Hockanum, Princeton, Dunn, Kunhardt, Standish and Worumbo.

Service—and Style

Rochester Art Clothes wear. And the fit is not pressed in; it is moulded in by the deft fingers of master tailors.

Men to whom style means something know Rochester Art Clothes. They are designed and the tailoring supervised by Frank Laura, who for ten years created custom garments for such prominent Fifth Avenue tailors as Schanz and J. F. Lanigan.

Every suit and overcoat in the sale is a new and up-to-the-minute model, made to sell in the better class shops only. You'll be sure to find the clothes here that fit your figure, your face—and your own individual tastes.

Buy enough. Buy enough to keep you well dressed for some time to come. That's real economy because during this less-than-wholesale-price sale at Blum's you can buy two suits for the price of only one suit if purchased at the quality shops where Rochester Art Clothes are sold at retail.

Buy as a Retailer

When you come here you won't find elaborate fixtures and accoutrements—but you will find out-of-the-ordinary values. You are virtually buying in our own workrooms, direct from our stock shelves, just as the retailer would buy. You will see cutting tables piled high with fine woolens—and the air of industry rather than the atmosphere of the fine retail shop. You will be behind the scenes. And you will save the profit the retailer ordinarily makes—in a word, our loss is your gain—not just on paper, but in actual cash. So we urge you to anticipate your clothing needs for some time to come. The chances are you will never have a similar opportunity again.

To-day's the Day

We will begin the sale on Saturday with our entire stock of suits, overcoats and evening clothes. Come as early as possible—come while the selection of styles and fabrics is complete. Bear in mind that every suit or overcoat you buy during this event represents so much profit for you.

Sale Begins
8 A. M. Saturday
Closed Monday and Tuesday—
Sale Continues Wednesday.

A Million Dollars in Finest Tailored Suits & Overcoats

TWO NEW ATTACKS MENACE TAX BILL

Opponents in Both Parties Would Sweep Away Senate Finance Committee Program.

LONG FIGHT IS PREDICTED

Smoot Offers Amendments Providing 3 Per Cent. Sales Levy and War Tax Repeal.

PENROSE REFUSES CHANGES

Says They Must Be Made on Floor—Simmons Asserts Measure Favors Wealthy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Two separate series of amendments for the replacement of the greater part of the Revenue bill were presented in the Senate today, one by Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican member of the Finance Committee, and the other by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking Democratic member of the committee.

With Senator Smoot proposing a sales tax of 3 per cent., and with a break in Republican ranks on that form of revenue, as well as on excess profit repeals and reduction of surtaxes, the tax bill is encountering a hard road, with every indication that there will be radical changes in the program. The Democrats, under the leadership of Senator Simmons, are demanding a reduction in the normal income tax rates as well as a modification of the surtax rates.

The elements opposed to accepting the committee bill are unable to reach a compromise. The farmer group is divided over the sales tax, and its leader cannot promise complete support. The Democrats refuse to accept the sales tax program offered by Senator Smoot unless an agreement can be reached in favor of Senator Simmons's amendment. As a result a prolonged contest is imminent, with the certainty of several changes in the committee bill on the floor.

Republican Leaders Confer.

The opposition to the committee bill became so strong today that the Republican leaders held a conference to consider what course to take to overcome objections. No decision was recahed. and Senator Penrose, Chairman of the Finance Committee, announced that the bill would not be withdrawn for amendments. He admitted that amendments would be adopted, but he prefers these to be made in the Senate rather than in committee.

The chief provisions of the Smoot substitute are a manufacturers' tax of 3 per cent., commonly known as a sales tax; repeal of the excess profits tax as of Jan. 1, 1921; repeal of all war taxes, luxury taxes, transportation taxes, capital stock tax, insurance taxes, soft drink taxes, effective in January, 1922; retention of the corporation tax of 10 per cent. and retention of the present tobacco, inheritance liquor and customs duties.

Senator Simmons also favors repeal of the transportation taxes and retention of the capital stock tax. Instead of an excess profits tax on corporations he would have a graduated tax of 12½ to 25 per cent. He would not permit individual exemptions to taxpayers with incomes of more than $20,000, and he would restore the surtax rates to a maximum of 52 per cent. on incomes of more than $500,000.

"I have viewed the taxation problem as a business problem from the standpoint of all three interested groups, the Treasury Department, the taxpayer and the ultimate bearer of all taxes, the consuming public," said Senator Smoot. "The public wants to get rid of all these annoying taxes, and they should be eliminated for the sole reason, if for no other, that they were resorted to only as war emergency taxes.

Smoot's Amendments.

"The amendments which I offer, provide in substance:

"1. Repeal of the excess profits tax, effective with reference to net income of 1921, instead of postponing the repeal until Jan. 1, 1922, as provided in the House bill. The only result that will follow the imposition of the excess profits tax for the year 1921 will be to further burden small or moderate-sized business in this country, for the great corporations will have no excess profits to tax.

"2. Repeal of all the various other war taxes—the excise taxes, luxury taxes, stamp taxes, capital stock tax, transportation, telegraph and insurance taxes, the taxes on soft drinks, ice cream, cosmetics, the taxes on admissions and dues, and all of the other '57 varieties' of obnoxious, discriminatory forms of taxation, the repeal of these to be effective on Jan. 1, 1922.

"3. Retain the corporation tax at its present rate of 10 per cent. Any higher rate of taxation upon corporate income would be unjustified, particularly in connection with the repeal of the excess profits tax. The House bill with the Senate amendment makes the corporation tax 15 per cent. instead of 10 per cent., but as the large majority of corporations do not pay the excess profits tax a flat 15 per cent. tax would mean a 50 per cent. increase in taxes for the corporations which are least able to bear it.

"4. My amendments contemplate no change in the present tobacco, liquor and inheritance taxes and customs duties as provided for under tariff legislation.

"5. In substitution for the various taxes repealed I provide for a production or sales tax in the following language:

"'That in addition to all other taxes there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid upon every commodity manufactured or produced, when sold, leased, or licensed for consumption or use without further process of manufacture, a tax equivalent to 3 per cent. of the price for which such commodity is sold, leased or licensed; such tax to be paid by the manufacturer or producer.'

"It should be noted that as the tax is imposed only when articles are sold for consumption or use without further process of manufacture, that the tax will be non-cumulative in effect and will give the integrated business no advantage over the disintegrated business. There will be but one tax.

"If a commodity is sold for consumption or use in a further process of manufacture, no tax will be imposed. For example, coal sold for consumption in a boiler will be taxable, but coal sold for the manufacture of coke will not be taxable, the coke bearing a tax when sold.

"Likewise, crude oil sold for fuel would be taxable, but if sold to a refinery for the making of gasoline or like commodities would not be taxable.

Exemptions Under Proposed Sales Tax.

"In order to avoid administrative difficulties with small sales, the bill provides for an exemption of all sales of less than $6,000 during one year. This will exclude about 1 per cent. of the manufactured goods in the country, according to the census of manufacturers.

"It will practically exempt all the agricultural products since the average value of products of farms for this year has been estimated by the Department of Agriculture at between $1,000 and $2,000 but, as most agricultural products would find their way into manufactured products, they would be exempt anyway under the definition of the tax.

"Provision is made for a like tax upon similar imported commodities so that there can be no discrimination against American products."

Senator Simmons began his attack on the bill today by criticising the features which reduce the surtaxes to 32 per cent. He said that the reduction favored the wealthy, that no material change had been made on the lower surtaxes, and that the normal taxes remained the same.

"Thirteen thousand millionaires having incomes in excess of $66,000 annually, will be saved 33 cents on every dollar of taxes they now pay," asserted Senator Simmons. "This is due to the fact that the Republicans, by this bill, purpose to reduce the maximum surtax from 65 to 32 per cent.

"The great body of the 5,000,000 income tax payers in the United States will not receive any reduction in their income taxes."

Senator Curtis challenged this statement, contending that in every bracket the surtaxes, even below the $65,000 figure, on which the maximum tax will apply, will be decreased by the new schedule.

"Oh, they may be saved a cent," retorted Senator Simmons, "but the man who receives between $66,000 a year and $68,000 a year will get only a net reduction of $10.

Irish Prepare for Campaign For $20,000,000 Loan Here

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Stephen M. O'Mara, financial representative in the United States of Dail Eireann, the Irish Parliament, announced today that collection of funds in this country for the use of Ireland has been ordered stopped in preparation for the $20,000,000 loan campaign in November.

The only exception made is for the Irish relief committee, whose drive for funds is virtually closed.

The order, Mr. O'Mara said, "is not meant as any reflection on the purpose, diligence or integrity of the various relief associations that have been raising funds for Ireland, but is more in the way of preparation for the forthcoming campaign for the $20,000,000 Irish loan, authorized by the Dail Eireann."

CHINA CLAIMS RIGHTS IN CABLE AGREEMENT

Peking Protests Reported Terms of Understanding Between America and Japan.

PEKING, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—Agreements between the United States and Japan relative to the future status of the Island of Yap, as reported in press dispatches, constitute a violation of China's sovereignty and the principle of national equality, says an identic note transmitted to the American and Japanese legations by the Chinese Foreign Office.

The Chinese note maintains that the American-Japanese agreement cannot authorize Japan to lay a cable between Shanghai and the Island of Yap unless she secures the consent of China. The Chinese Government takes this stand on the ground that Germany's rights to this cable lapsed when China declared war, and that Germany has not been succeeded by any other power.

ADRIFT ALL NIGHT FOGBOUND IN BAY

Plight of Rockville Centre Fishing Party in Disabled Boat—Two Fall Overboard.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Sept. 30.—After a night in a disabled motorboat, during which they were nearly swamped several times in Hempstead Bay, eight residents of this place, including village President Edwin W. Wallace, are safe at home.

They left East Rockaway yesterday afternoon on a fishing trip and had been out less than an hour when a heavy fog blanketed them and they shut off the engnie. After tossing about in the bay for an hour they decided to return to East Rockaway, but the motor would not start.

Four of the men climbed aboard the dory trailer to try to make land, and in shifting seats in the dory Captain Bartholomew Peck and Walter T. Bell lost their balance and fell overboard. They were rescued with difficulty and got back into the motorboat. When dawn came and the fog lifted the party rowed the motor boat to a point off East Long Beach, where they made a landing.

Besides Mr. Wallace, Captain Peck and Mr. Bell the party included village Clerk George S. Utter, village Trustee David R. Longnecker, Edwin H. Richmond, real estate operator; A. H. Parsons, real estate operator, and Charles E. Richmond.

YIELDS A POINT TO JAPAN.

Far Eastern Republic Will Not Insist on Immediate Quitting of Siberia

PEKING, Sept. 30 (Associated Press.)—Delegates of the Far Eastern Republic who are conferring with Japanese representatives at Dairen, have modified their demands upon Japan, it is stated at the Japanese Legation here. The Chita representatives originally insisted that Japan withdraw her troops from Eastern Siberia before they would discuss a trade agreement with that country, but they are said to have yielded on this point.

It is intimated that Moscow had a hand in this development. When attempts by the Far Eastern Republic to enter into commercial relations with China and America did not succeed, it is said that the Soviet Government hinted at a discontinuance of financial support unless the Far Eastern Republic speedily and firmly established international relations.

When the negotiations at Dairen reopened on Sept. 27, the Japanese delegation handed to the Far Eastern Republic's plenipotentiaries a list of seventeen proposals dealing with the removal of restrictions to trade which existed during the Czarist régime in Russia and leaving the question of the withdrawal of Japanese troops to be decided upon later.

QUITS SEA AFTER 40 YEARS.

Commodore Parker of Southern Pacific Fleet to Turn Landsman.

A farewell luncheon was held yesterday afternoon by the masters of the Southern Pacific Steamship Company on board the El Capitan, tied up at the foot of Bank Street, North River, in honor of Commodore Edwin F. Parker, who retires after forty years of continuous service with that company. Commodore Parker had been mate and master during that time, and in recent years commander of the company's fleet. He will retire to his farm, Barnegat, N. J.

Captain J. H. Halsey, master of the El Capitan, acted as host, and on behalf of the masters presented to the Commodore a 400-day gold clock. Captain C. P. Maxon, who succeeded him, spoke of the record of the retiring Commodore, and told many stories regarding him. Commodore Parker was born in Philadelphia, Dec. 10, 1852.

OLD PAINTER FOUND DEAD.

Frederick W. Weber, 75, Lived Alone in Washington Square.

Frederick William Weber, 75 years old, a landscape painter, was found dead yesterday in his room on the third floor of 45 Washington Square South. Miss Esther Case, housekeeper of the building, notified Patrolman Zimmerman, who called Dr. McKenna of St. Vincent's Hospital, and the latter said the painter had been dead probably for several days and that death was due to natural causes.

Weber had lived at the Washington Square address for about four years. He occupied a single room, where he cooked his meals and did his painting. His landlady said she did not know very much about him, but he occasionally sold some of his work.

MONEY STILL BUYS LUXURY IN RUSSIA

FURNITURE IS VERY CHEAP

Moscow Restaurant Keeper Bought a Dining Room Suite Used by Napoleon for $100.

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (via Riga, Sept. 30).—Money still talks in Russia—not quite so loudly, perhaps, as in America or Western Europe, but just as distinctly. Under the new economic régime its voice is again recognized by law, but even before, while it was still a hushed whisper, there were plenty of people ready to listen.

This does not mean official corruption—on the contrary. Americans and British here who have known Russia under the old régime—even the non-Bolshevist Russians themselves—declare that there is infinitely less official graft than under the Czar. But anything one needs can be bought for money, and could be bought even when private trade was forbidden and the vendor risked imprisonment.

In this country, which is facing a universal food shortage, it is possible to get the following dinner: Fresh Astrakhan caviar, with pre-war vodka; white bread and butter, delicious bortsch soup, with old sherry; grilled salmon and roast partridge, with vintage burgundy or champagne; cakes of every kind, cream, sugar, custard, fine Russian cheese, hothouse grapes, old port and older cognac. Spirits and stronger wines are still prohibited, but you can get them by paying just as you got them and the rest of the meal a year ago, when the barrier was still universal.

It is the same with household equipment, boots, clothes, furs, precious metals and jewels. Some things, indeed, are incredibly cheap—for instance, fine linen sheets and tablecloths. Few Russians today use sheets owing to the soap shortage, but many bourgeois families still have considerable stocks. They are too bulky to make it worth while trying to smuggle them out.

In Russia today value is not reckoned by age, beauty, artistic merit or intrinsic worth, but by immediate utility or smuggling possibilities. Thus, furniture is especially cheap. In a newly opened restaurant I sat in a carved oaken chair used at the banquet which the victorious Napoleon gave his Marshals in Moscow. The proprietor bought the whole suite a month ago for 4,000,000 rubles—less than $100.

Then one hears that Moscow will suffer terribly this Winter from a fuel shortage. It is true, but, just the same, wood can be bought by the wagonload, and petroleum, too, though it is still impossible to obtain coal. The stocks of shoes, underwear and general clothing are exceedingly short; but there are German shoes, silk shirts and excellent cloth on sale for those who have the price. Tea, coffee, milk, honey, sugar and cocoa are sold in abundance; but there is practically no paper in which to wrap them, for paper is not a necessity and, therefore, money does not overcome its shortage.

With metal utensils it is the same story; but it is easier to buy a solid silver saucepan—and often cheaper—than an iron frying pan or teapot. For frying pans and teapots every one uses here, but silver saucepans can be dispensed with.

Medicines are really lacking; but cocaine, heroin, morphine and ether find sale at however inflated prices because an imperious demand exists for them. In this respect, however, and as regards alcohol, indulgence is really reduced to the minimum by the vigilance of the authorities and the severity of the penalties imposed. Recently traffickers in drugs have been shot in Moscow, and the punishment for a second offense of bootlegging is a long term of imprisonment.

RUM AND MURDERS IN AUTO THEFT CASE

Men Arrested in New Britain Fail to Get Bail Because of Tangle of Charges.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Another arrest late today by the State police brought the total arrests to ten in the State and county investigation of the supposed murder of Louis Winkle, real estate dealer, and the resulting disclosures of alleged whisky running and automobile stealing.

State officers took into custody in Southington Salvator Vaialli of this city. He was taken to Hartford, where he was booked on a charge of receiving stolen whisky. His bonds were fixed at $25,000, and being unable to obtain a bondsman he was locked up in the Hartford County jail.

Detective Sergeant Andrew U. Richardson and Jacob Winkle, who were arrested yesterday and held in $50,000 bonds, remained in the Hartford Jail tonight, having been unsuccessful in their efforts to furnish bail. Many friends of Richardson, several of them described as wealthy, were called in by the prisoner last night and today, but all declined to serve as bondsmen.

Richardson's two sons, Andrew F. and Wallace, also are in the jail in default of bonds of $15,000 each. The three Richardsons and Winkle are charged with receiving and concealing stolen automobiles. In making the large bail for the prisoners, State's Attorney Alcorn said the ramifications of the New Britain situation were extensive and showed "sordid gain and corruption."

The five others held as a result of the present investigation are Jacob Jennings of Hartford, Clemens Kalkowski, Frank Fetzman, Michael Nich and Edward Cotter, all of this city. Kalkowski and Fetzman were released in bonds of $3,000 each today, after a hearing on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Louis Winkle. Policemen testified that Kalkowski told them that Winkle fell down stirs in his saloon, and regarding him as drunk, he dragged him outside, where the body was found the following day. Fetzman was a bartender in the saloon. Nich also had a hearing and was released in $1,000 bonds as a material witness in the Winkle case.

DROP 4,300-POUND BOMB.

Army Missile Makes Crater 100 Feet in Diameter at Aberdeen.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—The largest, fully charged demolition bomb ever made was exploded today at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds by the Army Aviation Service with prominent officers of the navy and army as witnesses. The bomb weighed 4,300 pounds and was dropped from an altitude of 4,100 feet. It landed within the area marked off and left a crater 100 feet in diameter by 30 feet deep

The observing party was on an elevated platform, 1,500 feet from the spot They felt no unpleasant sensation and nearly all agreed that the effect on their eardrums and nerves was not severe. Marshland was chosen for the test.

Captain Carolin was the pilot and Sergeant Smink and Corporal Avariet the bombers. A specially constructed rack device held the bomb, and when the bombers reached the desired altitude the gentle pull of a lever released the big missile. It was about 13 feet long, 2 feet in diameter and colored red with a yellow tail. The coloring was to enable the observers to study the motion of the bomb.

Harding Asks Two-Minute Silent Prayer For the Unknown Dead on Armistice Day

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The American people were called upon by President Harding, in a proclamation issued today, to offer two minutes' silent prayer at noon on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, when the body of an unknown American soldier killed in France will be laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery.

The proclamation calls upon "all devout and patriotic citizens" to pause for two minutes—from 12 o'clock noon until two minutes past 12—"for a period of silent prayer of thanks to the Giver of all good for these valuable and valorous lives, and of supplication for His Divine mercy and for His blessings upon our beloved country." The proclamation reads as follows:

By the President of the United States of America,

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, the Congress of the United States, by a concurrent resolution adopted on the 4th day of March last authorized the Secretary of War to cause to be brought to the United States the body of an American who was a member of the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe, who lost his life during the World War and whose identity has not been established, for burial in the Memorial Amphitheatre of the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va.;

And, whereas, the remains of this unknown American to be brought to the United States in pursuance of the said concurrent resolution will be buried in the said Memorial Amphitheatre at Arlington on the 11th day of November next;

And, whereas, these remains will be representative of all unidentified American dead who in the World War gave their lives in their country's cause;

And, whereas, it is desired that grateful recognition of their loyal devotion to country and of their sacrifice should be appropriately shown with due solemnity by their God-fearing and patriotic fellow-countrymen;

Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States of America, do hereby call upon all devout and patriotic citizens of the United States to pause from their accustomed occupations and labors on Friday, the 11th day of November, next, from 12 o'clock noon to two minutes past that hour for a period of silent prayer of thanks to the Giver of all good for these valuable and valorous lives, and of supplication for His Divine mercy and for His blessings upon our beloved country.

Furthermore, I hereby direct that the national flag be displayed at half staff upon all the public buildings of the United States and all stations of the army, navy and Marine Corps throughout the world, as well as upon all American Embassies, Legations and Consulates, from sunrise until sunset, on Nov. 11, 1921.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done in the District of Columbia, this thirtieth day of September in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-sixth.

WARREN G. HARDING.

By the President:
CHARLES E. HUGHES,
Secretary of State.

RELIEF FOR RUSSIA NOW IN FULL SWING

Riga Expects to Ship 1,600 Tons of Food Weekly, Feeding 1,000,000.

5,000 TONS ALREADY SENT

Additional 5,000 May Be Made a Food Reserve in Moscow—Railroads Clearing Up.

RIGA, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—American relief for Russia by way of Riga today for the first time reached full swing for the capable feeding of the aged and millions of children. With more than 5,000 tons of food already sent into Russia by way of Riga since the first train departed a month ago, the Riga offices of the American Relief Administration, acting on orders from Colonel William N. Haskell, are now ready to ship 1,600 tons of food weekly. This, figured out in calories, means a meal a day for a week for 1,000,000 persons.

The relief administration is also arranging to ship 5,000 tons more for a food reserve in Moscow. As the Soviet seed grain shipments are ceasing, the Russian railways are now clearing up for speedy and efficient handling of relief supplies.

The first supply vessel from the United States, the Moravia Bridge, bringing 2,000 tons of flour, is due from Philadelphia tomorrow. Woolen cloth for clothing and supplies of medicines are due to reach Riga in a few days.

POLAND LESS SEVERE IN NEW NOTE TO RUSSIA

Moscow Believes That She Will Not Break Off Diplomatic Relations Today.

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (Associated Press).—Poland's reply to the request of the Soviet Government for an extension of the ultimatum threatening a severance of diplomatic relations from Oct. 1 to Oct. 5 was received here today. The reply is so mild that it is thought here that relations will be continued.

While Poland has not officially granted the extension asked nor formally announced that relations will not be broken off on Oct. 1, it is generally assumed in official circles in Moscow that the negotiations over fulfillment of the Riga peace treaty will be prolonged indefinitely, without an open break.

A rumor in circulation here that M. Karakhan, the Soviet representative in Warsaw, would be recalled was denied by the Soviet Foreign Office this evening.

Riga, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—The Polish reply to the Soviet Government's note, says an official radio message from Moscow today, promises that Boris Savinkoff, the anti-Bolshevist leader, and his followers will be expelled from Poland if complaints as to their acts toward Russia are proved. The reply denies that pressure has been brought to bear on Poland by France. It likewise denies the receipt by Poland of the Russian note of Sept. 3. (This last reference is obscure, but may refer to the communication which Russia, in Riga dispatches of Sept. 7, was said to have sent Poland announcing that she would refuse to turn over any portion of the 30,000,000 gold rubles awarded Poland under the Riga treaty until Savinoff and his followers had been expelled from Poland. The Soviet Government later sent another note reiterating its previous statements.)

The Polish note, the radio message adds, promises that the Bolshevist documents containing the charges that Savinoff and his associates were plotting against Russia, contrary to the terms of the Riga peace treaty, will be submitted to investigators, and that persons working in Poland against Russia, with whom the note says Poland desires to maintain peace, will be prosecuted.

LOCOMOBILE $1,000 LESS.

Company Terminates Contract With Hares Motors, Inc.

The Locomobile Company announced yesterday a reduction, effective today, of $1,000 to $7,600 in the price of its seven-passenger touring car.

It was made known at the same time that the company had terminated its contract with Hare's Motors, Inc., which for the last year and a half has been operating the properties. New executives will continue operation of the Locomobile plant at Bridgeport, Conn.

BOYDEN AIDS FRANCE BY EXCHANGE RULING

AND ALL IN GOLD MARKS

France Will Now Get All She Lent Instead of Half the Amount.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Roland Boyden, American representative on the Commission on Reparations, as arbiter on the invitation of the allied Governments, gave his decision today as to the rate of exchange at which the Belgian debt to the Allies must be repaid by Germany. Mr. Boyden ruled that the debt must be calculated in gold marks at the exchange rate of Nov. 11, 1918, the day of the armistice.

This ruling gives complete satisfaction to the French, who were the first to ask that Mr. Boyden be invited to act as arbiter.

The question has been for a long time one of the most troublesome of the minor questions of the financial settlement of the war. The amounts involved are 2,500,000,000 francs, which Belgium borrowed from France during the war, more than £60,000,000 borrowed from England and more than $250,000,000 borrowed from America.

Article 232 of the Treaty of Versailles laid down as a special penalty for violating Belgian neutrality that Germany should repay all loans made to Belgium, with 5 per cent. interest. But each allied country had made the loans in the terms of its own currency, and the question arose as to the rate at which repayment should be made. If France, for instance, were to receive the same number of paper francs as she loaned Belgium between 1914 and 1918 she would have received only about one-half the real value of her loan.

Against this France protested at the financial conference last August, and after a discussion the British authorities agreed that Mr. Boyden should be chosen as arbiter.

Mr. Boyden's decision will enable France to get the return of the value of the loans she made and not merely their face value. The approximate valuation of the loans made must be fixed by the Commission on Reparations and paid by Germany before May 1. 1926.

WIRTH SAYS REACTION PLOTTED REVOLUTION

Tells Reichstag of 'Great Secret Organizations' Operating in Baden and Silesia.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (Associated Press).—"Great secret organizations working for the overthrow of the Constitution have endeavored to bring about another Kapp revolution," said Chancellor Wirth to the Reichstag today. He declared that the information had been communicated to the Central Government by the Baden Public Prosecutor, who made further investigations which confirmed the Government's fear that the operations of those organizations embraced Upper Silesia.

Dr. Wirth's statement was made in the course of a sharp attack by the Nationalists, who frequently interrupted his speech. The Chancellor said the Government was fully alive to the traditions of Germany's greatness and the importance of celebrating great anniversaries, but use was made of the celebrations by the German People's Party which was not conducive to the welfare of the country in the present crisis. This led to the revelations, but Dr. Wirth said he did not feel it was incumbent upon him to give details.

Dr. Wolfgang Kapp was the leader of the movement which overthrew the Ebert Government in March, 1920. Dr. Kapp was proclaimed Chancellor, but the revolt was short-lived, and after a few days President Ebert was again in power.

AMERICA WILL HELP REDUCE RHINE COSTS

This Country Will Be Represented by Allen and Boyden at Brussels Conference.

PLAN CUT TO $60,000,000

United States May Be Asked to Take Class A German Bonds for $260,000,000 Due Us.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The United States will participate with the Allies in the consideration of measures to reduce the total cost of all the armies in German occupied territory to 240,000,000 gold marks per annum, it is stated in American circles here. The question is to be discussed at the forthcoming financial conference in Brussels, at which the United States will be represented by General Henry T. Allen, Commander of the American Army of Occupation, and Roland W. Boyden, American representative with the Reparations Commission.

Another question to come before the Brussels conference will be the methods by which the United States is to be paid for the accumulated cost of the upkeep of her army on the Rhine. This problem is giving the allied experts concern, inasmuch as Germany contends that her first indemnity payment covered fully her obligations to date for the maintenance of all the armies of occupation. Germany bases her contention upon the Treaty of Versailles, which stipulates that the cost of the armies shall have priority over all other charges and should have been taken out of the first indemnity instalment.

The United States has expended nearly $260,000,000 for the maintenance of her forces of occupation. Should the Allies accept the German position, which American circles here regard as probable, the United States would have to collect the cost from the allied Governments, among whom the first indemnity payment is expected to be divided.

It had been unofficially suggested that America accept German indemnity bonds, Class A, in payment for the army's upkeep. These bonds mature in 40 years and pay 5 per cent. interest. Financial experts of the Allies contend that the acceptance of these bonds by the American Government would give them a value which they do not possess today.

The suggestion regarding the bonds is not before the Washington authorities as yet, but it may be definitely proposed as the result of the Brussels conference.

WARREN TELLS JAPAN HOPES FOR CONFERENCE

Says It Should Safeguard All the Legitimate National Interests in the Pacific.

TOKIO, Sept. 29. (Associated Press).—The coming Washington conference, said Charles B. Warren, the American Ambassador, in speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the America-Japan Society last night, would be a conference by common consent among Sovereign States—a conference upon which the United States was not seeking to impose its will.

"The President," said Ambassador Warren, "is rather seeking a frank discussion with a view to bringing about as a concrete result a declaration of principles by the nations participating which in their practical application will prevent a clash of conflicting interests and remove the causes for armaments.

"The way to bring about the permanent limitation of armaments," continued the Ambassador, "is permanently to remove the reasons for armaments. It will not do to meet and say they must limit armaments and preserve peace. There should emerge from the conference a concrete basis for limiting armaments."

It would seem, said Mr. Warren, that the conference would furnish opportunity for a declaration of principles with regard to the problems of the Pacific, insuring the development of the legitimate national interests of all the Pacific powers, and lead to a path of co-operation in friendly commerce. The nations, he said, required relief from the burdens of excessive armaments and the re-establishment of stability so that they could work out their serious internal problems.

"The nations about the Pacific are seeking an uninterrupted flow of commerce, the ties of which should grow increasingly stronger," the Ambassador said, "until finally comes that mutual understanding which alone is the foundation of continued peace."

The Ambassador emphasized the necessity for repairing the ravages of war by adjusting international relations so as to permit the streams of commerce to flow freely.

ONLY FOUR AMERICANS IN NOVEMBER PARLEYS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—A definite decision has been reached by President Harding and the members of the American delegation to the Washington conference that the number of delegates of the United States shall be maintained at four without regard to the action of any other participating Government in increasing the personnel of its delegation beyond that number.

The report that the British delegation would consist of as many as six has not been confirmed officially. It is assumed here that if Great Britain is to have a delegation of that number, it is to be accounted for by the desire of the London Government to give the overseas dominions representation. The Japanese Government has, so far, designated only three delegates.

Goes Hunting for Burglars; Is Killed by His Own Pistol

McPHERSON, Kan., Sept. 30.—Fred E. Ellis, Colonel of the Fourth Kansas Infantry, who was a Major during the war, died today when he fell over a rug in his home while hunting for a burglar, and his own pistol was discharged, the bullet penetrating his heart.

Colonel Ellis had been in the National Guard since 1898.

HOWAT GOES TO JAIL FOR CALLING STRIKE

He and Dorchy Begin Serving Six Months' Sentences for Defying Industrial Court.

REFUSE TO FURNISH BONDS

Or Give Pledge to Call No More Strikes—Miners to Meet to Decide Course.

COLUMBUS, Kan., Sept. 30.—Alexander M. Howat, President of the Kansas Mine Workers' Union, and August Dorchy, its Vice President, went to the Cherokee County jail today to begin serving sentences of six months each for violating the criminal section of the Kansas Industrial Court law by calling a strike.

Announcement was made that the Mine Workers' Union would meet Sunday at Franklin to discuss a voluntary strike throughout the field.

The two men went to jail after they had appeared in court and declined to furnish bonds of $2,000 each that they would call no more strikes in the Kansas coal fields. The proceedings were witnessed by hundreds of miners from all parts of the district. There was no demonstration, as the two men were taken in custody by Sheriff William Harvey.

Before going to the courtroom Howat addressed the crowd of miners, denouncing Governor Henry J. Allen and the Industrial Court and speaking at length in condemnatio of Joh L. Lewis, President of the International Mine Workers Union. He charged Lewis and his administration with responsibility for the adverse vote by the union convention at Indianapolis this week in the matter of continuing two strikes caled by Howat. Howat asserted that the international organization had constantly sought to interfere in the affairs of the Kansas district and that he would never order the men in the two mines back to work, as was directed by the Indianapolis convention.

"I'll suffer expulsion from office and the union before I'll order these men back to work, except under the old conditions," Howat said. "The international convention should never have bothered with that row. Lewis wanted to humiliate me so he dragged me into the convention."

Miners and operators are awaiting with interest the attitude of the international organization in the event that the men on strike are not ordered back to work. In most quarters it was said that the international union probably would take charge of the Kansas district.

With Howat and Dorchy in jail, Thomas Harvey, the Secretary-Treasurer, is the ranking union official in the State. Harvey is attending the Indianapolis convention. He is regarded as an opponent of Howat's policies.

The controversy between officials of the Kansas union and the Idustrial Court has been ip progress almost constantly since the Legislature passed the law creating that tribunal. Howat has consistently refused to recognizee the court or obey its mandates. The Industrial Court law provides that strikes may not be called in industries producing commodities regarded as essential to the general welfare.

TOPEKA, Sept. 30.—Declaring that Alexander Howat and August Dorchy would receive exactly the same treatment that any other violators of law receive, Governor Allen today issued a statement in which he predicted that the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations would take no action in the case unless a prolonged strike of miners should create a shortage of fuel and endanger the public welfare.

DEMANDS CONFERENCE ON ARMS BE SECRET

Civic Federation Chairman Thinks Open Meeting Would End in 'Hot Air Talks.'

A protest against making the arms conference open to the public and the press has been sent to United States Senator Pat Harrison by Ralph M. Easley, Chairman of the Executive Council of the National Civic Federation. Mr. Easley believes that an open conference would be so restricted, because of talking for home consumption, that nothing would be accomplished, and the conference might break up in a row. Senator Harrison has been advocating an open session.

Mr. Easley also sees in the coming conference a parallel between compulsory arbitration in international matters and compulsory arbitration in the industrial world. In the big coal strike of 1903, in the United States Steel strike and similar troubles conferences between labor and capital were always behind closed doors, he says, because "experience had taught all leaders on both sides that a public meeting results only in 'hot-air talks' for home consumption."

He cites the industrial conference called by President Wilson, which broke up without agreement, and the second conference, which behind closed doors at least reached an agreement. The coming conference, he thinks, would be turned into a hippodromic debating society and result in nothing if open to the press.

DECLINES COLLEGE CALL.

Offer Was Made by Washington and Jefferson to Dr. J. R. Stevenson.

The Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., has declined the presidency of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa. This is one of the best known Presbyterian institutions of learning and was founded 119 years ago.

While he was attending last week the Alliance of the Reformed Church in Pittsburgh, to which he was a delegate, a committee of the Board of Trustees of the college waited on Dr. Stevenson and asked him if he would accept the presidency. Dr. Stevenson is an alumnus of the college and was brought up in Washington, Pa. His mother, 90 years of age, still lives there.

After deliberation, Dr. Stevenson declined to permit his name to be voted on, saying that he felt it his duty to remain at Princeton. Dr. Stevenson was for eight years pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, this city, and from there he went to the Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. He resigned from there about five years ago to go to Princeton.

GENERAL TRADE GAIN DURING SEPTEMBER

CREDIT SITUATION IMPROVES

Better Tone in Steel Industry and Sustained Manufacturing of Textiles Are Cited.

RAIL EARNINGS NEAR LEVEL

Advance in Cotton Prices Makes Credit Liquidation Possible—Money Conditions Easier.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—In its review of the general and business conditions for September the Federal Reserve Board makes the comment that "taken all in all, the month has been in the main a period of distinct encouragement and gives promise of better conditions as the Autumn and Winter advance."

Further decided improvement in the credit situation is presented by the Board as the noteworthy feature of business during September. It also calls attention to the better tone in the steel industry and the activity in the woolen industry.

"While attention has been largely concentrated on the agricultural side of business development during the month," the review states, "manufacturing has also continued to show a wholesome improvement in many lines. The advance in the iron and steel trade, first noted in August, has been sustained during the month of September in certain lines, notably in pig iron and light products, such as wire and sheets, in which price advances have occurred. Although orders fell in August, an advance has occurred since that time.

"Steady increase in the numbers of men employed has taken place. In this connection should also be noted improvements in the railway industry. The net earnings of Class 1 carriers for August were about $50,000,000, and on many lines the rate earnings are near the level taken as a standard in the transportation act.

"Textile manufacturing has been well sustained during the month, and the boot and shoe industry has been notably active in Districts 1 (Boston), 7 (Chicago) and 8 (St. Louis). There is still, however, hesitancy on the part of distributors to place forward orders, although a large seasonal increase in certain lines of wholesale trade, coupled with replacement orders, have resulted in advances.

Price Advance Continues.

"Prices continued to advance during August. The index compiled by the Federal Reserve Board for international comparisons registered an increase of two points over the July figure, while the trend during September also appears to have been upward. Declines in particular lines of business, such as livestock, are due to local marketing conditions. Employment, on the other hand, has increased only slightly, although the situation is better than at the end of August.

"The end of the harvesting and crop-moving season may tend to increase the number of unemployed, but such tendency is likely to be offset by growth in demand on the part of manufacturing industries. Railroads have begun to increase the number of their employes to some extent. This is especially noteworthy in the Far West, and is emphasized in the reports received from District 12 (San Francisco), where it holds true also of general public utility undertakings. The fact that building contracts have reached a record figure for this year promises larger employment in that direction during the Autumn.

"Financially, the month has been notable for the decided fall in German exchange, the mark at one time going below .9 of one cent. Easier money conditions have grown out of the gradual liquidation in the East and South, and two Federal Reserve banks have reduced their discount rate to 5 per cent. The shrinkage of bills held has been a natural outgrowth of the credit situation. Call money, as well as commercial paper rates, has tended lower."

Conditions in Cotton Regions.

The situation in the cotton districts is discussed at some length in the review.

"In the cotton regions," it is reported, "liquidation of credit has been rendered possible in consequence of the marked advance in the price of cotton, which has carried practically all contracts above 20 cents a pound. At the same time improvement in wholesale and retail trade has been expected as a result of the increase in the ability of the farmer to settle his accounts both with banks and with dealers.

"The greater abundance of funds in the cotton-raising districts is reported as having been reflected in larger wholesale trade. The effects of liquidation expected from the advance in the price of cotton have not as yet had time to appear in the condition statements of Federal Reserve banks. On the other hand, the advance in prices not only of cotton, but of other agricultural products, has certain indirect results. The textile industry has not yet bought freely of cotton at the new price level which has been established, but such mills as possessed a stock of low-priced cotton have attracted a considerable volume of orders.

"In the grain-growing districts the output has continued to move steadily to distributing points, and has also gone abroad in considerable amounts. This grain has been practically the heaviest on record. Heavy movements of livestock have also been noted, and prices have weakened."

CHINESE MERCHANTS BEGIN 11-DAY OPENING

Association Decorates Mott and Pell Streets in Honor of New Home—Welcome 2,000.

The eleven-day celebration to mark the opening of the new home and headquarters of the Chinese Merchants' Association, at 41 Mott Street, began yesterday, and last night Chinatown was ablaze with red, white and blue lights. About 2,000 Chinese merchants from all parts of the country are expected to attend, and many of them have already arrived. Sightseers and Chinese visitors filled the streets last evening and gathered around the new building, from which came strange music until late in the night.

The new clubhouse will be formally opened at noon today, but preliminary exercises began yesterday afternoon. More than 500 members and their guests gathered in the assembly hall in the upper floor of the building, where speeches were made by Gong Wah and Yee H. Kee, officers of the association, and by several of the visiting merchants. Last night the guests were feasted, and there was more speechmaking.

PLAY PRIZE WORK OF H. WALDO WARNER

British Composer's Suite for Piano, Violin and 'Cello Given at Berkshire Festival.

FANTASTIC AND ALLURING

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 30.—The chief musical interest of the second day of the Berkshire Festival was in the performance at the afternoon concert of the prize-winning composition of the year, H. Waldo Warner's suite for pianoforte, violin and cello. Mr. Warner, it will be remembered, is the viola player of the London string quartet that appeared here and in New York last Autumn and won golden opinions. A string quartet by him, based on English folk song material, when played, was found to show skill and a genuine feeling for the composition of chamber music.

Mr. Warner has had no thought of folk song of English or any other origin in this trio. There is no suggestion in it of the roast beef of old England. Its three movements are purely fantastic. The musical ideas are insubstantial, elusive, and the composer has sought rather for light, brilliant and aerial effects in letting his fancy play about and among them in obtaining novel and ingenious tonal combinations from the three instruments than for the statement and development of strongly marked systematic material, or even for the dedication of warmly felt or deeply poetical ideas.

He has written in this vein with skill and a light touch, though a sure one. He has kept away from the commonplace, and he adventures among unconventional harmonies confidently. The result in a piece that, whatever its lasting musical value may turn out to be, is alluring in no ordinary way; that invites the listener's fancy to follow the composer's not too far nor too high, and that may be characterized with the term "amusing" as the painters use it, in no derogatory sense.

This suite, of uncommon intricacy and difficulty in its demands upon the technical fleetness and precision of its executants, was brilliantly played by the Elshuco Trio, Messrs. Breeskin, Willeke and Giorni, whose performance was little less than a tour de force. It evidently was highly appreciated by the audience, and there was cordial applause.

Equal skill and equal devotion they lavished, with wholly different and far deeper issues, upon Brahms's lovely trio in B, opus 8, in the revision made by the composer in his later years, a performance of heartfelt and profound beauty, a supreme example of style in interpretation.

But the musical interest was not the only one of the afternoon. When the program was finished Mr. Rubin Goldmark appeared upon the stage and spoke to the waiting audience of the gratitude felt by lovers of chamber music toward Mrs. Coolidge for what she has done for the art in establishing the Berkshire Festival and encouraging the composers of chamber music by the offering of prizes. He contrasted its results with those of the aristocratic patrons of music—the Esterhazzo in Haydn's time and Prince Lobkowitz in Beethoven's, who invited only their intimates in Viennese society, while the Berkshire Festival summons its own guests from all parts of the country—and called it the application of her democratic principles to the most aristocratic form of music.

Now, those who had enjoyed Mrs. Coolidge's hospitality wished to leave with her a tagible evidence of their appreciation, and with that he drew away the cloth that covered a bronze tablet that had been placed upon the stage, intended to be affixed to the wall of the auditorium. The tablet shows in low relief on the left side a string quartet playing; on the right an ideal female figure representing the art of music. Between them are inscribed the words "Presented to Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge in appreciation of her many and distinguished services to music in America, and especially in commemoration of the Berkshire chamber music festivals which, as established and maintained by her, have become occasions of unique interest and inspiration to composers, musicians and music lovers throughout the world." The tablet is the work of the sculptor Emil Fuchs.

Mrs. Coolidge, who was evidently taken by surprise, went upon the stage and spoke a few words feelingly in acknowledgement, confessing her inability properly to express her appreciation of the gift.

The morning session was devoted to chamber music for wind instruments played by the Barrere ensemble, comprising, besides Mr. Barrere himself, flute, Messrs. Matthien, Van Amburg, Richart and Lettelier. Alfredo Oswald played the piano part in the pieces written with one. The highest point in this program was reached in Bach's sonata for flute and piano in E. Music of entrancing beauty, of contrasting tenderness, humor and incisive spirit, in which Mr. Barrere's art was never more entrancingly displayed, there were perfection of phrasing, of rhythm, delicate beauty and variety of tonal color, and Mr. Oswald seconded him admirably in his restrained and clear-cut accompaniment.

In Mozart's quintet for piano and wind in E flat, some may have wished that Mr. Oswald had given more thought to the qualities of the light-toned Viennese pianos that Mozart used and less to those of the modern concert upon which he was actually playing, and that the wind players had been imbued with a little more feeling for the rhythm and sauvity of Mozart's writing.

With these old pieces were heard new ones, a quintet by Leo Sowerby, the young Chicago composer, in three movements for wind in which he showed less mastery of his thought and of his material than he did in the striking piano concerto that was played in New York last Winter. "Dithyrambic Suite," for wind by Domenico Brescia, played for the first time, is a composition of considerable charm and individuality, but somewhat overweighed by the descriptive titles of the movements which the music hardly lives up to, a sarabande and minuet from a suite by d'Indy and a divertissement by Roussel.

Mr. Brescia is a San Francisco composer of the Italian origin and of middle age.

If any wondered how the Letz Quartet could compass Brahms's string quintet in yesterday's concert it should be said that the additional viola part was played by Hugo Kortschak, the first violin of the now defunct Berkshire Quartet.

ARBUCKLE CELEBRATES IN LOS ANGELES HOME

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—Roscoe Arbuckle's home in West Adams Street was ablaze with lights tonight. Limousine after limousine drew up, and groups of men and women entered. Arbuckle had come home from San Francisco.

The movie actors and actresses were paying their respects to him and to his wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, who also returned after five years' separation.

Arbuckle smiled the old smile, shook hands, thanked his friends and rolled brown paper cigarettes. It was a merry party, but there was no liquor. There was nothing to suggest the party in the St. Francis Hotel, after which Miss Rappe died.

MRS. VAN DER LINDEN TO ACT

New York Society Woman to Make Her Debut in "We Girls."

Mrs. R. A. D. Cort van der Linden, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cruger Hasell and a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Mason Jones, who in her day was called "Lady Mary" and who traveled all over Europe with a retinue of servants and was entertained at many Courts, has joined the already long list of society women who are going in for the stage or business. She will make her début this month in a new play, "We Girls," and will act the part of a society woman with cynical sayings. Her maiden name was Mary Mason Hasell and her stage name is to be Mary Hazel. She has devoted the past Summer to studying for the stage.

Her husband, R. A. D. Cort van der Linden, is a son of Holland's Minister of State, and is now studying music and composition in Holland. Mrs. van der Linden came over with Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Mengelberg. She has met with much opposition from her family in going on the stage.

Mrs. Cort van der Linden is related to a number of old New York families. Mrs. William E. Iselin is her aunt. She has been married three times. In 1908 she became the bride of George Borwick, a son of Sir Robert H. Borwick of London, an immensely wealthy man who made his money in business. George Borwick ran in the English elections, and the then Mrs. Borwick took the stump for him. In 1913 the Borwicks were divorced, and in 1915 she was married in New York to Adrian van de Sande-Bakhuysen, Consul General of the Netherlands, and a little later accompanied him to the East, where he was stationed at Singapore.

The next news of the erstwhile Mrs. van de Sande-Bakhuysen was an announcement of her marriage in July, 1919, in Edinburgh, to R. A. D. Cort van der Linden.

JOSEF STRANSKY RETURNS.

Philharmonic Conductor Is to Give Concerts in Europe Next Year.

Josef Stransky, the Philharmonic conductor, returned yesterday from Europe on the Holland-America liner Rotterdam, after visiting Holland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Bavaria, Switzerland and France.

In a statement he gave to the reporters at the pier in Hoboken, Mr. Stransky said that under his new contract here he would be active each season until February, and then his esteemed colleague and friend, Mengelberg, would take charge of the concerts.

He added that George Kugel, a Viennese impresario, had invited him to sign a contract for twenty concerts in seventeen European cities, beginning in the early Spring of 1922. One of these concerts will be in Vienna on April 23 next, when he will lead the former Imperial Orchestra. He said he had not appeared in Europe since 1912.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Ease Off as Call Rate Rises—Drop in Lire to Lowest Price Since March.

Irregularity prevailed in the stock market yesterday, quotations in the more active issues declining at the close, after having enjoyed a moderate advance in the early trading Once again the course of prices was swayed by the operations of professionals, who made the most of an advance in the call money rate from 5 to 6 per cent. in the afternoon as a basis for exerting further pressure against the volatile issues. This hardening of money actually held little significance, since time funds declined to 5¼-5½ per cent. There is no foundation for belief that a tightening up in credit is probable. Quite to the contrary, everything in the banking situation contributes to the continuation of easier money.

The industrial issues suffered to the greatest extent in the afternoon decline, the favorable reports as to business conditions earlier in the week having lost their influence. The stock market has undoubtedly been endeavoring for some time past to counterbalance, by price advances, the improvement which is taking place in underlying condition, but, naturally, there is no uniformity of opinion and this makes for irregularity, especially since the floor traders so completely dominate the situation.

The action of local traction shares was watched with interest in view of the announcement of the Transit Commission's report. There were conflicting movements in the securities, the stocks, for instance, showing some degree of heaviness, with strength evidenced in the bonds. The Interborough Rapid Transit 7s and the refunding 5s, together with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit 7 per cent. certificates, moved forward, whereas Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock lost 2 points and Interborough stock remained unchanged. The financial district is naturally not giving any snap judgments as to the transit plan, for it is one that requires mature deliberation.

In the bond market there was a reawakening of demand for the Liberty issues and weakness in foreign Governments. Several conclusions are possible as to the reason for the easing-off in the latter group, but probably the crux of the situation lies in the fact that investors at the moment are turning to domestic securities of the old-line type, and to new issues which are coming out, so that support for the foreign Governments is not so pronounced as some time ago.

The foreign exchanges for the most part moved over narrow ranges. Sterling gained three-quarters of a cent, with the quotation standing at $3.72⅝ at the close. Also a greater degree of strength was shown in marks, which closed at 85½ one-hundredths of a cent, as compared with 82¾ one-hundredths of a cent on the preceding day. Lire supplied the widest fluctuation, selling down to 3.94 during the day and rallying to 3.99. At the quotation of 3.94 yesterday, lire were at the lowest since they touched 3.84½ on March 22.

Trading in cotton diminished in volume. After an early decline, trade buying steadied prices and all options closed slightly higher for the day. The early break was brought about by further profit taking, but the pressure of hedge selling eased off as the day progressed. The market, in general price tone, indicated the waiting attitude which has been in evidence for several days in anticipation of the Government crop estimate. Further private estimates came to hand during the day, all of them indicating a much smaller crop than had been forecast in the Government report of a month ago. In grain, recessions were in order as heavy offerings were placed on the market.

Reports of the commercial agencies showed that slow but steady improvement was taking place in trade conditions throughout the country. "Summed up," says Bradstreet's, "it may be said that the domestic trade outlook has improved, not very greatly, it is true, but still enough to hearten the business and industrial community, while latest returns as to export trade indicate that a good revival of foreign buying, in quantity, if not in value, is visible."

MONEY.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30, 1921.

Money loaned at 6 per cent. just before the close, after opening and renewing at 5. This is highest rate since Aug. 18. Withdrawals by corporations to meet Oct. 1 requirements evidently caused scarcity in funds, resulting in firming of market rates. In time money brokers report few new loans being arranged, demand continuing light. Rates for all dates, both classes, dropped ¼ of 1 per cent. to 5¼@5½ per cent. Commercial paper is discounting unchanged, while the demand for bank and bankers' acceptances has broadened, but prevailing quotations still hold.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Paris and London Stock Exchanges Show Improvement.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Prices improved on the Stock Exchange today. Old 2½ per cent. consols, unchanged at 48⅝; British 5 per cent. war loan, ⅛ higher at 88¾; 4½ per cent. war loan, unchanged at 81½.

Rand Mines, 2⅜; De Beers Mining, 11⅝, both unchanged.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Business improved on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 5 centimes lower at 56 francs 15 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan, unchanged at 81 francs 45 centimes.

Exchange on London, 29 centimes lower at 52 francs 6 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 13 francs 99 centimes, against 14 francs 7½ centimes yesterday.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Weakness in Italian Lire the Feature—German and Mid-Continentals Higher.

The weakness in Italian lire featured the trading in the foreign exchange yesterday, sight checks on Rome getting down to 3.94 cents, the lowest rate since March 22. The market opened very weak, heavy offerings at the outset being reflected in an overnight concession in rates. In the afternoon the market turned firmer, remittances getting up to 4 cents, with a final of 3.99.

Sterling was active and higher, and after starting at $3.72 the rate advanced to $3.73, with a reaction to $3.72⅝, a gain of ¾ of a cent over Thursday's final. French francs were quiet, likewise Dutch guilders, but there was an uninterrupted advance in the German mark and mid-continentals. Slight recessions were registered in some of the Chinese exchanges, and the rupee dropped to 27½ cents, compared with 28 on Thursday. The Scandinavians were active and closed at an advance.

RESERVE BANK ENDS BONUS TO EMPLOYES

Economic Developments, Reducing Living Costs, Reason for Action, Gov. Strong Says.

The bonus which has been paid by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to its employes for the last three years, to enable them to meet the high living costs, will no longer be paid, Benjamin Strong, Governor of the bank, announced yesterday. The action was taken, he said, "in consequence of general economic developments during the last few months," in which the cost of living has been materially reduced.

Banking and other large institutions in the financial district that have paid "cost of living" bonuses since the inflation began have ceased such payments.

In a letter Governor Strong sent to the Reserve Bank employes he said:

"It will be recalled that when the payment of extra compensation was made on June 30, you were informed that the decrease in the cost of living up to that time justified a substantial reduction in the rates of extra compensation for the second quarter of this year. While you were then advised that the rate would, at that time, be reduced only 50 per cent., you were informed that 'in view of the present trend of prices, it is likely that the extra compensation for the next quarter will be even more substantially reduced, or entirely eliminated.'

"The officers and Directors of the bank have given very careful consideration to the relation between general business and living conditions and the welfare of our staff, and it appears that a continuance of quarterly payments of extra compensation is no longer justified. You are advised, therefore, that such payments are now discontinued and that no payment for that purpose will be made for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1921.

"The action announced above is the inevitable consequence of general economic developments during the last months, with which all of the employes are familiar. This policy, however, indicates no lack of appreciation by the Directors and officers of the bank of the splendid services which have been performed by all the members of the organization."

Standard Oil Renews Contract.

Cosden & Co. was reported yesterday to have renewed its contract with the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for 1922, which calls for the delivery of 120,000,000 gallons of gasoline and kerosene on the basis of the Chicago tank-wagon price.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Professionals Continue Bearish.

The professional element operating on the short side of the stock market became more active yesterday, and as a result a good part of the recovery of the previous session was canceled. There were numerous issues, however, which added to their gains. This gave the market, as a whole, a rather rugged appearance. The professionals, failing in recent attempts to depress prices by circulating rumors regarding the domestic situation and conditions in general, have turned their attention to the foreign outlook. By laying stress on European conditions, traders succeeded in depressing prices of certain speculative issues, but the more seasoned shares and stock of companies which are feeling the effect of the moderate business reival held firm. The coppers, steel and rails were steady or only slightly below the previous closing. Trading was of moderate proportions.

Lehigh Valley Active and Strong.

Lehigh Valley shares were unusually active and strong, an advance of 2⅞ points to a high of 57 being recorded on sales of 15,000 shares. This is an unusually large total for a single day's trading in a stock like Lehigh. The movement was founded upon reports in the financial district that the plan for the segregation of the company's coal properties would probably be made public next week. The plan, according to rumor, will be very favorable, from the stockholders' point of view.

Associated Dry Goods Dividends.

Directors of the Associated Dry Goods at their meeting next week are expected to declare the regular quarterly dividends on all three classes of stock, according to Wall Street information. This action, according to report, will be recommended by officials of the company despite predictions that the company's earnings for the current quarter will not compare very favorably with those of the corresponding period last year. It is pointed out, however, that with the improvement noted in business generally some improvement may be witnessed in the last quarter of the year.

Mid-Continent Crude Oil Advanced.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has announced an advance of 25 cents per barrel in the price of midcontinent crude oil, to $1.25 a barrel, according to private advices received in financial circles yesterday. The report, however, could not be confirmed by local producers interested in the midcontinent fields. The advance, if true, would not be considered surprising, as Pennsylvania, North and Central Texas as well as Eldorado crude all have been advanced from 20 to 25 cents a barrel within the last week. The recent advance in the prices of oil securities has been founded upon the expectation that oil prices would gradually work higher. Leaders in the industry feel confident that the industry has "turned the corner" for improvement.

Gold Shipments Lighter.

The gradual slowing up of gold shipments in the last few days has led some bankers in the financial district to believe that the end of the present movement is in sight, with the probable exception of the gold purchased in the open market in London. It will be recalled that there have been several slack periods in the stream of gold flowing toward this country, and indications are that one of them is approaching. A temporary cessation of shipments will be welcomed by the Assay Office, which has been literally "choked" with gold for several months. The weighing and assaynig of the metal is a slow process, and receipts have been heavier in the last few weeks than could be handled.

Month-End Settlements Near.

The tightening of call money to 6 per cent. yesterday afternoon was an indication of withdrawals of funds from the call market to meet month-end disbursements of all sorts. Interest and dividend payments, which fall due today, account for some of the dislocation of the call money market. A peculiarity of the market noticed yesterday was the dropping of the time money rate at the time the call rate was advancing. Sixty and ninety day funds were quoted at 5¼ to 5½ per cent., as compared with 5½ to 5¾ per cent., the former rate. Some good sized blocks of time funds are reported in the market at the present time, pressing for employment.

United States Food Products.

No decision has been reached by bankers as to the aid to be extended to United States Food Products. Daily meetings are being held by the Executive Committee with the bankers, and one of them said yesterday that the Monday meeting probably would be the deciding one, and that an announcement might be expected after the meeting. The corporation seeks $5,500,000, of which $4,500,000 will be to retire bank loans, the additional $1,000,000 to be added to the corporation's working capital. It is generally believed in the financial district that satisfactory adjustment of the corporation's affairs will be reached.

August Rail Earnings.

With the daily publication of the August railroad earnings rail managers are now enabled to base opinions of the trend of conditions on tangible figures. Fifty-nine systems in all parts of the country show net operating income of $27,461,000 for the month as compared with a deficit of $57,253,000 for the corresponding month of 1920. Those who follow the rails closely, however, consider that the most significant item of this report is the decrease of 44.6 per cent. in operating expenses for the month as compared with the figures of a year ago. The fifty-nine roads showed total operating expenses for August amounting to $138,849,000 as against $250,475,000 for August, 1920. Gross receipts were $176,839,000 for the same number of roads as compared with $204,681,000 for August a year ago.

St. Paul Outlook.

Improvement in net earnings, combined with the restricted purchasing policy followed for several months, is largely responsible for the good cash position of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Company, according to President H. E. Byram. It is understood that the road enjoyed an especially heavy wheat movement early this year, but this has now passed its peak. The company's traffic as a whole is shown to be slightly under that of a year ago, but traffic officials are optimistic for increased business during the balance of the year.

Piecework in Railroad Shops.

Railroad executives are awaiting with keen interest the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board on the rule of the national agreement with the shop crafts forbidding piecework in railroad shops. Many operating officials believe that this question is, at the moment, more important in its effect on the volume of work to be done in the shops than the scale of wages. One manager pointed out that if the roads were allowed to go back to a piecework basis a large number of men would be re-employed almost immediately. There is a belief that if the Labor Board permits each shop to decide individually on the piecework problem the chances are that many will vote in the affirmative. If, however, the board requires each road to take a ballot of the shop men on its entire system the feeling is that piecework would be refused.

P. R. R. NET INCOME SHOWS INCREASE

POLICY OF ECONOMY HELPS

Rail Operating Expenses Decrease $52,793,584 Compared With a Year Ago.

The August report of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, just issued, shows a net railway operating income of $6,678,612, against $4,880,247 in July and $5,683,502 in June. The August net is an increase of $45,326,911, compared with August, 1920, when the month's expenses included $23,906,041 back pay.

The system's gross income in August amounted to $58,175,539, compared with $41,231,622 in July. The August gross, however, was a decrease of $8,123,915 in comparison with August a year ago. Maintenance of equipment expenses in August amounted to $13,453,039, a decrease of $15,961,278 against the same item a year ago. Transportation expenses were at $23,984,708, a decrease of $25,188,952 compared with the same month in 1920. In July the Pennsylvania system expended $8,339,492 for maintenance of equipment; transportation expenses were $17,562,948. The total railway operating expenses for the month amounted to $47,373,206, a decrease of $52,793,584 compared with August, 1920, which reveals the result of the policy of economy the road has adopted. But the August expenses, being $14,015,869 more than the $33,357,337 reported for July, reflect the decision of the management to start its deferred maintenance and repair work on a larger scale.

	Aug., 1921.	July, 1921.	Aug., 1920.
Gro. income	$58,175,539	$41,231,622	$66,299,454
Total ry. op. expenses	47,373,206	33,357,337	100,166,790
Net op. inc.	6,678,612	4,880,247	*38,648,299

*Deficit.

The net operating income for eight months of this year was $22,702,814, an increase of $100,690,723, compared with the same period in 1920.

The statement of the Erie showed that August was the best month that road has had this year. The company reported net operating income of $845,000, compared with $553,222 in July. In August, 1920, the road had a deficit of $5,400,000. August gross was $10,351,000 compared with $8,503,539 in July. Net operating income for eight months was $1,121,000.

SHIPBUILDING REPORT OUT.

American Company Earned 32 Cents a Share on the Common.

The American Shipbuilding Company for the year ended June 30, 1921, reports surplus after all charges, depreciation and inventory adjustment and Federal taxes of $577,829, which, after allowing for preferred dividends, was equal to 32 cents a share earned on the $7,600,000 of common stock outstanding. In the previous year the company reported profits of $2,995,294, or $32.13 a share on the stock issued at the close of that year. The usual dividends were paid on the common stock, so that a deficit of $1,191,171 was reported after dividend payments. The detailed statement follows:

The profit and loss surplus on June 30, 1921, amounted to $11,363,320, compared with $12,821,424 at the close of the previous year.

ROYAL DUTCH PROTEST.

Petroleum Company Says Netherlands Tax Menaces Business.

Stockholders of the Royal Dutch Company have received from the company a copy of the protest which is being made against the increased Netherlands tax. H. W. A. Deterding of the company says in part:

"Owing to the recent important decline in petroleum prices this tax is appreciably felt and is seriously threatening our business. We already have been compelled to suspend exploitation on all such fields in the Netherlands Indies, where the cost of production, added to the present export duty and freight to selling markets, is higher than the price at which products transported from elsewhere can be obtained in these markets. We have likewise already been obliged to dismantle part of one factory capacity. Should the existing plan of introducing still higher taxes be even partially carried out, then further restrictions of our business in the Netherlands will be unavoidable."

SUGAR SURPLUS PUT AT 2,000,000 TONS

NEW CROP IS NOW READY

Although Price Is 2⅝ Cents for Cuban Product, Refiners Do Not Expect Large Movement.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company in a statement issued yesterday says that in spite of the reduction in the quotation of Cuban sugar from 3¼ to 2⅝ cents by the Cuban commission, no large movement of supplies can be expected unless further reductions are made. In the company's opinion the commission waited too long to cut its quotation, thereby permitting other producers to market their supplies, and the present reduction comes with the new domestic crop practically ready for shipment, while the period of heaviest consumption is past. The company's statement in part follows:

"Federal statisticians estimate that the carry-over in Cuba and the United States on Jan. 1, 1922, will exceed 2,000,000 tons refined sugar. Some 75,000 tons of outside sugars are still available for this market, the greater part of which will arrive this month. In Cuba there remains 100,000 tons not under the commission's control and nearly 1,000,000 tons under the control of the commission which are still unsold. Stocks of raws held by importers and refiners on Sept. 22 equaled 163,000 tons. The remaining balance of the Hawaiian crop reaches 100,000 tons. This makes a total of 2,038,000 tons, equal to 1,895,000 tons refined. To this must be added the new domestic beet crop, which, with the unsold balance of the old crop, approximates 1,000,000 tons, and the new Louisiana cane crop, estimated at 225,000 tons. This gives a total of 3,120,000 tons. From this should be deducted possible exports from Cuba and the United States from Oct. 1, to Dec. 31, which may reach 100,000 tons, and domestic consumption here of about 300,000 tons a month for the rest of the year. This leaves a carry-over of more than 2,000,000 tons.

"Our Cuban correspondent states that little is being heard there of a loan from the United States which would facilitate the Government's plan for the purchase of the remaining sugars, and that talk of a German purchase of 1,000,000 tons started with exaggerated ideas of the possibility of refining it there. A European demand seems far off at present; in fact, for over a month no sales of Cubas have been made.

"Home refiners in London, according to Federal's European correspondent, have reduced their price to 56 shillings duty paid, and buyers are hesitating to buy, fearing further reductions. Present weather in best-growing regions is very favorable, and there is apparently little foundation for reports of damage due to drought."

Asks Permit for $3,500,000 Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for permission to issue $3,500,000 in bonds for use as security for an advance of the same amount from the railroad administration.

List Canadian Grand Trunk Bonds.

The Committee on Listings of the New York Stock Exchange has admitted to trading Canadian National Railways, Dillon, Read & Co., interim receipts for $25,000,000 Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada fifteen-year 6 per cent. sinking fund gold debenture bonds, due Sept. 1, 1936, previously traded in on a "when issued" basis.

SEPTEMBER TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of September aggregated 12,806,604 shares, an increase of 1,800,037 shares as compared with the previous month, but a decrease of 2,510,133 shares as compared with the same month last year. The heaviest day's trading was 861,998 shares on the 14th, and the lightest 368,575 shares on the 1st. COTTON ADVANCES ON HEAVIER BUYING Profit Taking Continues, but Hedge Selling Diminishes in Volume.

The cotton market saw more profit taking yesterday, but hedge selling diminished in volume. On the decline, trade purchases increased, absorbing contracts and steadying the market. Increased demand for late months made its appearance, due in great measure to heavy discounts. Several private estimates on the season's yield ranged from 6,100,000 to 6,900,000 bales. Yarn manufacturers were reported to be doing more business at satisfactory prices. Final quotations showed an advance of 1 to 18 points.

Trading at the opening and throughout the session diminished in volume materially. Conditions were sufficiently conflicting in their influence to bring about further realizing before the report. The decline of three quarters of a cent in the last few days attracted support that took contracts from the market. Spot sales in Liverpool amounted to 20,000 bales, and as that market will not be opened again until Monday, uncertainty over the Bureau left prices steady. Private cable advices showed a much quieter tone in foreign circles, since both actual cotton and contracts were for sale in larger volume. Commission house realizing was a factor. Several houses liquidated cotton for foreign account. This filled demand, prices moving off 30 points until December sold below 20.70. January sold at 20.40, with March around 20.05, which was virtually the level from which Tuesday's rise started in that position. But October sold around 20.50, a cent above Tuesday's price.

Scattered Southern hedge selling continued, but pressure from this source was decidedly less than on the two days before. A large Southern spot firm bought heavily in December and January. The decline under weight of contracts had brought about a leevl where hedging could be done at less advantage, and this situation was reflected in smaller spot sales at Southern points. At the same time, a decline in December below 20¾ brought increased demand from mills, thus enabling some firms to cover hedges on a profitable basis. Commission house interests were reduced in the process of evening up before the final condition report of the season, and smaller volume of hedging operations left a much quieter market.

Rains over the cotton belt and frost as far South as Southern Kansas brought low temperatures in cotton sections west of the Mississippi. This increased market support on the decline and finally started a 30-point recovery. It was evident that any substantial decline in prices only served to broaden the demand. Many merchants reported more active demand for goods at levels that were refused ten days ago. With middling cotton at many Southern points selling above even the highest priced contracts in New York there was little disposition to oppose a rise after the recent liquidation. Room traders for the most part gave support, and when the scattered early hedge selling ceased helped to advance the entire list. January rose to 20.72. December selling back above 20.90 during the noon hour. A condition of 44.7 by a New York publication which gave an estimate of 6,929,000 bales, seemed to have slight influence on sentiment. This was attributed largely to the fact that last month estimated condition from the same source was about 6 points higher than official figures.

Movement of prices during the afternoon continued irregular under restricted trading. After advancing to about the high figures of the session a wave of selling ran the list off nearly 30 points. But again demand appeared below 20.50 for January and recovery followed. A speculative purchase of 5,000 bales of March influenced all months near the close. Despite the weight of contracts the list not only resisted pressure but ended the day at a slight advance.

Spinners' takings amounted to 235,000 bales this week, compared with 155,000 bales in 1920. Of this American spinners took 115,000 bales, against 84,000 bales last year. For two months this season takings have aggregated 1,909,000 bales, compared with 1,300,000 in 1920.

BUSINESS IMPROVES IN LATIN REPUBLICS

Reports to the Commerce Department Tell of Signs of Permanent Recovery.

CHANCE FOR EXPORTER SEEN

Government Urges Americans to Be Prepared to Handle Business Efficiently.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Business conditions in South America during September showed indications of a recovery which were regarded as having the earmarks of permanency, according to advices to the Department of Commerce made public tonight. As an important feature in the improvement, agents of the department cited practically complete withdrawal of the large amount of general merchandise which had accumulated in custom houses. Slight improvement in exchange conditions also had a bearing on the situation.

Although labor unrest was reported as a disturbing factor in some localities, the department summary viewed the situation so hopefully as to suggest that North American export houses "could make valuable use of their time by strengthening their export organizations." The statement added that the exporters here should be ready to handle "efficiently the business which they may properly expect" from South America.

German competition was said to be at work in Argentina, forcing lower prices. Fewer salesmen from North America were also said to be in evidence, with little foreign investment capital entering the country. Greater stocks of exportable commodities were reported on hand than a year ago, while exports of hides and wool to Germany were increasing. Lower prices for all raw products, however, were predicted.

The Brazilian market for chemicals, iron and steel and electrical goods was reported as showing continued improvement. The country's economic situation has been materially steadied by the increased demand for exportable commodities, it was added. Present crop indications were said to be less than earlier estimates, dry weather and cold winds having caused growers much concern. Exports of coffee to Holland and France were reported to be heavy. Construction work was described as active in all lines.

More optimism was felt in the Chilean situation than for some time, according to Valparaiso advices, which said the hope prevailed of a consumation of some sort of a deal between the United States and Chile which would send greater shipments of nitrate from Chilean ports. Chile's financial crisis appeared to be definitely passed, it was stated, although the foreign trade was still at a minimum. A general increase in the prices of raw products was noted, but capital was confident, the advices added.

A more favorable exchange situation for Peru has been produced by the increased activity of the cotton market, the reports said, adding that further improvement in that direction was expected. The official estimate of the cotton crop was given as from 10 to 15 per cent. below last year, with a notable increase in exportation. Peruvian labor was said to be restless, although the situation was well in hand. Wage reductions in several lines were reported.

Mexican prices for cotton, sugar, silver and the cheaper textiles ruled higher in September than the previous month, according to the review, which noted a slight but definite improvement in the general economic situation, with bank credits easier and railway conditions better. Demand for American-made goods was reported as light, although salesmen from north of the Rio Grande were said to be appearing in increasing numbers.

GERMANY'S SHADOW ON WHEAT MARKET

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A great deal of gossip is heard in grain circles over the foreign financial situation. While many are convinced that Germany will go bankrupt, there are others who believe that other European countries will not allow it to occur for their own sakes. In the meantime the demand for cash grain from abroad except at very low prices is practically non-existent, and local operators are generally arrayed on the bear side of the markets, and look for much lower prices.

In fact, sentiment at the last was so unanimously bearish that it would occasion no surprise if wheat rallied after an early break tomorrow. The late break in wheat was due to selling, induced by a report that 150,000 bushels Duram had been sold abroad at a loss of 7 cents per bushel. Liquidation was on early, and while there was a good rally at one time, the finish was 2¼ to 2⅝ cents lower on wheat, ½ to 1½ cents on corn and ¼ to ⅜ on oats.

With the September delivery out of the way and no further trading in daily or weekly indemnities after today, there was a disposition to look for a better market in all grains, as the belated selling by September longs has had a depressing effect on the deferred futures. There is no disposition apparent to buy ahead on the part of domestic consumers and the milling demand has fallen off somewhat, the upturn of 1¼@2½ cents in premiums on No. 2 red here today being due to extremely small offerings with a moderate demand. Choice grain sells readily in all markets, but the low grades are hard to dispose of. Consignment notices in the Northwest have increased considerably and much larger receipts are looked for at Minneapolis and Duluth next week.

Goodman's report on corn showed 3,187,000,000 bushels, or practically the same as the Government September returns, while the condition of 85.3 compared with the Government figures of 85.1. Last year's crop was 3,232,000,000 bushels. On this basis, the Government October report should show little change from last month. Further husking returns from Central Illinois indicated a smaller yield than expected, and confirmation of heavy damage from worms, mold and other causes were received from Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. The trade, however, is not inclined to attach much importance to the reports.

September corn at 46⅞ cents was the lowest at this season since 1903, while Kansas City September closd at 39 cents, or 1⅝ cents under Chicago May oats, which is believed to be a unique record. Country offerings of corn have dried up on the break, but the movemnt is liberal and in excess of present requirements.

The report on oats showed 1,086,000,000 bushels, or 4,000,000 bushels less than the Government returns of a month ago, and compared with 1,526,000,000 bushels last year. Average weight per bushel is 26.8 pounds, against 33.1 pounds last year.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,703,000 bushels; week ago, 1,730,000; last year, 1,691,000. Shipments were 1,558,000 bushels; week ago, 939,000; last year, 1,041,000.

Corn receipts were 1,535,000 busels; week ago, 1,101,000; last year, 1,167,000, and shipment, 424,000 bushels; week ago, 219,000; last year, 482,000.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Changes Are Few, Most Staples Holding Firm—Some Grains Lower

Wholesale markets generally are practically standing still as far as price changes are concerned, for of the list of staple articles in subjoined table but four showed any variation yesterday over Thursday's price. Slight recessions were noted in the grains, wheat and oats declining, and in the dairy products, eggs declined 1 cent per dozen, but the provisions, metals and groceries were unchanged, likewise printcloths. An advance of 10 cents per 100 pounds in spot cotton was the only advance recorded.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Friday, a week before and a year ago:

Member Banks' Demand Deposits Drop, But Loans and Investments Are Larger

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Aggregate increases of $178,000,000 in the holdings of Government securities, following the issuance on Sept. 15 of $698,000,000 of Treasury notes and certificates, together with an increase of $419,000,000 in Government deposits, representing largely book credits for notes and certificates allotted, as against reductions of $298,000,000 in demand deposits, largely the result of payment of customers' tax checks, are indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly consolidated statement of condition on Sept. 21 of 810 member banks in leading cities.

Loans secured by Government obligations show a reduction of $6,000,000 for the week; loans secured by corporate obligations increased by $13,000,000, while all other loans and discounts, mainly of a commercial and industrial character, show a decrease of $26,000,000. For the member banks in New York City an increase of $32,000,000 in loans secured by corporate obligations, as against reductions of $5,000,000 in loans secured by Government obligations and of $34,000,000 in commercial loans, are noted.

Holdings of United States bonds and Victory notes increased by $7,000,000; those of Treasury notes by $111,000,000, and those of Treasury certificates by $60,000,000, while the banks' investments in corporate and other securities fell off about $15,000,000.

The New York City banks report increases of about $2,000,000 in their holdings of United States bonds and Victory notes; of $46,000 in their investments in Treasury notes, and of only $2,000,000 in Treasury certificates, this smaller increase reflecting apparently the large demand for certificates by local corporate and other ultimate investors. Total loans and investments, in consequence of the changes noted, show an increase for the week of $145,000,000, of which $33,000,000 represents the increase for the member banks in New York City.

Notwithstanding the large reduction in demand deposits, the reporting banks were able during the week to reduce their accommodation at the Federal Reserve banks from $908,000,000 to $860,000,000, or from 6.1 to 5.8 per cent. of their total loans and investments. For the New York City banks a reduction from $206,000,000 to $130,000,000 in borrowings from the local Reserve bank and from 4.4 to 2.8 per cent. in the ratio of accommodation is noted.

As against a decrease of $298,000,000 in net demand deposits, the banks report a much larger increase, by $419,000,000, in Government deposits, this excess apparently accounting for their ability to reduce their borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks. Member banks in New York City report a decrease of $70,000,000 in net demand deposits, as against a gain of $180,000,000 in Government deposits and a correspondingly larger reduction in their borrowings from the local Reserve bank. Only slight changes are shown in time deposits.

Reserve balances of the reporting banks, in keeping with the large reduction in demand deposits, show a total reduction of $39,000,000, while cash in vault, largely Federal Reserve notes, fell off about $9,000,000. The New York City banks report a reduction of $4,000,000 in their aggregate reserve balances and of $2,000,000 in cash.

CONFEREES NAMED ON POST OFFICE SITE

PROTEST FROM TAXPAYER

Sees No Benefit to City by Removal of Old Post Office Building From City Hall Park.

The Board of Estimate held a public hearing yesterday on the question of exchanging with the Federal Government a site for a new Federal building, preferably in the vicinity of the Court House site on Centre Street, for the old Post Office building at Park Row and Broadway. After several citizens had spoken in favor of making the exchange, and upon the suggestion of ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, a committee consisting of Controller Craig, Borough President Curran and the Mayor was appointed to confer with the Citizens' Committee appointed by Postmaster General Hays to consider improvements in postal facilities.

Among those who appeared in favor of the plan were Postmaster Morgan, William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association, and ex-Governor Smith. There was one objector, Dr. Henry W. Berg, who said he represented a taxpayers' organization of 7,000 members. Dr. Berg based his opposition on the ground that no person in the city would benefit by the removal of the old Post Office building except the owners of real estate fronting City Hall Park.

Dr. Berg declared that fifty years ago, when the present building was erected, the city received $500,000 from the Federal Government for the site, and that at the present time the site was worth from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, and that the building could not be erected today for anything like what it cost when erected. Dr. Berg also objected to a new Federal building being erected near the proposed Court House on the ground that it would make the locality very noisy.

Ex-Governor Smith said he thought New York City had been lax in providing suitable surroundings for municipal buildings, and added that every small city in the country had done better.

"We muct protect this site down here," he said. "You might, say, dispose of this whole property for $50,000,000, and then move the City Hall over to Baxter Street, behind the new Court House. It is a business proposition, and should be taken advantage of. Within a short time you will probably have an application for a State building on a part of the site on Centre Street, whether we like it or not. Congress is likely to return that piece of land on which the old Post Office now stands to us. I would suggest that a subcommittee of this board be appointed to confer with the Citizens' Postal Committee on necessary legislation, to be introduced in Congress at the earliest moment."

Representative Albert T. Rossdale told what had been done in Congress and what the Postmaster General was trying to do. Controller Craig said that two years ago, when Major LaGuardia was in Congress, the matter had been taken up, but was dropped when he left Congress.

The board directed that condemnation proceedings be brought for the removal of the spur of the elevated road on East Forty-second Street, and a resolution was passed placing 75 per cent. of the cost on property owners in a zone between Second and Fifth Avenues and Forty-third and Forty-first Streets and 25 per cent. of the cost in a zone between Second and Fifth Avenues and Fiftieth and Thirty-fourth Streets, excluding the territory within the 75 per cent. boundary.

The board also passed a resolution to place the entire cost of building a boulevard to Rockaway upon the city. President Connolly of Queens said the city should bear the entire expense, as the improvement would benefit the entire city.

TO SELL $3,500,000 BONDS.

Syndicate Will Market Half of Phillips Petroleum Issue.

The Central Trust Company of Illinois, Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. and Hambleton & Co., have purchased $3,500,000 ten-year 7½ per cent. gold debentures out of a total authorized issue of $7,000,000 of the Phillips Petroleum Company. Associated in the syndicate are Dominick & Dominick.

The oil company made the following statement about the issue:

"The purpose of the issue is not to pay off indebtedness, which is very small and could easily be taken care of out of earnings, but is to capitalize, to a small extent, past earnings which have gone into properties instead of being distributed as dividends. The company has been fortunate during the declining prices in oil the last year to have had practically no inventory and therefore will make a very satisfactory showing as to earnings. Oil production and all other sources of income are at their highest point, notwithstanding restricted development operations."

The banking syndicate is expected to offer the issue during the early part of next week.

The Phillips Petroleum Company has paid no cash dividends on its common stock since the corporation's organization. However, a common stock dividend of 100 per cent. was paid Feb. 2, 1920.

C. W. McNear & Co. have purchased and are offering $210,000 Garden County, Neb., Court House and bridge 6 per cent. bonds, due serially 1932 to 1941, to yield 6 per cent., and $40,000 City of McCook 6 per cent. direct obligation bonds, due Oct. 1, 1941, to yield 6 per cent.

SECURITY OWNERS ASK DELAY ON RAIL PLAN

Board of Experts Now Studying Effect of Consolidations on Nation's Roads.

Delay in final action on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission with respect to the tentative plan of railroad consolidations was asked yesterday by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities until such time as the Board of Economics and Engineering, appointed by the association to make an investigation of the matter, has filed its data.

In a statement the association pointed out that "while under the Transportation act the plan adopted by the commission cannot now be enforced without the assent of the security owners, it does have a binding effect upon the railroads, in that when the commission decides upon a permanent general plan of consolidation no future consolidations of railroads can be made unless in accordance with such a plan." The association pointed out that the securities issued by the consolidated companies cannot be greater than the valuation thus made of the properties to constitute the new companies.

The association's Board of Economics and Engineering has undertaken to collect facts bearing on railroad consolidations, particularly as affecting security holders, and hopes to complete this work before the Interstate Commerce Commission takes final action.

S. Davies Warfield, President of the association of security owners and Chairman of the Seaboard Air Line, said:

"The outcome of the commission's attitude and action with respect to those consolidations is of far greater moment than is apparently realized from the thought generally expressed that it will take years for the consummation of any suggested plan. Consolidations to be effective must depend upon the free exchange of traffic and its economical movement from one section to another and from the interior to exporting points. Every community is concerned in seeing that its railroad facilities are not curtailed to an extent that may affect its advancement. Undeveloped territory is concerned, for too great a concentration of railroad facilities may adversely effect its development. The financial problem must find an important place in decisions with respect to consolidations, in that a disturbance of railroad credit and security values during a long period of public discussion should be avoided. Provision should be made that incentive and initiative which have built up the country shall not be impaired. It is hoped that no plan will be definitely approved until the Board of Economics and Engineering named by this association has prepared a report on the completion of its searching investigation."

FINDS BUSINESS BETTER.

Bradstreet's Says Lagging Markets Are Joining in Upward March.

The jobbing and wholesale trade, and, to a slightly lesser degree, industry, is expanding as commodities and markets hitherto lagging join in the slow, but apparently steady, march of improvement, and a few "good" reports now appear, says Bradstreet's in its weekly review of business conditions. Increased buying and slightly larger scales of output are reported in the pig iron markets as well as in finished steel products, the index figures of which, at last, mark a turn upward. Lumber and coal buying and output have improved, lumber reflecting the second largest monthly total of value of building permits in August, and good reports for September operations; the coal situation indicates increasing demand for fuel for both industrial and domestic purposes. The petroleum industry shows more strength in prices, advices saying that consumption has increased and imports have decreased, while stocks gained slightly in August, as against heavy decreases in all earlier months this year.

Reports from the late crops, except cotton, continue to improve, and corn, owing to the absence of frost throughout September, has been saved free of damage, except from molding, to an extent hitherto almost unknown. The really discordant note in this otherwise pleasing review of the week, it is said, is that which flows largely from the exceptionally warm weather last month, and is reflected in reports that retail trade continues to lag, this in turn bringing advices from a few markets that retailers have been backward in buying because of failure to move goods they had bought. It might be noted also that, despite reports of free selling cotton and of grain, collections are slower. Partial explanation of this is had in reports from some centres that much money from cotton sales has been used to liquidate overdue banking accommodation.

Dun's Review says: "The recent turn in wholesale prices discloses an excess of advances for the fifth consecutive week. While irregularity has characterized price movements in foodstuffs, a distinct upward trend has developed in some other commodities that were lately depressed, and cotton has maintained a position of strength. With raw material above the 21-cent basis, higher prices for cotton goods have not unnaturally resulted, and expectations of a further rise have quickened merchandise demands in some quarters. After many weeks of yielding, a recovering tendency has appeared in iron and steel markets, while a moderate increase in high prices has followed a period of expansion in trading."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The American Exchange National Bank has been appointed registrar of the Exploration Company of New York, Inc.

Miller & Co. announce that on Oct. 1 they will open a bond department at their Baltimore office, 7 St. Paul Street, under the management of George Thomas.

William J. Montgomery, Vice President of the Bank of America, will sail for Europe today on the S. S. Cedric, to be away for a month, visiting Belgium and France.

Frank A. White, formerly assistant manager of the securities department of the American Express Company, has become associated with Cassel, Nunes & Co., as manager of their bond department.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Advances Again Exceed Decline, With Some Foods Cheaper.

Greater resistance to commodity price yielding is a clear-cut feature of Dun's list of wholesale quotations, in which there appear 48 advances and 37 declines this week. Last week, 43 of the 79 changes were increases, whereas in this week last year there were 72 recessions out of a total of 82 alterations.

Trading in grain this week was fairly active, but was characteried by considerable irregularity. Despite sizable export takings, wheat was depressed by favorable weather, large receipts and heavy visible supplies, and the price movement in this grain was rather closely followed by oats, rye and barley. Corn fluctuated independently of the other cereals, with alternate advances and declines, but with the general trend downward.

Liberal marketings early in the week resulted in an easier tone in live meats, but buying subsequently improved and stronger conditions developed. Lard was very firm, whereas other pork products displayed a yielding tendency. Supplies of butter and cheese were about equal to requirements and prices of both commodities were well maintained, while steady buying was reflected in a further rise in medium grades of eggs.

The price situation in iron and steel continues somewhat irregular, but the markets, as a whole, are distinctly firmer and advances have recently occurred. Although there has been no appreciable increase in demand, the minor metals appear to be developing a stronger undertone. While quotations of hides show no important changes, a moderate rise has lately been witnessed, and higher prices for cotton goods have followed the sharp upturn in raw material.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

†Nominal.

All of the changes in the local provisions list were downward this week. Winter soft straight flour did not change, but there was a drop of 10 cents a barrel in Spring patents. Bacon and ham were also lower here, as was Middle Western lard. Live hogs did not change at Chicago, but lower prices were quoted on live beef and sheep, as well as on mess pork and shortribs.

The changes in the dairy products were fewer this week than for some time. Both fancy nearby and first-grade fresh gathered eggs advanced 2 cents a dozen, and the margins between the prices for both varieties and last year's corresponding figures are gradually shrinking. A rise of $1 a barrel in fancy apples and an advance in California prunes were all the revisions shown by the fresh and dried fruits. In the vegetables, cabbage and turnips were cheaper. Choice marrow and choice pea beans also dropped.

Increases in both grades of Brazilian coffees were seen, and several varieties of Japan and Formosa teas advanced during the week. Fine granulated sugar was cheaper. In the spice list Zanzibar cloves were higher, but a lower price was quoted for black Singapore pepper.

PUNTA ALEGRE DEFICIT IS PUT AT $4,547,756

President of Sugar Company Says Drop in Market Could Not Be Foreseen in Time.

The Punta Alegre Sugar Company, in its annual report for the year ended May 31, 1921, shows a deficit of $2,848,290, after providing for all expenses, depreciation and losses on inventory. Following payment of dividends on the common stock, and setting up reserves for loans and shrinkage in the value of material in warehouses, a deficit of $4,547,756 was reported. In the previous year the company had a surplus of $5,646,708 after such payments and allowances. The profit and loss surplus on May 31, as a result of last year's deficit, was reduced to $4,589,260, compared with a surplus of $9,136,016 at the close of the previous year. *Credit. †Profit. ‡Surplus. §Loss on sugar

President Edwin F. Atkins in his remarks to stockholders said in part:

"During the period the sugar industry suffered an unprecedented collapse, through the decline in price of raw sugar between June and December from 22½ cents to 3½ cents per pound, with a further decline later to 2 cents. Plans had been made, contracts let and work started so that full production could be obtained in order to take advantage of sugar prices which were expected to be considerably above normal. When prices started to decline it was too late, and impossible immediately to adjust production costs, as materials and labor entering into such costs did not decline as rapidly as the price of sugar. The Government of the United States chose at that time to increase the tariff on Cuban sugars to a figure representing an ad valorem duty of 80 per cent. and at this date it is impossible to predict the effect."

'PUTS' AND 'CALLS' DROPPED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—"Put and call" trading on the Chicago Board of Trade and on all the leading grain exchanges in the United States come to an end today. Trades made today will be honored tomorrow, and transactions in weeklies are to be permitted to run until maturity. The grain trade anticipated the Capper-Tincher bill to regulate the grain exchanges, which will become effective Dec. 21, and taxes purchases and sales of "privileges," "indemnities," "bids or offers" and "puts and calls" 20 cents per bushel, which is prohibitive.

Puts and calls can be traded in on the Winnipeg Exchange, and there may be some business sent from the United States to that market.

It is estimated that cutting out the privilege business will reduce the volume of trading in grain futures 20 per cent. Operators with small capital, who buy them daily to trade against, will have to reduce the volume of their operations, as they will be without the protection afforded by the puts and calls.

OPPOSE WAR MATERIAL TAX.

Farmers Assert It Would Prevent Their Getting Cheap Equipment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Opposition to the proposed tax of 90 per cent. on American war material reimported into this country was expressed today by the American Farm Bureau Federation, which said that adoption of the tax would prevent its members and those of other farmer organizations from taking advantage of low prices on necessary agricultural equipment offered by importers.

Great quantities of American farm machinery and building material has been offered to the federation at 50 per cent. of the wholesale price in this country, it was said, the Oklahoma's Farmers' Union and State Farm Bureau Federation being mentioned as among those which already have signed contracts.

Imposition of the tax, the statement said, would mean that the great saving would go to foreign farmers.

To Buy for Affiliated Stores.

According to an announcement made yesterday by Arthur Freeman, Managing Director of the Affiliated Retail Stores Corporation, the apparel buying for the basement departments of the twenty stores represented in the organization will, from today on, be under the direction of S. Solomon. Mr. Solomon has been associated with the resident buying business for the last eighteen years, and in his new connection will have charge of the purchasing of more than $10,000,000 worth of apparel annually. In addition to his new work, Mr. Solomon will continue to represent his other accounts in this market. His headquarters, however, will be moved from 1,261 Broadway to the offices of the Affiliated Stores at 1,372 Broadway. His present staff will accompany him in the change, and several assistants will be added. Mr. Freeman also announced yesterday that H. Langman and Daniel Schonkoss, both of whom are connected with the Merchandise Reporting Company, would become associated with the Affiliated Stores on Nov. 1. Mr. Langman will buy cotton goods, domestics, linens and blankets, while Mr. Schonkoss will buy silks and dress goods.

Gray Goods Do Well Again.

Gray goods had another good day in this market yesterday. Most of the buying was for nearby deliveries, but in cases where buyers could trade into the closing month of the year they showed no hesitancy in doing so. Among the printcloth business done during the day were sales of 39-inch 68-72s at 10¾ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents. Some trading in 38½-inch 64-60s was reported at 9⅝ cents, but the general asking price was 9½. In the narrow printcloths business was done in 27-inch 64-60s at 6⅝ cents. Among the sales recorded in the sheetings end of the market were those in which 36-inch 56-60, four-yard goods figured. Buyers paid 11 cents for them.

Effect of Spot Deliveries.

The buying operations of garment manufacturers have been modeled on the same lines as those of their customers, and the dress goods mills are called upon to make what are practically spot deliveries. The effect of this will be, so dress goods agents believe, that if an active demand springs up in the near future there will be no goods to be had, for the simple reason that the orders obtained by the mills did not warrant manufacturing much stock. A call for duvetyne has developed from the dress trade recently, and finds the mills, it is said, very poorly prepared.

Corporation Dress Goods Priced.

Prices announced to the trade by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, covering Spring, 1922, lines of the dress goods made by it show very little change from those quoted at the last opening. Excepting for two slight advances, both of which took place in semi-fancy goods, the new list shows no change from the one which preceded it. The new quotations begin at 50 cents a yard for No. 4002 36-inch serge. In the case of staple serges the list shows only one quotation exceeding $1 a yard. This is No. 8614 56-inch serge, which is priced at $1.05. No. 7614 54-inch serge is quoted at $1. Imperial serges range from $1.05 to $1.25 a yard, depending on width and quality. A 56-inch cloth described as "fine serge" is held at $1.42½. Vigereaux serges are quoted at $1.20 and $1.45 a yard. A 56-inch poplin, No. 9958, is priced at $1.35.

Hard Coal Demand Growing.

Every week sees some slight increase in the demand for most of the anthracite domestic sizes, Saward's Journal will say today, but the change is very gradual and promises to continue so until the arrival of cold weather gives a further impetus to the buying movement. The fact is that most consumers who can buy in advance have already taken in all or part of their Winter supply, or at least have placed their orders. Recent developments in the bituminous trade have consisted of spasmodic fluctuations in demand and price.

Advises Freer Orders.

Retailers of dry goods and apparel are overlooking possibilities in the present market situation, according to a statement made yesterday by A. F. Allison, Secretary of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, who explained that unless provision is made to meet the consumer's demand for lower prices the upward tendency evident today may result in a serious check to the volumes of sales. He advises the placing of normal orders for advance delivery, instead of continuing to buy only for immediate delivery to fill in. "Thus, instead of deadening the public's desire to buy by a series of sudden and radical advances," he said, "every time a new shipment is received, the advance may be gradual so that it will be readily absorbed by the buying public without protest. By taking advantage of today's low prices and averaging them with future higher rates, advancing production costs can be met, the retailer can maintain his volume of sales, and the stabilization of business and industry can be complete to the best advantage of all concerned."

Mid-Winter Millinery Week.

The week of October 17th has been decided upon by the Trade Development Committee of the millinery industry as the time for officially opening the mid-winter millinery season. This season was inaugurated as a result of the "four seasons in millinery" movement, and the wholesale opening will be followed several weeks later by the retailers. "Winter Hats for Winter Wear" has been adopted as the sogan for the mid-winter season. Special lines will be created by the wholesalers and twelve colors will be chosen for exploitation in these new models.

Advantage of Testing House.

The primary object in opening the Shanghai branch of the United States Testing House this month is to benefit the raw silk industry of that city and to pave the way for a large and better production of silk in China. It will also furnish a means for small reelers to test silk that would otherwise have to be judged by the export houses. From the standpoint of the American manufacturer, however, there will be a decided advantage in checking the evil of buying raw silk on chop that may not be up to the standard of that chop. Chops have been passed from one reeler to another regardless of ability to produce the same quality. The Shanghai testing house will be in a position to distinguish and separate the poor reelers from the good.

Fake Fashion Shows.

A warning against fraudulent promoters of fashion shows is printed in The Silkworm, issued by the Silk Association of America. The fine results obtained by the International Silk Exhibition convinced manufacturers of the value of such promotion work, it is pointed out, and at least one of them subscribed to a fashion show pageant to be held at Atlantic City. A contract was signed for a booth at $200. The first payment of $100 was acknowledged and the manufacturer was told that two models, at that time appearing in a Broadway production, would be ready to display his fashions. A letter was received later informing him of the postponement of the show, and as it was too late for his purposes the manufacturer canceled his contract. Efforts to locate the promoters were unavailing.

DRY GOODS HOLDS ITS PACE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods continues at virtually the same level as that of the last few weeks. Orders from salesmen on the road were about the same as last week and greatly in excess of the corresponding week last year.

"Customers in the market were considerably greater in number than during the same period a year ago.

LANDLORDS WILLING TO TAKE 8 PER CENT.

Preferable to Litigation for Statutory 10 Per Cent. Return, Says Counsel Richards.

TENANTS STRONG IN COURT

Outnumber Landlords 5 to 1 on Juries, Declares Former Municipal Justice.

Willingness of landlords to accept a return of 8 per cent. on the total valuation of their properties was disclosed in an informal statement made yesterday by former Muncipal Court Justice Edward A. Richards, representing the landlord in the case of Hirsch vs. Weiner, in which the Appellate Term rendered a decision allowing the landlord a 10 per cent. return on the present value of his holdings. When Samuel Untermyer was requested by the Lockwood committee, for which he is counsel, to render an opinion as to the soundness of the court's ruling, he suggested that the return of 10 per cent. should be based on the landlord's equity in the property.

"Mr. Untermyer," said former Judge Richards, "conceded that 10 per cent. upon the equity is proper. By the equity he means the difference between the mortgage and the present market value of the property. If I am correct in this, then the landlord, even under the concessions of the Lockwood committee, is entitled to about 8 per cent. upon the whole value of the property, and I believe that rather than litigate cases the average landlord will accept that return."

It was the expressed conviction of former Justice Richards that the landlord has at present lost actual control of his property as a result of the rent laws passed as an emergency by the Legislature and their rigid application by the courts. He said that the Legislature had placed control with the tenant, who determines what rent he shall pay. It further was pointed out by Justice Richards that the tenants outnumber the landlord five to one on practically every jury, so that at least in the courts the tenant has his day, and "when the landlord sues for an increase he has a presumption against him." Ex-Justice Richards added:

"The present law which makes rent presumptively unjust and unreasonable just because it has been increased is well-nigh ridiculous and is the law that is giving rise to so much litigation. Tenants have gotten the impression that it is unlawful for a landlord to increase rents. The Lockwood committee has asked us to submit a test case to the Appellate Division. This test case will not involve the proposition of whether the rent heretofore sued for was fair. For that is now conceded. The new case will determine whether or not an increased rent asked Oct. 1 is just and proper."

The statement from ex-Justice Richards, who is accepted as the spokesman for many landlords, came with no little surprise to members of the Lockwood committee. It was interpreted by some as an indication that the landlords are inclined to capitulate. The suggestion that the landlords are willing to accept a return of 8 per cent. on the total property valuations would in some cases be equivalent to a reduction of 20 per cent. in rents. It is the belief of members of the Lockwood committee that the landlords could be met more readily on common ground should they express a willingness to set the return at 7 per cent. Here the landlords would be met by the Lockwood committee, it is understood, in an effort to reach an agreement that would be acceptable to all sides. Nevertheless, the committee agrees that the matter should be thrashed out by a test case.

When Mr. Untermyer was asked for comment on the statement of former Justice Richards, he said that the statement had come as a surprise to him, and that he could not say how generally this attitude might be representative of the stand of other landlords. Mr. Untermyer repeated the warning contained in his report to the Lockwood committee that tenants, whose leases expire today, upon receiving a demand for an increase in rent should immediately demand a bill of particulars from their landlords, and where it appears that the landlords are exacting more than 10 per cent. on their actual equities, the tenants should pay at the old rate, pending a judicial determination of the entire question.

The Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering was resorted to yesterday by landlords and tenants in at least forty cases where disputes had arisen over rent increases. A large number of these were adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties. A survey made by this committee shows that there will be little moving throughout the city today, and the owners of moving vans are sadly recalling the good old days when tenants paid $100 and more to move their furniture a block or two.

5 GOVERNMENT EXPERTS HUNT NEW FARM LAND

Secretary of Agriculture Says 243,000,000 More Acres Will Be Needed by 1950.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Appointment of a committee of five scientists of the Department of Agriculture to consider the entire problem of land utilization, especially with respect to future requirements, was announced today by Secretary Wallace.

He suggested that careful consideration be devoted to the country's present crop production, home consumption and foreign demand. The suggested survey would include the arid lands of the West which are suitable for irrigation, swamp lands which can be reclaimed by drainage, and cutover timber lands. In studying the cutover lands consideration will be given to their possibilities both for cultivation and for reforestation.

The personnel of the committee of five is: Dr. L. C. Gray, Agricultural Economist, Office of Farm Management and Farm Economics, Chairman; C. V. Piper, Agrostologist in Charge of Forage Crop Investigations, Bureau of Plant Industry; Dr. G. M. Rommel, Chief of the Animal Husbandry Division, Bureau of Animal Industry; C. F. Marbut, Scientist in Charge of Soil Survey Investigations, Bureau of Soils, and E. E. Carter, Assistant Forester, Forest Service.

"Less than half the total national area is in farms and only about one-quarter of the total area is improved land," said a department bulletin. "Many persons, deceived by these facts, assume that there is an unlimited reserve supply of farm land. Such is not the case. By far the greater part of the 1,000,000,000 acres not yet in farms probably can never be used for the growing of crops, and that part of the reserve land which may be regarded as potential farm land can be brought into use only at heavy expense for clearing, drainage, irrigation or fertilization.

"The acreage of improved farm land per capita has declined at an ever-increasing rate since 1890. By 1950 the total population, at a normal rate of growth, probably will be about 150,000,000. This would require an addition of 243,000,000 acres of improved land if the present per capita acreage of improved land is to be maintained."

CEMENT DEALERS INDICTED.

Fifteen Firms and Thirty Persons Are Accused in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—Charging conspiracy in restraint of trade, to wit, a combination to fix the price of cement, the Hamilton County Grand Jury today returned a blanket indictment against a score or more of material and supply firms and individuals. In all fifteen firms and thirty individuals were named in the indictment. The indictment was the result of an inquiry into conditions in the building industry in this city, which extended over several weeks.

Louis Capelle, Hamilton County Prosecuting Attorney, stated after the return of the indictment that the firms and individuals named through their combination were able to control the purchase of cement in this market and to raise the price on this commodity 6 cents on every bag that was disposed of by them.

The indictment named the following: The Cincinnati Purchasing Company, W. W. Coney, Walter McCammon, the Cincinnati Sewer Pipe Company, Marsh-Murdock Company, Moores-Coney Company, Cincinnati Builders' Supply Company, M. M. Allen Supply Company, T. J. Hall Company, Ideal Supply Company, John Mueller Company, D. McCammon Brothers Company, J. E. McCracken Supply Company, Oakley Coal and Feed Company, Ruebel-Weaver-Koenig Company, H. Weber Company and B. H. Wess Grain and Coal Company.

The Grand Jury in its report recommended that a nation-wide investigation of the manufacture, sale and distribution of cement be taken up by the Federal Government.

Tenement Deals.

The five-story tenement at 212 East 124th Street, on a lot 18 by 100 feet, was sold by Sisca & Palladino for the estate of Max Lubetkin.

Sherman & Kirschner sold for Kahn & Rosen two six-story apartment houses on a plot 80 by 100 feet at 98 to 106 East 114th Street, containing fifty tenants, to a client for investment.

Morris Sax sold for the Realty Managers the five-story double flat house at 2,106 Honeywell Avenue, on a plot 37.6 by 100 feet. The buyer is an investor.

The newly organized 97 to 99 Avenue B Realty Corporation, represented by Goldfein & Weltfisch, purchased from Hyman Male the six-story tenement house with stores at that location.

C. Siegel, A. Karp and H. Weltfisch are the Directors of the company. The property has been held at $90,000.

Commercial Leases.

George A. Bowman leased for Shanley Brothers, Inc., the westerly store, size 8 by 15, in their building at 117 West Forty-second Street, to Jankowitz & Cohen, retail jewelers. The lease is for a term of years at a rental averaging $62 per square foot. This figure is believed a high mark for the street.

James S. Anderson & Company rented for the Lavanne Realty Corporation the store and basement at 102 and 104 Fulton Street to Goodman & Frey; for St. Peter's Episcopal Church the store and basement at 88 Chambers Street to Sloan & Walzer, and for William Jerome Toomey the store and basement at 9 New Chambers Street to Katsanis & Charos.

Henry Shapiro & Company leased for the Silmel Holding & Leasing Corporation store at 101 West Forty-sixth Street, for a short term at an aggregate rental of $15,000. The store will be occupied as a lunchroom.

Butler & Baldwin leased for a term of years the building at 351 West Twenty-second Street to Theodore De Jong. The same brokers leased for a term of years the store in the building at 807 Third Avenue to Armen Dogramajian.

The W & K Lunch Room Company, which recently leased the four-story building at 149 and 151 East Forty-second Street, 25 by 78, from Isaac Schulman, for a twenty-one-year term, will pay an aggregate rental of $349,331 for the property, the recorded lease shows.

Buying in the Suburbs.

The residence with one acre and a half of land, known as Woodside, on the west side of Ridgewood Road, South Orange, was sold by the Edward P. Hamilton Company for Mary MacMahon to Winston Paul for occupancy.

Thomas O'Connell sold the Ralph P. Barnett estate at Plandome, L. I., to the House and Home Developing Company for $37,500; the Walter Josephson house at Plandome Heights to Daniel Hutchinson for $30,000; one of the Rickert-Browne Westmoreland houses to William K. Nourse for $16,000.

E. H. Peck of S. Osgood Pell & Co. sold for Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Harrington the residence property 263 Washington Place, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., held at $16,500.

R. Franklin Hull sold for Frederick F. Gross colonial residence corner of Trenton Avenue and Whitney Street, White Plains, to Mrs. Katherine M. Hampton.

Bronx Dwelling Sales.

The two-family brick dwelling at 2,306 Morris Avenue, on a lot 18.9 by 117.6 feet, was sold by S. J. Taylor for George and Margaretha Friederich to Mary Hulsman and Margaret Wood.

James H. Cruikshank purchased from Rosanna Scanlon 36 Edgecombe Avenue, near 136th Street, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 17.6 by 90. Harry Sugarman was the broker.

The six-story building at 858 and 860 Union Avenue was sold by Simon Sindeband for Morrison & Cohen to M. Green. The property is 50 by 100 feet, bringing a rental of $14,500 a year. It was sold for $75,000.

Defy Building Trades Council.

More than 10,000 employes in the building trades, organized under Giovanni Dioguardia by direction of Robert P. Brindell, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for extortion, have refused to comply with an order of the Building Trades Council, insisting upon their early affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. The organization under Dioguardia is said to have been effected by Brindell expressly with the idea that it should not become part of the American Federation of Labor.

Connecticut Estate at Auction.

Hartlands, the residence on seventy-five acres of curved shore front at Saybrook, Conn., between New Haven and New London, will be offered at auction this afternoon by Arthur C. Sheridan at 3 o'clock on the premises. It is the property of Mrs. George Watson Beach.

BUILDERS BUY SITES FOR BIG APARTMENTS

Two Six-Story Buildings for Washington Heights to Cost $675,000.

ACTIVE BRONX TRADING

Investor Buys Seven Four-Story Apartments in Boston Road Held at $200,000.

As sites for two big apartments, two plots on Washington Heights were sold yesterday. The larger plot is in West 155th Street, 160 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue, and measures 140 by 100 feet on the north side of the street.

This plot was sold by James E. Barry, as broker, for Daniel Mahony, a former operator, who has now disposed of his holdings in West 155th Street.

The buyer is Samuel Lippman, a builder, who will begin work on a six-story apartment for sixty families, to cost $450,000.

Recently the North Presbyterian Church purchased the 155th Street end of the former home of the Washington Heights Branch of the Y. M. C. A., whose quarters had been swept by fire a short time before. The church now owns 200 feet frontage at this point.

The other transaction was closed by Jules Nehring, Inc., who sold for Joseph Murphy to the H. O. B. Realty Company, W. R. Harvey, President, the plot 100 by 100 on the south side of 177th Street, 100 feet west of St. Nicholas Avenue. A building loan has been procured for the erection of a five-story apartment house to accommodate fifty families.

Mr. Harvey has erected many high-grade apartment houses in that section. Weschler & Kohn represented the buyers. John Boyland is the architect. The entire transaction involves about $225,000. Jules Nehring, Inc., has been appointed agent for the premises.

Investors Buy Bronx Apartments.

The E. H. & N. Holding Company sold to an investor the seven four-story apartment houses at 1,155 to 1,167 Jackson Avenue, taking in the entire block front from Boston Road to Home Street, on a plot 232 by 275, opposite Morris High School. The property was held at $200,000.

Barnet Siegel sold to an investor the five-story house at 1,171 Bryant Avenue, on a plot 55 by 100, at the southwest corner of Home Street, held at $55,000.

Morris M. Tischner bought for occupancy from Valentine Berenger the three-story house on the south side of East 197th Street, 200 feet east of Bainbridge Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100. Max Silverstein, as attorney, represented the sellers in all the deals.

Dr. J. C. Stein sold to Harold Gass for investment the five-story apartment house with stores at the northeast corner of Vermilyea Avenue and 207th Street, on a plot 100 by 150.

Renting for $31,000 a year, the property has been held at $200,000. Max Silverstein represented the sellers as attorney.

The five-story apartment on the southwest corner of Macy and Ewing Place, one block south of the Prospect Avenue subway station, was sold by Israel Pearlman for a client of Philip E. Shapiro to Joseph Spektorsky.

The apartment, which is on a lot 50 by 95 feet, brings an annual rental of $13,000 and was held at $80,000.

The five-story new-law apartment house at 1,911 Prospect Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, was sold by Morris Sax for F. Landwehr to F. Schwintek, for investment. The property was held at $75,000.

120th Street Apartment Sold.

The five-story apartment house, on a lot 26 by 100 feet, at 66 East 120th Street was sold by Constance B. Washington to Ennis & Sinnott. The property brings an annual rental of $4,000 and was held at $25,000. Brown, Wheelock & Company were the brokers.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

AT A STATED TERM OF THE UNITED States District Court for the Southern District of New York, held in the Post Office Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 30th day of September, 1921.

Present: HON. MARTIN T. MANTON, U. S. J.; LUHRIG COLLIERIES COMPANY, NEW YORK COAL COMPANY, THE CLEVELAND-CLIFFS IRON COMPANY, BOB-LO COAL & SALES CORPORATION, COALBELL COAL COMPANY and AJAX COAL COMPANY, Complainants, against INTERSTATE COAL & DOCK COMPANY, Defendant.

On the petition of the above named complainants, duly verified herein on the 29th day of September, 1921, and duly filed in these proceedings, whereby it appears that certain creditors have signed the agreement of reorganization setting forth and submitting their claims against the defendant herein, and the amount thereof, duly acknowledged before a notary public, and that certain other creditors have not filed or submitted any proof of claims, and praying that the names of all creditors of the defendant above named and the amounts due them respectively should be ascertained and determined, and that a Special Master should be appointed for that purpose.

NOW, on motion of PENDLETON, ANDERSON, ISELIN & RIGGS, solicitors for the petitioners, it is hereby ORDERED that all persons, co-partners or corporations, who claim that they are creditors of the defendant or that said defendant is indebted to them or that they have a cause of action against said defendant, or who assert any claims against any property in possession of the Receivers, and who have not heretofore signed the aforesaid agreement setting forth the amounts due them respectively, are hereby required to present and file, on or before the 12th day of October, 1921, written statements or proofs of their claims setting forth the amount thereof, duly acknowledged before a notary public, at the office of PENDLETON, ANDERSON, ISELIN & RIGGS, solicitors for the Receivers, at No. 25 Broad Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York, and it is further

ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that all such creditors or claimants, who fail so to file such statement or proof of claim on or before the said day aforesaid, shall not thereafter be permitted to assert any claim whatsoever against the assets of the defendant or the property in the possession of the Receivers, or to share in any distribution of the proceeds thereof, and it is further

ORDERED that on or before the 1st day of October, 1921, a copy of this order shall be sent by mail postpaid addressed to each and every person, co-partnership or corporation, who appears upon the books of said defendant as a creditor or claimant against said defendant or against any property in its possession and who has not signed the agreement aforesaid setting forth a statement of his claim, at the respective claimant's or creditor's address as shown upon the books of said defendant, or as such address may be otherwise ascertained by the Receivers or their attorneys, and that a copy of this order be published twice in The New York Times, a newspaper published in the City of New York, said publication to commence within five days from the date hereof, and it is further ORDERED that George V. S. Williams of 45 John St., New York City be and he hereby is appointed Special Master in this cause to consider and pass upon all and any claims set forth and submitted in the agreements heretofore signed by creditors as hereinbefore set forth or filed pursuant to the provisions of this order, to the allowance of which the said Receivers or any party in interest shall file objections with the said Special Master on or before the 15th day of October, 1921. In the event that any objection is so filed, the Special Master shall give to the person, co-partners or corporations so objecting and to the holders of the claims objected to, such notice of hearing upon such contested claims as may seem to him fair and proper, and the said Master shall report to this Court with all convenient speed the evidence and proceedings taken and had before him, together with his opinion thereon, concerning the allowance or disallowance in whole or in part of any and all contested claims, and shall file with his report a list of all persons, co-partnerships or corporations holding uncontested claims against the said defendant, and the amount thereof.

GOLF CLUB BUYS TRACT.

Acquires $1,000,000 New Rochelle Property for Golf Course.

Formal announcement was made yesterday that the Winged Foot Golf Club, composed of members of the New York Athletic Club, had purchased a 280-acre tract at New Rochelle, known as Wykagyl Park. The club will lay out a thirty-six-hole golf course, the largest in the East, and will have a handsome clubhouse constructed.

The property was sold by Earle & Calhoun, brokers, for the Armstrong Realty Company. The holding price was approximately $1,000,000. The deal has been under way for several months.

This parcel of land is one of the most picturesque in Westchester County. It contains two beautiful lakes and adjoins the Wykagyl Country Club, as well as the residential developments of Beechurst, Wykagyl Park and Lyncroft. Handsome residences surround the ground, on which will be laid out the double eighteen-hole championship course. A. W. Tillinghast, the golf course architect, has been engaged to lay out the links and supervise their construction.

Only members of the New York Athletic Club are eligible for membership in the Winged Foot Golf Club. Applications are coming in so fast that it is expected 600 members will soon be enrolled and the lists closed.

The tract was selected by the Golf Committee of the New York Athletic Club, which has 7,000 members. The Wykagyl Park tract was chosen because of its excellent topographical features as a golf course, and also because of the fact that it is within ten minutes of the New York Athletic Club's property at Travers Island.

The purchase of this tract is one of the largest realty transactions in many months. The Armstrong Realty Company has contracted to build the golf course and erect a substantial clubhouse.

Brooklyn Buyers.

Property in the Marlboro section of Brooklyn was sold by William E. Harmon & Co., as follows: Southwest corner of Avenue O and West Sixth Street, to Joseph Berger; southwest corner of West Third Street and Avenue Q, to Benjamin Kramer; a plot on West Second Street, near King's Highway, to Francesco Mirabile; one on West Second Street, near Avenue P, to James A. McHugh; one on West Second Street, near Avenue Q, to A. Dimattia; one on West Third Street, near Avenue O, to Charles Mirabile, and a plot on West Fourth Street, near Avenue P, to George A. Sampson; A. H. Ronci, R. Dweck and Catherine Woods.

The Henry L. Nielsen Offices sold the property at 506 Warren Street and 194 Nevins Street, consisting of two stores, for George E. O'Donnell to Lorenzo Ambrosio.

$260,000 in Mortgage Loans.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell placed a building and permanent loan of $160,000 at 6 per cent. for ten years on the northeast corner of Webb Avenue and Kingsbridge Road, for the Harding Construction Company. A five-story apartment house will be erected on a plot 130 by 100 and will contain fifty-seven apartments and seven stores.

William A. White & Sons placed for Harry Baron and associates a first mortgage building and permanent loan for $100,000 at 6 per cent. interest, for ten years, for the erection of a four-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Ocean Parkway and Ditmas Avenue, Brooklyn. The house will contain 144 rooms and 40 baths. The loan was taken by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

PET CHOW GOES MAD, 7 PERSONS BITTEN

KILLED BY A POLICEMAN

Catholic Sister of 68 Fights Animal After Attack—Had Virulent Form of the Rabies.

A pet chow weighing about ten pounds spread terror through an area of ten miles in Jersey City yesterday and bit seven persons before it was killed in the kitchen of St. Mary's Catholic Home for Working Girls in York Street near Washington Street, after a policeman, a Sister and a cook had been bitten there. The head of the dog was taken to the Willard Parker Hospital here, where it was said that the dog suffered from rabies.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. J. W. Stewart of 199 Ocean Avenue, in the Greenville section on the west side of Jersey City, reported to the police that "Yogo," her pet chow, had broken its leash while in a distemper in her home, and escaped to the street. She asked that a warning be sent out, as she feared that it might do harm.

Several detectives in an automobile hunted for the chow, but it was not until 7 o'clock that evening that the dog again made its appearance. Then a report ws received at Police Headquarters that a chow, wearing a brass studded collar and a harness, had attacked John Hoerter of 167 Persall Avenue at Pearsall and Ocean Avenues, in the Greenville section.

The dog dashed into a crowd of children and when Hoerter attempted to drive it off the dog sprang at him and sunk its teeth in Heerter's right arm. Hoerter beat the animal off, and half an hour later "Yogo" sprang on Raymond Dindley, 14 years old, of 307 Ocean Avenue, while he was playing at Ocean and Von Nostrand Avenues, and bit him in the left side.

By that time policemen and detectives with drawn pistols had started in pursuit of the chow, but it disappeared and nothing more was heard until 6:30 yesterday morning. William Bracking of 332 Forrest Street was on his way to work at Washington and Susex Streets, about four miles from the Greenville section, when he saw the dog running through the street. Bracking said that he realized the dog was valuable, and called to it. The chow ran back to him, but when Bracking attempted to pick it up, bit him on both wrists. Then it ran off, but four hours later attacked Michael Carden, 16 years old, of 52 Sussex Street, at Washington and Grand Streets. The dog clung to the boy's left leg with his jaws, but broke away at the approach of Policeman Gannon and a crowd of men and boys armed with clubs and sticks.

The dog ran up Grand Street to York Street, closely followed by Gannon, and then darted into the yard of St. Joseph's Home for Catholic Children, a few feet from the corner. Gannon tried to corner the chow, but it darted into the basement of St. Mary's Home, which backs on the other institution, and made its way to the kitchen, where Sister Mary Frances, 68 years old, and Mary Ryan, a cook, were at work.

Before the policeman could shout a warning the dog bit the cook on the left arm, and when the Sister fearlessly undertook to grab the animal it sprang and bit her on the face. Gannon had got within reaching distance, and when he attempted to corral the maddened animal he, too, was bitten on the face. He drove the chow into a corner and sent a bullet through its body.

"Throw Away Your Hammer and Get Out Your Horn"

BUSINESS is good with Babe Ruth and business is good with me. Last year when "Babe" set up a New Record, some of the wise ones said he couldn't beat it this year—but he did—and so have I!

About a month ago in Chicago the Pageant of Progress originated a slogan which I think ought to be adopted by the World's Chamber of Commerce and sent around the circuit. If Babe Ruth wasn't busy with the Yanks I know he'd get behind it and lift it over an infield of Gloom. It made a hit. Here it is:—

"Throw away your Hammer and get out your Horn"

Well, just to start the ball rolling, you can tell the world that from January 1st to July 1st this year, I did more business than the first six months of last year—and last year was the best year I ever had—and during the month of July, 1921, I sold more hats than in July and August put together last year.

I made a New Record for September, 1921. During the first fifteen days of September this year I sold 25,000 more felt hats than I did for the first fifteen days of September last year, and last September was the biggest month I ever had.

Now, I'm not conceited enough to think that I'm the only man in the U. S. A. doing business this Fall—but why keep success a secret when the pessimists are spreading gloom all over the business world?

I don't claim to be in Napoleon's class. I don't "Make Circumstances." I make Hats. But I can make a Hat—and make a Price that will make it sell under all circumstances—and so can any other merchant who is willing to give more and keep less.

I don't know whether the Stock Market is going up or down—and I don't care. I don't know much about the conditions in Russia. I'm not losing any sleep about Japan—and I'm not worrying about Germany.

All I know about these things is what I read in the papers, and if I didn't read the papers, I wouldn't know anything about this so-called "present business depression."

What I do know is that anyone who has something the Public wants and who gives the Public a Square Deal and a good run for the money, can do business in the U. S. A. in the Fall of 1921. That's why BUSINESS IS GOOD WITH BABE RUTH AND BUSINESS IS GOOD WITH ME!
